One Dollar Per Year

The New Year—Something for Everyone

A new college year is dawning at Elizabethtown.

With it come the challenges, the opportunities, the joys, the despairs, and the ever-present problem of meeting the rigorous test of plain hard work.

We have already established one record this year: the highest enrollment in the school's history. Another is in the immediate offing: the completion of a new dormitory, which will give us our biggest physical plant.

The new term has something for everyone connected with the college: administrators, faculty members and students, both new and old.

Administrators will have the opportunity to see how their carefully laid plans work out in actual practice. They must recognize and deal with the problems of giving students a well-balanced program of educational, spiritual and social training, all of which are prime aspects of college life. They will have to cope with the changes that are forcing a re-casting of outmoded educational theories. These are their greatest challenges.

Faculty members will again be looked upon by students either as counselors, tyrants, or in some cases friends, as they lead, guide, or prod their classes toward the truth, as they know it.

Upperclassmen must assume their natural roles of campus leaders as they strive for the success of all activities undertaken by the college during the year. Theirs is the responsibility of demonstrating to freshmen what college life should be. That is no slight obligation.

Freshmen, as part of the largest first-year class in the history of the college, have their own deep responsibilities. They must have the will to buckle down, to get in step with the school's ideals, and to be a credit to their college, themselves and the people back home.

The year lies before us; the challenges are waiting. We have what it takes to succeed, if we will use it.

Let us move forward resolutely and with confidence.

Dr. Baugher Chosen Brethren Moderator

Dr. A. C. Baugher, college president, was elected moderator of the Church of the Brethren during the June conference of the church in Eugene, Ore. He will hold his office during the 1956-1957 church year and preside over next year's conference to be held at Richmond, Va.

The position of moderator is the highest honor the Church of the Brethren can bestow.

X-ray Unit on Campus Friday, September 28

Chest X-rays, mandatory for all freshmen and juniors, will be offered on campus from 9 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. Friday, September 28, according to an announcement by the administration.

Sophomores and seniors are urged to take advantage of the service for their own protection. All upperclassmen may register for the X-ray at class registration time.

The service is also available to factory, maintenance personnel.

The charge for the X-ray is one dollar.

Dr. Roy McAuley Named College Dean; Has Academic, Religious Background

Dr. Roy McAuley, 35, whose background includes both educational and religious training, has been appointed dean of Elizabethtown college, according to an announcement by A. C. Baugher, college president.

He succeeds Dr. Henry G. Bucher, who resigned to accept a position as superintendent of the Manheim Central schools.

Dr. McAuley comes to Elizabethtown from Northern State Teachers college at Aberdeen, S. D., where he worked in the public relations and general semantics fields. Prior to that he taught English and education at McPherson college, Kan.

His church work ran concurrently with his academic endeavors. While a senior at McPherson, he became pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Wichita, Kan. Upon moving to Omaha he became pastor of the Brethren church there.

When he returned to McPherson as a professor, he assumed a charge with the Monitor Church of the Brethren.

Dr. McAuley's post high school education began at McPherson college where he was graduated with a B.S. degree with a major in biology and an English minor. He later received his B.D. degree from Bethany Seminary with a major in religious education.

His Master's degree was conferred by the Municipal University of Omaha. His major there was English Literature, his minor, psychology.

Dr. McAuley received his Doctor's degree from the University of Denver in the field of higher education. His dissertation was entitled "Some Factors of Success and Stability in Selected Church-Related Colleges."

Dr. Roy McAuley

John C. Zug, Library Benefactor, Dies at 90

Elder John C. Zug, the man for whom the Zug Memorial Library was named on campus, died recently at the Neffsville Brethren Home following a brief illness. He was 90.

An active member of the Church of the Brethren, he was a prime contributor to the college library construction fund. Mr. Zug formerly lived in Palmyra.

Governor George Leader to Receive Law Degree At 56th College Convocation Ceremonies Friday

The Hon. George Leader, Governor of Pennsylvania

Record Enrollment to Saturate Campus; 200 Freshmen On Hand

The largest freshman class in the history of Elizabethtown arrived on campus today to launch the 56th year of college activities, one that will see the total enrollment reach a record 575, with the arrival of the upperclassmen Thursday.

Two hundred freshmen were accepted from a list of 350 applicants. Other newcomers to the campus included 35 transfer students.

The record enrollment is in line with national trends as colleges and universities everywhere are preparing to handle an ever-swelling tide of students.

Seniors will be received on Tuesday, September 25. Pouring will be Mrs. Roy McAuley and Mrs. Franklin Stump.

On Wednesday, September 26, junior classmen will be entertained. Mrs. Clarence Enterline and Mrs. Jessie Cosner will preside at the tea table.

Members of the sophomore class will be honored on Thursday, September 27. Miss Emma Engle and Mrs. Doris Lewis will pour.

Illness Fatal to Norman Bowers

Norman H. Bowers, 24, of Lansdale, died on August 13, following an illness of three and one-half years at the home of his parents the Rev. Norman L. and the late Elizabeth Herr Bowers.

A member of the Salunga Church of the Brethren, Bowers was graduated from East Hempfield High School in 1950 and from Elizabethtown college in 1954. He was president of the Student Association during his senior year at the college. He was also an active member of the Political Science Club.

Besides his father, he is survived by his stepmother, Marion E. Bowers and two brothers, Kenneth L., a sophomore at Elizabethtown college, and Wesley E., at home.

Evening Schedule for Freshman Week

members and is planning increases in the physical facilities of the campus. The first of these enlargements to be completed will be the new girls' dormitory, which is expected to be ready for use by the end of the first semester, late in January, 1957.

During freshmen week the newcomers will go through a planned set of tests designed to assist advisers in properly placing the new students academically.

An address by George M. Leader, governor of Pennsylvania, will climax the observance of Charter Day and the beginning of the 56th year of academic pursuits at Elizabethtown Friday, September 21, at 10:30 a. m. in the gymnasium.

Governor Leader will address an all-college assembly following his receipt of an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws to be conferred by President A. C. Baugher on behalf of the college.

The citation accompanying the degree will be read by Dean Roy McAuley.

Charter Excerpts

Prior to Governor Leader's address, J. W. Kettering, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will read selected excerpts from the charter granted to the college September 23, 1899.

An academic procession will open the program with members of the faculty and administration taking part. The invocation will be offered by N. S. Sellers, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees. The Rev. Carl W. Ziegler, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Lebanon, will read the Scripture lesson.

Following his appearance at the collége, Governor Leader will be the guest of the Board of Trustees and their wives at a luncheon in Hershey.

Classes Telescoped For Fall Convocation

On Friday all regularly scheduled morning classes will be conducted between 7:40 a. m. and 10:25 a. m. Convocation exercises necessitate a condensed morning class schedule in order for the professors to meet all their classes.

Also Monday and Wednesday classes, which will meet hereafter between 9:30 a. m. and 11:00 a. m., are to meet this first Friday.

All classes which ordinarily would meet on Fridays between 12:20 and 4:00 will meet this Friday between 1:30 and 4:00.

Space Lecture Opens Community Program Series October 8

Five programs in the Community Program Series during the school year will take those in attendance on a trip through space, to Germany, and to Illinois in the days of Abraham Lincoln.

Two musical programs will feature a Metropolitan Opera soprano and a concert by the Westminster Choir.

The series is sponsored jointly by the college and the Patton School for Boys.

First of the programs, entitled THE PATH TO THE PLANETS, is scheduled for October 8 in the college auditorium. It will feature a discussion of space travel and man's eventual exploration of the universe by Arthur C. Clarke, former chairman of the British Interplanetary Society.

Gerhart Seger, who escaped the Nazis to become an American citizen, will lecture of GERMANY: PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE, November 1.

Musical reminiscences will be offered by Metropolitan Opera soprano Mme. Jarmila Novotna, December 4. A second musical program, a concert by the Westminster Choir, is scheduled for February 23.

The series concludes April 25 with a lecture on Abraham Lincoln by George J. Lehrer.

Students will be admitted to all programs without charge upon presentation of their student activities book.

Etownian Objectives

Throughout the school year now upon us, we, the members of the ETOWNIAN staff, will adhere to a simple set of guiding principles in publishing this newspaper. These are our objectives:

To reflect clearly and accurately the tempo of all campus activities and the general attitudes of the student body.

To encourage constructive thinking.

To promote the well-being of all students and campus organizations within the bounds of practicality.

To speak independently and offer both praise and constructive criticism where and when needed.

To be the voice of all campus organizations, the publicity agent behind college-sponsored campaigns, and the organ of recognition for all deserving members of the student body, alumni, faculty and administration.

To strive for journalistic perfection in order to give the college a newspaper in which all concerned can take just pride.

We accept these principles with a full knowledge of our responsibilities in writing this newspaper. You may be assured that we will follow them conscientiously in every edition.

We welcome your opinions, criticisms and/or gripes. This, after all, is your college newspaper. We intend to give you the best we can.

A Lesson in Geography

The importance of geography in world affairs has never been more clearly demonstrated than during the present crisis centering on the Suez Canal.

The strategic location of the canal has been coupled with a pull on Arab nationalism to give Egyptian President Nasser a position among the political giants of the world today.

Nasser, by virtue of his unique weapons, has so far been able to bargain with and embarrass nations which are far stronger militarily and economically. How long he will be able to get away with his game remains a question that no one seems able to answer.

The Western powers have apparently decided to use the subtle but influential weapons of moral force and economic sanctions against him.

Of the two, the economic squeeze is certain to be most effective because Egypt's financial status is anything but sound. Her cotton crop, the prime source of national income, is mortgaged to Russia for years in payment for Communist arms.

There are those in the West who still insist that Nasser is essentially friendly to us. They assert that he has the attributes of a great leader, one able to lift his nation to a better way of life with our help. His main difficulty, they say, is youth and inexperience in dealing with world problems.

They urge the Western Powers to go slow in dealing with Nasser lest they push him into the arms of the Communists.

Rash and inexperienced though he may be, Nasser poses a knotty and dangerous problem for the West.

No one can deny that he is an opportunist of the first order.

A Long, Hard, but Worthwhile Climb

Open Letter to Freshmen—

Dear Freshmen:

Now that you've had a chance to see the campus and get that first anxious taste of college life let us bid you welcome and urge you to relax and be at ease in your new surroundings.

Actually, you haven't yet savored what college life is really like. That experience comes only with time and only to those who allow themselves to be taken up by the current of college environment.

These first few days of tests, teas, and more tests will naturally be a bit unsettled for you. Perhaps you're a bit frightened (not openly, of course) that you won't show too well in comparison with your classmates. Don't worry. You've got what it takes to make a go of things, if you'll dig down and use it.

You wouldn't be here if you weren't qualified.

You'd be surprised if you knew how many high school graduates are uncertain about how they'll fare in college. And they have a point.

After all, there is a vast difference between high school and college, not only in the courses of study, but in the degree of responsibility the student must assume.

You may have heard it all before, but take it from those of us who've been going to college for several years, you must have a will to work and buckle down if you want to succeed here.

It won't be all work. There'll be plenty of time for fun and relaxation with the new friends and acquaintances you'll make here. But above all, this a place where time, money and effort are exchanged for knowledge, social training and spiritual living.

In case you're open to advice from those of us who have been through the mill, let us give you a few suggestions you may find useful in the weeks and months ahead.

First, make up your mind that you're going to give your college obligations everything you have.

Second, adopt decent study habits. Talk to upperclassmen about how to take notes from textbooks and lectures. Concentrate on getting the most out of your reading. Don't make a habit of spending too much time on one subject at the expense of others.

Third, don't be afraid to ask anyone for advice or assistance. The profs are just as anxious for you to get ahead in their courses as you are.

Finally, don't allow yourself to fall behind in your assignments. Time lost is doubly hard to make up.

Don't expect everything to go according to plan. It won't. But have the patience and fortitude to see things through.

We're running dry on advice, so we'll close with this parting word. You're now a part of Elizabethtown College. Those of us connected with the school are proud of it.

We want to be proud of you, too. Give us reason to be.

Sincerely,
The Editors

Off The Beaten Track

Much of interest has happened during the summer months to returning Blue Jay guys and gals, but the time element involved in preparing this first edition makes it almost impossible to collect news of this nature.

So, if you're wondering what your campus mates did from June through September, be nosy. Ask them.

Idle thoughts on summer (collected by an idler): For those who've labored for the past three months, this twisted quotation . . . "Hard work never killed THEE; and at 75 mph, WHEN THE ROLL IS CALLED UP YONDER, I'LL BE THERE."

Incidentally, ours is a beautiful campus, so let's all remember to keep our cotton trampin' feet off'n the grass.

There's a great deal being written about driving safely. Here's something you can clip out and hang up by your speedometer. Keep these song titles in mind: At 45 mph, HIGHWAYS ARE HAPPY WAYS; at 55 mph, I'M BUT A STRANGER HERE; HEAVEN IS MY HOME; at 65 mph, NEARER MY GOD TO

From now until the end of his college days Don Witman will be known as the guy with the two left feet. It seems he packed his bag for a baseball trip last year and upon arrival at the game's site he found he'd packed two left shoes. His cry of rage and humiliation was heard for miles, so we're told.

HOME-COMING SCHEDULED FOR OCTOBER 20

Featured Speakers for the Day

Jim Weidner

Shirley Watkins

Austin V. McClain

WHEN THE POTTSTOWN BAND and Glee Club present their concert to climax Homecoming Day festivities, the man behind the microphone will be Jim Weidner, who doubles in brass as a bass violin player for the band.

Directed by William F. Lamb, Jr., leader of the band since 1937, the Pottstown organization will offer a selection of numbers designed to meet every musical taste.

The Glee Club will present vocal offerings from the operatic, musical comedy and popular music fields.

Interspersed throughout the concert will be special solo numbers to add spice and variety to what is expected to be a full evening's entertainment.

ACCLAIMED NATIONALLY for her recent novel on the life of King Saul, THE PROPHET AND THE KING, Shirley Watkins Steinman will speak from a background of education, travel and experience.

She entered the journalism field at the age of 15 when she took a position on the old Philadelphia PRESS. She later worked for the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER in that city.

Her first venture into the field of creative writing came at the age of 21 when she began the first of three books for girls, all of which were published by George Jacobs Co.

She is the wife of John F. Steinman, co-owner of Steinman radio stations and WGAL-TV and of Steinman newspapers.

A GRADUATE of Washington and Jefferson College, where he was granted a Master's degree in 1933, Austin V. McClain was active in the journalism field before assuming his present position as vice-president-secretary of Marts and Lundy, Inc.

Well acquainted with college development programs, Mr. McClain has organized five such campaigns at eastern colleges.

He is president of the alumni association of Mercersburg Academy and an elder in the College Hill Presbyterian Church in Easton, where he resides with his wife and two children.

His journalism career has taken him to Homestead, Pa., where he was city editor of the MESSENGER, and to Washington, Pa., as president of the Observer Publishing Co.

AND LONG WAITING LINES

Freshman Week to Feature Orientation, Tests, Recreation, Plus Registration

A full schedule of achievement tests, recreational activities, and registration confronts members of the freshman class as they begin the process of settling down for the start of their college program.

Beginning with the arrival of resident students yesterday, the Following a meeting with Dean Roy McAuley at 8:30 a. m. today in the chapel, they began taking the battery of tests which will comprise their daytime activities through tomorrow. Registration is scheduled to begin at 8 a. m. Wednesday. Freshmen classes will begin meeting at 7:40 a. m. the following day. (See other story on registration procedures.)

Tonight Deans Hackman and Greene will confer with the new students prior to the annual Deans' Party to be held at the outdoor fireplace. Dean Hackman will meet freshman women in room 241, Rider Memorial Hall, at 7 p. m. while Dean Greene is meeting with the new men students in the chapel at the same time.

A program of folk games is scheduled for Tuesday at 7 p. m. and a scavenger hunt is planned for Wednesday evening at the same time.

Freshmen will meet the faculty during a semi-formal reception to be held in the auditorium Thursday at 8 p. m.

Friday's activities include a series of Big and Little Sisters Teas beginning at 3 p. m. and a Quiz Show, sponsored by the Student Senate, at 8 p. m.

Rounding out the week's program will be an all-college picnic Saturday afternoon and evening at Lancaster. The Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren will hold a reception for students Sunday, at 7:30 p. m.

Frosh Registration Set for Wednesday

Scheduled to begin Wednesday in the auditorium-gymnasium, registrations will climax the orientation week program and launch the regular schedule of classes.

Freshmen will register according to an alphabetical arrangement compiled by Miss Emma Engle, registrar. Prior to meeting their advisers, first year students met with Deans Greene and Hackman Wednesday, at 8 a. m., the women in room 341 and the men in room 241 of Rider Memorial Hall.

Freshmen whose last names begin with the letters "A" through "F" are scheduled to be registered between 8:30 a. m. and 9:45 a. m.

Those whose names fall between the "G" through "M" category will register between 9:45 a. m. and 11:30 a. m.

Beginning at 1 p. m. registration for those whose last names begin with "Mc" through "S" will be held. From 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. those from "T" through "Z" will be registered.

Registration Process

The actual registration process begins with each freshman meeting his adviser, who will assist him in the planning of a class schedule.

Following this, he will pick up his class admission cards and tuition billing and go to the busi-

Juniors to Be Tested In English Mechanics

A competency test, covering all basic mechanics of English, will be administered to all juniors Thursday starting at 1 p. m. in rooms 241 and 341, Memorial Hall.

Meeting the proficiency level set by the test becomes a requirement for graduation, according to Miss Emma Engle, registrar.

Trustees to Hear President's Report

Plans for the future progress and expansion of the college and provision for full utilization of existing facilities will highlight the agenda of the meeting of the Board of Trustees October 13.

The main order of business at the meeting will be the reading of the president's report on college activities and future proposals.

Among other details, the board is expected to act on a proposal to move the offices of the dean and registrar to other locations in Alpha Hall. In addition, certain renovations in the basement of Rider Hall are also to receive consideration.

Speakers, Sports, Music, Memories Will Mark Return of Old Grads

Alumni Homecoming Day, with all its nostalgic attractions, is scheduled for Saturday, October 20. A full program of activities, beginning with a special breakfast, has been planned for those alumni who plan to return to the scene of their college years.

According to K. Ezra Bucher, chairman of the homecoming committee, an estimated 600 alumni of Elizabethtown, and parents, are expected to come to the campus for the day's festivities. Among other things, they will have the opportunity to see first-hand the progress being made during the expansion of their college.

Two speakers, each an authority in his field, will be heard during the day.

Austin V. McClain, vice-president and secretary of Marts and Lundy, Inc., will speak at the Century Club breakfast to be held at the American Legion. His address will deal with the opportunities of private colleges in the decade.

Featured speaker at the noon luncheon in Fellowship Hall of the Church of the Brethren will be Shirley Watkins Steinman, novelist and author, from Lancaster. She achieved national recognition for her recent book, THE PROPHET AND THE KING.

President A. C. Baugher will serve as toastmaster during the breakfast with Eby Espenshade, alumni secretary, acting in that capacity for the luncheon.

Climaxing the day's program will be a concert by the Pottstown Band and Glee Club to be staged in the alumni-gymnasium.

Other scheduled activities include a field hockey game, a tour of the campus and buildings, a soccer game, and the annual freshmen-sophomore tug-of-war.

Enlarged Faculty Set for New School Year

Prof. John J. Spurling

Mrs. Clarence Enterline

Prof. Clarence Enterline

Dr. Harry Beck, a native of Woodbury, N. J., has joined the faculty of Elizabethtown as a professor of history, with particular stress on American History, according to an announcement by A. C. Baugher, president.

Dr. Beck began his educational training in 1946 after discharge from the United States Army. All of his post high school academic work was taken at the University of Pennsylvania.

He received his A.B. degree in History with honors in 1950 and a year later was awarded his Master's degree. His doctorate was conferred in February of this year.

His teaching experience consists of three years of work as a graduate assistant at the University of Pennsylvania and some time as an instructor at Drexel Institute of Technology.

Dr. Beck is married with one son. He is a member of the American Historical Association.

Prof. John J. Spurling, whose first book is to be published during the school year, has accepted a position with Elizabethtown college as an instructor in the field of sociology.

He replaces Prof. Elliot M. Rudwick, who resigned to accept a position on the faculty of Tampa University, Fla.

Prof. Spurling, whose teaching experience includes three years and two summers at Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C., is presently working for his doctorate at New York University.

His academic training includes an A.B. degree from Talladega college, Ala., in the fields of sociology and psychology in 1949 and an A.M. degree from New York University in 1951. In addition he has taken work in Latin, Greek and philosophy at Columbia University.

Another husband and wife teaching team has joined the degree from Albright college and faculty of Elizabethtown college. His M.S. in education from the University of Pennsylvania. He has served as a post-session instructor here at Elizabethtown.

Mr. Enterline will instruct in the business and personnel field. His wife, Mildred, will work in the English and Speech departments. In addition to his teaching duties, Mr. Enterline will act as adviser to the CONESTOGAN editor, Wanda Sprow.

Mrs. Enterline was graduated from Ursinus college with an A.B. degree. She received her Master's degree from the School of Speech at Northwestern university.

She taught English and speech at Reading high school and has written several books on church drama. Her college teaching experience has taken her to Baker university, Baldwin, Kan.; Bridgewater college, Va. and Kutztown State Teachers college.

Many Improvements Noted On Campus

Painting, repairs and new installations are very much in evidence at Elizabethtown as a result of several months of feverish activity by college maintenance men.

Not a blade of grass or unpainted board escaped their scrutiny. Here at Elizabethtown repairing is a continuous operation, but the process is speeded up in the summer.

Returning collegians and faculty members approve the missing garage, the screened library reading room, the gleaming floors everywhere, the new paint on dormitory exteriors.

To insure comfort for the chapel programs, two-unit heaters have been installed directly overhead and inside the gymnasium. New squirrel cage fans and directional blowers in front of the building insure a better distribution of heat.

To improve efficiency of the heating system, new condensate traps are to be installed in the heat lines.

Student Government Swings Into Action

COMMITTEE ON WOMEN'S AFFAIRS . . .

Planning ahead for a complete and varied program for the women of Elizabethtown, the Committee on Women's Affairs get together on the steps of Alpha Hall to ponder problems and advance suggestions. From left, they are: Joyce Roudabush, Gloria Keller, Audrey Kilhefner, Esther Hershman, Verna Weaver and Rachel Keller. The group is showing off the new women's blazers.

MEN'S ACTIVITIES . . . Outlining a full program of activities for men students during the new school year are four members of the Student Senate and a representative of the Committee on Men's Affairs. From left, they are: James Chase, Ralph Baker, Robert Wert, Carl Zeigler and Robert Knappenberger. Wert is the representative of the Men's Affairs Committee. This group will uphold the male point of view on campus and within their respective organizations.

E-town Now Boasts Cross Country Team

Evidence that athletics are growing in stature at Elizabethtown college is apparent this year with the addition of a new sport, cross country.

A four-game schedule has been set up, but an announcement as to who will coach the team has not yet been released. The schedule which lists one home meet and three away will begin October 12 at Juniata.

Fri., Oct. 12	Juniata	-----A

Sat., Oct. 27	P. M. C.	-----A
Sat., Nov. 3	F. & M.	-----A

Gene Bucher

Blue Jay Booters Led by Gene Bucher

This year the Blue Jay booters of Coach D. Paul Greene will be captained by a junior, Gene Bucher.

Playing his third year in a Blue and Gray uniform, Gene will be playing any of three line positions. In his first two years he started mainly at wing and center forward but saw action at inside as well.

Besides scoring goals, the blond speedster has made a habit of acquiring assists, an important phase of the sport.

The versatile junior also played basketball in his freshman year and baseball the last two seasons. He just completed a season of summer ball in his hometown.

A native of Myerstown in Lebanon County, he is enrolled in the Liberal Arts course with the hope of becoming a teacher and coach. The captain will be performing his duties with a co-captain who will be chosen prior to each contest.

(DENLINGER—Cont'd from P. 8) Speaking of intra-murals, the committee will welcome any constructive comments, not to mention full cooperation from the student body.

Jumping ahead slightly, the first game of the basketball twin bill at Hershey this winter will probably pit Gettysburg against Lehigh. . . . Incidentally, for all eager fans who already possess a schedule, the affair at the Chocolate town has been set back from February 1 to February 8.

A co-writer on the ETOWNIAN staff appears to have a good idea with his "Little Ten" set-up. It's hard to tell, but a little action on the part of other Blue Jay followers may help the cause in acquiring athletic relations with F. & M. and certain other institutions that have been giving E-town the brush-off.

Most of Coach Herr's 1956 baseballers have just finished playing summer ball in various leagues throughout the state.

For football enthusiasts, the local high school will provide some pretty good entertainment this fall. After several seasons of rough going, the Bears have developed into a squad that will hold its own in the Conference of Roses. We've seen them in action already and recommend an occasional trip to the high school gridiron.

This writer's vote for the college's outstanding athlete for the 1955-56 school year goes to Jim Sarbaugh. The cool-headed Columbian displayed an abundance of sharp thinking, cooperation, and intestinal fortitude, besides that ever important talent. He was a stalwart on Coach Smith's basketball five both on defense and offense and was unparalleled among the opposition in baseball. Keep an eye on him this year.

New Parking, Recreation Spaces Made Available for Students' Use

A newly created general outdoor recreation area for non-athletes as well as varsity performers, and improved parking facilities for registered cars are but two services available to students after a summer of constructive planning at Elizabethtown college.

The recently paved parking area, with a center traffic lane, south of the business building will accommodate 60 cars between 7:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. This area is for commuter parking only.

The traffic circle has been redesigned with the opening of the new 60-car parking area. There will be no through traffic between Alpha Hall and the business building. Traffic from the Orange street drive will flow one way to the right between the business building and the new dormitory. Exit for the new parking area is the gym road which continues two-way traffic.

Recreation Area

The outdoor recreation area is designed for parking 20 cars, during the hours of special programs and events. However, during the school day it will be available for the intra-mural sports program and for general recreation.

Faculty and staff members will be able to park in the 40 spaces, designated by yellow lines, north of Alpha hall and north and east of Memorial hall. There are approximately 170 parking spaces, marked with white lines, now available to students.

All student-operated cars will have to be registered at the fall registration. A registration fee of $2.00 will be charged and a numbered decal for the 1956-57 school year will be given each registrant for placement on the windshield of his automobile.

Speaking of intra-murals, the committee will welcome any constructive comments, not to mention full cooperation from the student body.

Coach Paul Greene Optimistic Over Blue Jay Soccer Outlook

The Blue Jay booters of Coach D. Paul Greene will begin their season on October 3 at Gettysburg.

After that they will meet a new opponent in Howard University of Washington, D. C., and two Philadelphia teams, La Salle and Drexel. The latter two teams place much emphasis on soccer and possess two of the better teams on the schedule.

Over half of the lettermen will be back for the locals including four out of the five linemen. The defense was hit hard by graduation, but according to Coach Greene, there will be plenty of material to work with.

At Gettysburg the Jays will meet a team they downed in 1955, 3-1. Gene Wise, Earl Mellott and Larry Reber provided the goals in the opening victory. The Bullets, however, have five returning starters including a highly rated goalie, Tom Byrne and last year's team scoring leader, John Farca.

Both La Salle and Drexel were defeated by the Blue Jays a year ago, but each gave the Jays a hard time. The scores were 3-2 and 4-3, respectively.

TIME OUT

with

Carl Denlinger

It is my belief that Elizabethtown College and other small colleges should receive more recognition for achievements in the sports field.

We are figuratively given a chance to compare our feats with other colleges by the NCAA ratings in basketball and baseball, and occasional offers by the NAIA in basketball, but these are too uncertain and vague. No immediate incentive is provided for game-by-game enthusiasm because this recognition is based only on seasonal final records.

A fault also lies in the fact that a school with a good team in any sport can be outranked by a school with nearly the same or lower record, but one which they have never competed against. This results in the old cry that "we could have beaten them."

I plan this year to establish my own mythical sports league for students to use to compare E-town's rank among opponents and give the team a chance to win at least a mythical championship. This league will be practical only in basketball and baseball because of the fact that the other teams play fewer games and more diversified opponents.

My plan resembles that of Harry Goff of the Harrisburg "Evening News" who has established a "Central Seven." My league will be named "The Little Ten" and be composed of the following teams: Elizabethtown, Lebanon Valley, Franklin & Marshall, Albright, Dickinson, Millersville, Gettysburg, Juniata, Susquehanna and Lycoming.

I plan to keep this league up to date during basketball and baseball seasons, both by total wins and losses and records of inter-league play. This I believe to be the only true way of comparison.

Elizabethtown schedules all of these teams except F. & M. in basketball and all of them in baseball. F. & M. is included because of its proximity while Juniata, Susquehanna and Lycoming are mentioned because they appear twice on the E-town schedule and also on those of many of the other schools. Were a league really organized the latter three would probably be Successful Field Hockey Season Seen; Coach Risser Has Sound Veteran Squad

The Jaygals of Miss Julia Risser will open a seven-game field hockey schedule at Millersville on October 6. Optimism is high.

After a winning season in 1955 with a team composed mainly of underclassmen, the lassies are in line for another successful campaign. The first three contests will pit the locals against three of Elizabethtown's greatest rivals in Lebanon Valley, Gettysburg and the aforementioned Marauders.

Nine starters from last year's outfit, which compiled a five wins, one loss, one tie record, will return to form the nucleus of the squad.

A pre-season scrimmage is slated for September 29 at 10 a. m. The Jaygals will play host to the Blue Ridge Hockey Club of Harrisburg, a group of college graduates.

Last season the Etowners squeezed out the Teachers when Janie McNeal pushed one through in the last seven minutes of the second half to snap a 3-3 tie.

Playing their second straight at home, the Jaygals trounced Lebanon Valley 5-1. Jeanne Risser, Hoover and Keller tallied in the first half and Yvonne Brubaker pushed through two in the second.

The Gettysburg Bullets accounted for the gals' first defeat when a strong second half provided enough for a 4-2 victory. Captain Jessie Martin netted both goals for the losing Jays.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

After a long and not-so-warm summer, school should seem enjoyable. In addition to the pleasure of meeting new friends and old faces and learning a future vocation, this will be a bigger and better year of sports.

Instead of sticking our necks out with too many predictions and well wishes, we've picked up a few odds and ends that seem worth passing on to whomever it may interest.

The pre-season hockey scrimmages Coach Risser has lined up should be interesting for spectators as well as profitable to the Blue and Gray.

Talking Coach Greene recently we learned that Orwin Keeney, who played two years of varsity soccer before joining the military service, will be back for more studying and soccer.

This is by no means the only talent, soccerwise, in the class of '60, and not necessarily the best,

but they do make the future look quite promising for D. Paul Greene.

Campus Readies Homecoming Day for Alumni and Parents

by Carl Denlinger

Saturday will be Homecoming day, a day filled with activities for students as well as alumni and friends of Elizabethtown College.

The day's activities begin with a Century Club breakfast to be held in the American Legion. Austin V. McClain, vice-president and secretary of Marts and Lundy, Inc., will be the featured speaker.

Following the Century Club breakfast, the dormitory exhibits will be judged at 10 a.m. Five exhibits will be competing for the $25 first prize.

Also at 10 a.m. will be the women's field hockey game on the north section of the athletic field. The local team will play host to Shippensburg State Teachers College.

The center of attraction will then shift to Lake Placid at 11 a.m. where the annual Freshmen-Sophomore tug-of-war will take place. This will be the first opportunity for the freshmen to prove their worth as they combine muscles, grunts and groans in an attempt to relieve themselves of the burden of wearing their dinks.

The sophomores will be trying just as hard to retain their superiority and force the freshmen to remain under regulations until Thanksgiving.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon will be served in the Church of the Brethren fellowship hall for alumni, parents and students accompanying parents.

Speaking at the luncheon will be Shirley Watkins Steinman, noted author from Lancaster, whose latest book is THE PROPHET AND THE KING (see page two for review).

All other students will be served in the college dining room as usual.

Activities resume on the athletic field at 3 p.m. when the Blue Jay soccer team will meet East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

The evening meal will be served at the outdoor fireplace for everyone attending the day's activities.

Pottstown Band

The Pottstown Band and Glee Club will be the feature attraction of the day at 8 p.m. in the alumni auditorium. As one of Pennsylvania's oldest and most renowned bands under the leadership of William F. Lamb, Jr., it will give a wide variation of selections, both instrumental and vocal.

A popular innovation in their program is the use of a narrator, Jim Weidner, who acquaints all present with the various artists and the story behind the musical selections offered.

S.C.A. Designates October 19 to Be 'Don Egolf Day'

In the belief that Elizabethtown should help take care of its own sons and daughters, the Student Christian Association has designated Friday, October 19, as "Don Egolf Day" on campus.

Egolf, a freshman here last year, was struck down by polio while taking part in the program of voluntary work sponsored by the Church of the Brethren in Germany this summer. He is presently waging a determined battle to regain the use of his hands and lower limbs which were paralyzed in the attack.

The S.C.A. will operate a booth outside the college store all day Friday and Saturday in order that alumni and friends coming here for Homecoming Day may contribute to the gift fund.

Dorm Displays Set To Welcome Alumni

For the second successive year the dormitories will build exhibits for Homecoming day, and compete for a total of $80 in prize money.

The dormitories and day students are divided into the following five groups:

1. Alpha Hall, Rider Memorial Hall and all upperclass off-campus women.
2. Fairview Hall, West Hall and freshman off-campus women.
3. South Hall and one-third of the off-campus men.
4. Center Hall and one-third of the off-campus men.
5. North Hall and one-third of the off-campus men.

The exhibits may be of any construction, but the costs may not exceed $10 per exhibit. They will compete for a $25 first prize and then a $20, $15 and two $10 prizes in that order.

The judges, who will be selected today, will judge the exhibits Saturday at 10 a.m. on the following points: originality, appropriateness of theme, and artistic effect.

Sock and Buskin to Use Arena Staging In Three-act Comedy

by John Way

The Sock and Buskin dramatic club will present the comedy, Playboy of the Western World, a three-act play by John Millington Synge on November 16 and 17 in the college gymnasium-auditorium.

The production will be a departure from the usual presentations of the group in that it will feature the arena staging plan whereby the audience surrounds the entire stage.

Arena staging was first attempted by the club during the 1952-53 season in the production of three one-act plays. The student-directed plays were produced under the advisement of Mrs. Carl Heilman.

John Synge, the author, was a noted Irish playwright of the early 20th Century period, who captured the dialect and the emotional qualities of the Irish people in his plays.

Dr. J. R. King will direct the play about a runaway lad who inevitably attracts the attention of every young lassie in the Irish village, and even some of the older women, too.

Dr. King, as director, will also take the part of Christy Mahon, the lad who, by chance, falls into the company of Pegeen Mike, played by Wanda Sprow. Shawn Keogh, Pegeen's suitor, is played by Edwin Ankeny; Michael Flaherty and Widow Quin, are played by George Smith and Emma Hoffmann, respectively.

Other members of the cast are: Romaine Dusman as Sara, Ruth Ann Yeager as Susan, Betsy Tohr as Nelly, Arthur Lawton as Old Mahon, Don Mann as Jimmy, Phil Reese as Philly and Ruthanne Butterbaugh as Honor.

Nancy Swanson is assistant director and Mrs. Enterline is the technical director, in charge of all lighting, staging and settings for the play.

'56 Conestogan Gets All-American Rating

Elizabethtown's 1956 CONESTOGAN, edited by Dorothy Stotz, was one of two yearbooks in its class awarded an All-American rating in judging by the Associated Collegiate Press, according to word received last week.

The award is the first of its type to be received by a publication of the college.

CAMPUS CAMPAIGN . . . Robert Balthaser (left) and Curtis Reiber, officers of the Political Science Club, check the map for politically-powerful states as they outline possible trends for the forthcoming election. To drum up interest in the important business of casting an intelligent ballot, the Political Science group on campus is planning a mock national election, complete with registrations, campaign oratory and balloting.

Campus Delegation To Attend Kansas Church Conference

Prof. Robert A. Byerly, director of religious activities on campus, will head a delegation of Elizabethtown students to the annual Brethren Student Christian Movement gathering to be held at McPherson College, Kansas, November 22 through 25.

Open to any interested student willing to share expenses, the trip will be made by bus. Reservations should be made as soon as possible with Prof. Byerly or Kenneth Miller, student representative.

The conference will bring together students from the six

Political Science Club Schedules Mock National Election on Campus

by Bob Balthaser

In this, a presidential election year, the political science club of Elizabethtown College is making preparations to arouse an interest in all students in political affairs, by staging a "straw vote" election on a national level, November 6.

To be eligible to vote students will have to register at the registration tables attended by members of the political science club prior to election day. The times and places of registration will be announced at a later date.

At the next meeting of the club, October 18, a panel discussion will be conducted on the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties. Lorell Price and Russ LeFevre will speak on the Republican party platform while Joyce Schaffner and Peggy Hostetter will discuss the platform of the Democratic party. A question and answer session will follow short speeches by the panel members.

An attempt will be made to obtain speakers from the Democratic and Republican parties to participate in a political demonstration before the student body on Friday, November 2.

Major Party Platforms On Page 5

Any student who is interested in making a political speech for some candidate is encouraged to contact any member of the political science club. Arrangements will be made for such "soap-box" orations at times which will attract the greatest number of listeners.

The bulletin board outside Alpha Hall has been reserved by the club to display pictures and literature pertinent to the election.

Plans are being formulated to organize Young Republicans for Ike and Young Democrats for Adlai groups among students. Campaign materials such as buttons and pamphlets will be distributed at the places of registration.

Total Enrollment Set At 550; 190 Freshmen

With the 56th year of studies well under way, the official enrollment of the college for the first semester has been announced as 550 students.

Of these, 190 are freshmen and 35 are transfer students.

On-campus extension students number 52. Nine are taking work at the Red Lion extension center and 103 at the Harrisburg center.

Religious Emphasis Week to Begin Oct. 26; 'God's Call and Man's Response' is Theme

Religious Emphasis Week, an annual period set aside for the stimulation of spiritual thought, will be observed here October 23 through 26 with Dr. Robert L. Sherfy, of the Bethany Biblical Seminary, on campus to energize the planned program.

Theme for the week will be "God's Call and Man's Response."

Prof. Robert A. Byerly, director of religious activities, is working with all campus religious organizations to iron out final arrangements for the observance.

In broad outline, the week will feature individual student interviews with Dr. Sherfy in addition to his appearances before the Student Christian Association meeting October 24 and an address in Chapel October 26.

As explained by Prof. Byerly, "Religious Emphasis Week is designed to give new stimulation to religion and devotional life by taking special time for discussion, worship and interviews under the guidance of a guest leader."

All students, regardless of church affiliation, are encouraged to participate.

Dr. Sherfy, whose doctorate of divinity was bestowed by Bridgewater College, is a member of the Brotherhood Board of the Church of the Brethren and a former pastor in Ohio and Indiana. He has spoken at national church conferences and has played an active role in inter-church work.

Leadership in planning for the conference is mutually shared by the college administration and a student committee.

House Presidents Elected by Women

Presidents for the five women's residences were elected recently. The new presidents are Hazel Yoder for Alpha Hall, Louise Reed, Memorial Hall; Shirley Prange, Fairview; Patricia Shope, West Hall and Yvonne Brubaker for day students.

Population of the houses ranges from 54 students at Fairview to 16 in West Hall. Memorial Hall has 20 residents while Alpha Hall houses 42 women.

The new presidents were elected from a list of students suggested by the Committee on Women's Affairs.

Why Orientation?

Many of the freshmen and a surprising number of upperclassmen looked upon the four-day freshman orientation period as a "wasted effort" that was "out of place" in a Christian college.

This attitude was reflected in the note, signed by a "confused sophomore," which appeared on the Alpha Hall bulletin board. The writer of the note, undoubtedly sincere, asked why the energy expended during the orientation could not have been channeled into more "constructive endeavors."

It would appear that the writer of the note and those who share his feelings, are missing the more positive factors involved in the relatively short and mild period of orientation.

To our way of thinking, orientation performs an invaluable service in creating that all-important spirit of unity among the freshmen. Those ridiculous lamp shades they wore, the waste baskets they carried, and the singing they did in front of Alpha Hall probably did more to weld the freshmen together than all the lectures they heard during their first few days on campus.

During that period freshmen realized as never before that they were full-fledged members of Elizabethtown's Class of 1960. They "belonged" to the campus family.

Now, it appears that some of this spirit has worn off. Despite the fact that the four-day period of concentrated orientation has passed, freshman dinks should still be worn.

A check of the campus reveals that a goodly number of the yearlings are not sporting their distinctive headpieces. Why?

A Lesson in Doubletalk

In his address to the Twentieth Congress of the Communist Party last February Nikita Khruschev reported that the "cult of the individual" had been replaced by collective leadership in the Soviet Union.

Further, it was reported that the ways of Stalin were being brushed aside in favor of a return to the ways of Lenin.

Information contained in a report published by the Public Affairs Committee of Freedom House points up an interesting comparison between the above statements. They contradict each other.

It appears Lenin was as strong an advocate of one-man dictatorial rule as Stalin was.

These are Lenin's words: "Classes are led by parties, and parties are led by individuals, who are called leaders. This is ABC. What is necessary is individual rule, the recognition of the dictatorial powers of one man. All phrases about equal rights are nonsense."

It appears to us that the only change in the "cult of the individual" is the individual who, for the present at least, is Khruschev.

Regarding the new "soft approach" of the Soviet Union, the Freedom House Committee report found "no basis for assuming that the Bolshevik pattern of government by terror or the ultimate goal of world Communist dictatorship are being abandoned or even significantly modified."

Governor Leader Looks at the Election; Discusses Teachers' Salaries, Vets' Bonus

Following Governor George Leader's address on Convocation day recently, members of the ETOWNIAN staff interviewed him on subjects ranging from the coming election, to teachers' salaries and the state veterans' bonus.

The following is a condensed version of the interview. The staff's questions are in heavy type.

"Assuming Mr. Stevenson will carry Pennsylvania in November, by how much do you think he will win and in which areas of the state will he be strongest?"

"The Democratic ticket will draw its greatest strength from the metropolitan areas. As to Mr. Stevenson's margin of victory I don't care to hazard a guess. We are stronger in '56 than we were in '52. Prior to the last presidential election the Republicans outregistered the Democrats by one million. That margin is now down to 400,000."

"What are the Democrats' chances of capturing Congress this year?"

"Very good. We feel the hardest struggle will be between Mr. Stevenson and President Eisenhower."

"Where do you think the closest Senatorial races will take place?"

"Maryland will be close as will Pennsylvania, but I'm sure Clark will beat Duff."

"What about Washington?"

"Washington and Oregon will go Democratic."

"Do you think the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket is the strongest team for the Democrats this year?"

"Definitely. In fact the party may have offended people in 1952 when it failed to recognize Kefauver's popularity in the pre-convention primaries."

"If Mr. Stevenson should win this year but for some reason decline a second term, who do you think will be the strongest Democratic candidate in 1960?"

"Hubert Humphrey. He's a great liberal, a talented orator, and a skilled political scientist."

"How do you think college students will vote next month?"

"Frankly, I've been shocked by reports that college people generally have a startling lack of concern with the various issues involved in this election. Only one out of three college students eligible to vote is expected to cast a ballot. I think those who do vote tend to be liberal because of their youth and natural progressiveness."

"Getting away from the coming election, what are the chances for passage of the Korean Veterans' Bonus in the state?"

"Korean vets deserve a bonus fully as much as World War II vets did. However, this requires a change in the state constitution. If it should pass the legislature this year and next year and go on a referendum in '57, Korean vets will have a bonus by 1958. This, of course, means higher taxes. I backed the World War II bonus, but I'm not sure it was wise because of the extra taxes."

"What about the future of teachers in Pennsylvania?"

"A definite advance in their position, salary-wise, will be seen in the next three years. By 1960 classroom teachers will receive an additional $1,000 over what they are presently getting."

How often do college students run out of gas? As one local attendant put it as he poured 25 cents worth of gas into a can, "It happens every day." A poll of Elizabethtown's gas stations should reveal some interesting and hilarious anecdotes on this subject.

The Market Basket, a favorite spot of students and a stone's throw from college, has also entered into the atmosphere of newness which is predominant on campus this fall. The remodeled Basket features more counter space, booths (no less), and more all-around elbow room. They serve duck's milk, too!

There's a popular new record making the rounds entitled "Tonight You Belong to Me." Understand that members of the E-town High School football team flip and snap to attention when they hear the song. That's alright, but we'll string along with the old standby, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Incidentally, regardless of what some editors think about Elvis Presley, the guy does have talent. H-m-m-m!

Wonder if Dr. King will conduct another class in "relaxed poetry" this fall. While reading a poem to a group last spring he became so relaxed that he tumbled off his chair.

Freshmen make the news: During the reception held for students at the Church of the Brethren, John Wengert dropped a pun. When everyone had stopped laughing, freshman Sylvia Santee looked at sober Bob Knapenberger seated next to her and asked in a stage whisper, "Didn't you get it?"

Have you seen Prof. Custer's motorized scooter yet? It's a three-wheeled affair and all we can think of when we see it is "the good-humor man." Only thing missing is the little bell.

We thought we saw a "putty-cat" running 'round campus. We did—in fact it's getting so you

United Nations to Mark 11th Birthday

The United Nations, the greatest international organization history has ever known, will mark its 11th anniversary October 24.

During the 11 years of its existence, the UN has fought countless battles on many fronts around the world. Some were spectacular; some were not, but all were waged in the belief that man, whoever or wherever he might be, is his brother's keeper.

The 76-member nations worked as a unit in providing care for the hungry, the homeless, the sick, and the underprivileged.

To be sure, there were and will continue to be splits among UN members. Some, unfortunately, have not kept the faith upon which the UN is based.

Obviously, the UN is not the cure-all for all the world's problems. However, in the words of President Eisenhower, the UN "represents man's best organized hope to substitute the conference table for the battlefield."

'Prophet and King' Portrayed As Vivid Descriptive Work

By Nancy Swanson

One of the rash of biblical novels that has deluged the American public in the last decade, THE PROPHET AND THE KING, by Shirley Watkins Steinman, brings with it a departure from the ordinary which commends its author to a position superior to her colleagues. Mrs. Steinman has a gift for descriptive writing, her strong point to say the least.

The wild witch of Endor stood before me instantly, the pitiful Agag, King of Amalek, formed a picture I cannot forget. In the space of a few words, a rich description is read, and the images face me in an instant.

The twist that sets this book up on a pedestal is the elaboration of the tension between the prophet, aging Samuel, and the king, proud Saul. The Hebrew account only hints at this strain and the events leading up to the crowning of David.

This is the crux of the book: why didn't Samuel accept Saul as Israel's rightful king, why did Samuel fight him at every turn, how did Saul return this enmity? A biblical novelist must write on a thin base padded with fantasy for facts are scarce.

Mrs. Steinman uses her imagination with surprising insight. She could easily have had Saul return rough-hatted to Samuel, but instead Mrs. Steinman interprets this strain through one of Saul's thoughts after the prophet's death. "I never hated him. I would have been to him as his own son, had he received me. Yet he rejected me. Like God, he rejected me, yet I did not hate him."

The story is related from the viewpoint of Saul, and briefly from Samuel's. What a relief from historical and modern novels with the story shifting from one person's view to another, with no regard to the reader's natural disability to see all sides of a question.

The characters are well represented as long as the person is unimportant. But the character delineation of the prophet was difficult. It is hard for a modern to understand the position of Samuel.

We tend to regard a prophet as one who warns against corruption and evils inherent in men. But when the same warning, wise man prophesies, as when Samuel had a vision of Christ's birth as he stood in Bethlehem, all the reality of personality that the author has painstakingly built up seems to me to be inevitably shattered.

Physical miracles do not seem to happen in our day, and today's readers will not lose their story-book notions unless such scenes are omitted.

But taking all things together, this study, tinged with psychology and philosophy, softened with understanding, makes me want to read Mrs. Steinman's next book.

THE FRESHMEN SPEAK

Orientation: Cussed and Discussed

As is the case in most instances where a representative group of people are asked to render an opinion on a subject, freshman reaction to the recent four-day orientation or initiation period was varied, fairly clear-cut, and often heated.

The first-yearmen were quizzed on what they thought of the orientation in general. They were questioned on its constructive merits, if any. They were asked for possible suggestions, whether the initiation went to extremes, and if they thought it properly supervised.

This is what some of them answered:

Mary Klein, Highbridge, N. J. — "It was alright, but it went to extremes and became disgusting. It didn't harm anyone and did serve the purpose of putting freshmen in their place after ruling the roost as high school seniors."

Kathleen Weller, Windber, Pa. — "Toward the end it got boring. I suggest in the future they hold a one or two-day period of concentrated orientation without having to bother with classes. I also think it degraded the alma mater by having it sung too many times. After a while it became a joke."

Lorraine Lepo, Hanover, Pa. — "It took too much time and interfered with studies. Then, too, a few upperclassmen went to extremes. It might be a good idea to hold initiation later in the year after freshmen become acquainted."

William Elston, Coatesville, Pa. — "I can't see where it did any harm. It organized the freshman class and helped us make friends, both among the newcomers and the upperclassmen."

Daniel Peterman, Harrisburg, Pa. — "It was worthless as far as I'm concerned. It failed to accomplish anything practical. If anything, it made us more cocky. Had they carried it out another day there'd have been a revolt among the freshmen. Why couldn't they have given us practical jobs on the campus?"

Carl Myers, Hinsdale, Pa. — "It was a lot of fun that took us away from the routine of classes and the tension of starting college. It gave us something to think about."

Lee Miller, Woodstown, N. J. — "It was a total flop. It didn't prove a thing. The only thing it did was distract us from our studies. If we must have orientation let's limit it to one day."

Donald Kunkel, York, Pa. —

College to Discuss Oral Communication As Part of Local Television Series

Elizabethtown is one of six area colleges participating in the College of the Air television series presented over WGAL-TV, Channel 8, Lancaster.

Each Tuesday at 9 a. m., Dr. Roy McAuley, dean of instruction and coordinator of the programs for the college, will present a half-hour lecture on the general theme, "Let's Communicate." He will be assisted at various times by members of the English and language faculty.

Elaborating on the theme of the lecture series, Dr. McAuley defined communication as being "concerned with our ability to read, to write, and especially our ability to frame our thoughts into words."

"Furthermore," he added, "it is concerned with the end factor of transferring human ideas from person to person, and from nation to nation."

On tomorrow morning's lecture, "What Is Grammar?" Dr. McAuley will be joined by Prof. Raymond Franke. Part of the program will be devoted to a discussion of general semantics.

"This," stated Dr. McAuley, "has to do with 'why do words mean what they do?'"

On the following Tuesday's program Dr. James R. King will assist Dr. McAuley in the presentation of "Is Grammar Necessary?"

In November Dr. Frederick Neumann will meet with Dr. McAuley on two consecutive weeks to speak on Esperanto, the international language.

"Elizabethtown is one of the few colleges in the country offering Esperanto," Dr. McAuley reported. In addition he remarked that Dr. Neumann is one of a small number of professors trained to teach the language.

January 8, Dr. McAuley will again be joined by another faculty member, Dr. Ralph Schlosser, who will speak on "What Is Pa. Dutch?"

The first semester series will close on January 15 with Dr. McAuley lecturing on "Is It Possible to Be a Good Communicator?"

Elizabethtown College enters into a new area of TV programming with this series on "Let's Communicate." In past years Elizabethtown professors, notable Prof. Carl Heilman, lectured on science courses.

Tours for Seniors Begin

Teas and tours for area high school seniors begin November 1 with Elizabethtown Area seniors as the first guests of the college.

Eby C. Espenash, director of admissions, has scheduled Hempfield seniors for Nov. 5; Donegal, Nov. 6; Middletown and Hummelstown, Nov. 7; Manheim Central, Nov. 8; and Susquehanna Township, Nov. 17.

Orchestra and Band Formed on Campus

A 50-piece orchestra and a band membership of 75 are the goals of Noah Klauss, the new part-time college instrumental music instructor.

Klauss, who succeeds Galen Herr as director of the college orchestra, is director of music education at Elizabethtown Area High School, assistant conductor of the Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra, conductor and musical director of the Harrisburg Youth Symphony Orchestra, and conductor of the Harrisburg Passion Play Orchestra.

The new instructor started to teach string instruments in the Elizabethtown schools in 1937. He became head of the instrumental department in 1940. With only 26 students enrolled, he built the program to a total of 234 students in 1956.

Today, Elizabethtown Area High School has, probably, the outstanding Lancaster County instrumental department. It was the only school of its size to be cited in Pennsylvania in a national statistical release this summer.

Presently, Klauss is concentrating on building an orchestra and then, depending upon student interest, possibly will form a band.

Orchestra rehearsals are being held every Thursday evening from 7 to 8 p. m. in the recreation room, Rider Memorial Hall.

At the first meeting it was decided that those present would canvass students who owned an instrument and indicated on questionnaires that they would be interested in a musical program.

Board of Trustees Hold Annual Session

The Board of Trustees at their annual fall meeting Saturday heard Pres. A. C. Baugher's report on the progress of the college and the report of the auditors.

The Etownian went to press too early to report the reorganization of the board or the action on the items on the board's agenda for the meeting.

Dean Greene Attends Dickinson Conference

D. Paul Greene, dean of men, attended the seventh annual convention of college deans of men of Pennsylvania held last week at Dickinson College.

Dr. Roy McAuley attended a session for academic deans held simultaneously.

The day's conference was designed to provide six seminars with discussions allowing a half hour for feed-backs.

Subjects considered in the seminars included: orientation of freshmen, communication with students; personnel problems; student government; and counseling programs.

Faculty Womens Club Meets in Church

Travelogues entertained the members of the Faculty Women's Club meeting in the church parlor of the local Church of the Brethren, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Frederick Neumann, recalling her summer vacation in Europe, discussed "The Women of Austria."

Mrs. Ralph Schlosser spoke on her experiences in a trip to Alaska during the summer vacation.

A Canadian vacation in slides was presented by Mrs. Nevin Fisher.

Mrs. Roy McAuley sang "Rosie of Picardy" and "The Second Minuet."

The program was in charge of Miss Elinor Eastlack, president of the club.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Wilhelm Reuning, Mrs. K. Ezra Bucher, Mrs. Robert Byerly, and Mrs. Ronald Rouse.

SOMETHING NEW

Men's and Women's Glee Clubs Formed; Choir Members Selected After Audition

In a move designed to give more flexibility and variety to the college chorus, Prof. Nevin W. Fisher, director of music, has divided the large vocal group into male and female glee clubs.

The new arrangement will permit each of the groups to perform individually and sing in joint concert for special programs throughout the school year. A total of 100 voices make up the chorus.

Prof. Fisher also announced that members of the college choir have been selected after an extensive number of auditions and gradual elimination of candidates. The first concert by the choir is set for November 18 in the local Church of the Brethren.

New members of the choir were announced as Lucille Hendricks, Lois Ziegler, Barbara Marzolf, Sylvia Santee, Lenora Shenk, Nancy Baugher, Corrine Fauntleroy, Mary Klein, Janet Widdowson, Carole Bossenger and Marsha Grohman in the soprano and alto sections.

New members added to the tenor and bass sections include Dale Varner, Kenneth Dieffenbach, Asher Halblieb, Donald Knaub, James Pecking, Robert Chamberlin, Robert Wetzel, Roger Forry and Bertram Miller.

Returning for another year with the choir are Ruthanne Butterbaugh, Ruth Ebresole, Liga Grinbergs, Dolores Turner, Romaine Dusman, Elaine Holsinger, Dorothy Larry, Esther Herszman, Patricia Shelby, Emma Hoffman, Gloria Keller, Audrey Kilhefner, Hazel Yoder, Ronald Hendricks, John Ranck, James Schell, Peter Thompson, Kenneth Miller, Warren Bates, Orrie Feitsmer, George Smith, Robert Knappenberger, William Stoneback and Theodore Yohe.

Ed. Majors Ready To Practice Teach

Thirty-seven student teachers are making final preparations to begin an eight-week period of practice teaching in seven area schools November 12.

Under the guidance of Prof. Elmer Hoover, the future teachers will take charge of classes temporarily at Central Dauphin, Steelton, Florin, Elizabethtown, Marietta, Hershey and Middle-town.

Nineteen of the teachers are preparing for work in elementary grades, 16 in secondary education and two in business education.

Playboy of the Western World

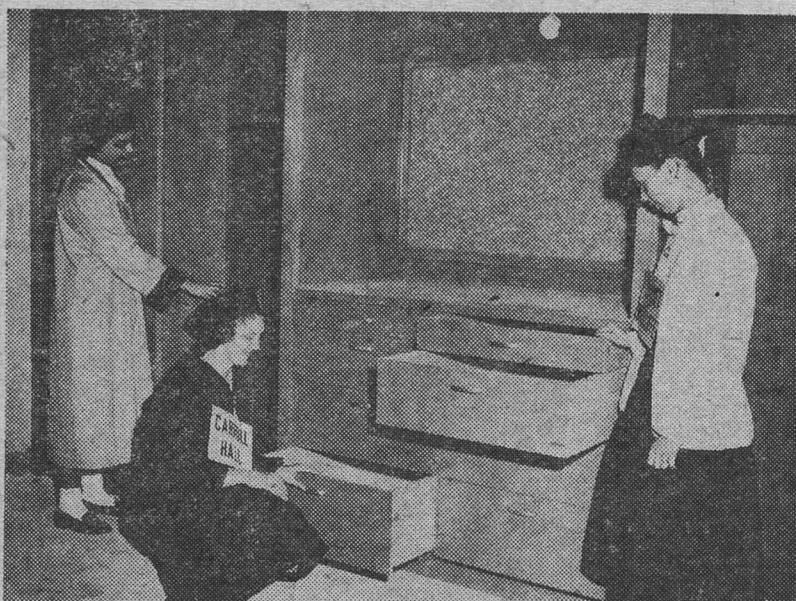

Reviewed by Wanda Sprow

The most famous of John Millington Synge's dramas is PLAYBOY OF THE WESTERN WORLD. It is typically Irish, especially in its love for the defiance of authority, particularly the policemen who were symbols of British authority.

The action takes place near a village, on a wild coast of Mayo. The entire action is completed in two days. It is the story of a young Irishman who believes he has killed his father. When the people of the village, far from his home, hear of his deed, he is immediately showered with praise and gifts.

On the following day, however, when his father arrives on the scene and proves to be very much alive, the whole situation is changed. Then Christy performs his much-talked-about deed against his father once again. This time it leaves the crowd not admiring but astounded and Christy's romance with the fiery Pegeen Mike is thwarted.

The play is enriched by the unique characters as drawn by Synge. The man-hunting Widow Quin, the meek fiancee of Pegeen, the typically Irish father and vi-

PADW Convenes At Buck Hill Falls

The thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women will convene November 1 to 3 at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls.

Miss Vera R. Hackman, dean of women and chairman of the state association's archives committee, will attend.

The convention theme will be "Improving Human Relations Through Counseling Services."

Speakers will be Dr. Martin P. Chworsky, director of the Albert M. Greenfield Center for Human Relations, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Ruth Strang, professor of education, Teachers College, Columbia University; Dr. M. F. Ashley Montagu, author of Man's Most Dangerous Myth and "On Being Human"; and Dr. Elizabeth Lee Vincent, professor of human development, Chatham College.

Approximately 200 deans and counselors from colleges and high schools throughout the state are expected to attend.

Dean Hackman will be accompanied by Mrs. Mary Myers, dean of girls, McCaskey High School, Lancaster. They plan to attend all sessions of the convention.

Stoneback Heads Choir For 1956-1957 Season

William Stoneback, senior and director of the youth choir in the local Church of the Brethren, was elected president of the 44-member College Choir.

Vice-president for the current season will be Kenneth Miller and secretary Elaine Holsinger. Both are seniors.

President Baugher Flies To Chicago Meeting

New Lending System In Operation in Library

A new system of regulations for lending of books has been announced by Mrs. Alice Heilman, college librarian.

Beginning this year, all books will be stamped with the date due to avoid confusion on the part of the lender. Outgoing books will be classified according to the length of time they may be borrowed.

The bulk of the books will be in the 14-day to one month period of borrowing time with fines of five cents per day for all overtime, including Saturdays and Sundays.

Books in the one day to seven days classification will include all books reserved for students by their professors. A fine of 50 cents per day will be charged for all overdue books in this category.

Mrs. Heilman has requested that students desiring periodicals reserve them several days in advance whenever possible.

The library is open each Sunday afternoon for those students wishing to browse through either the periodicals section or the book areas.

Recordings are available for those who prefer an afternoon of listening to music.

For information about other library procedures students are referred to the Rudder.

Landscaping Plan Being Completed

With the completion of the new women's dormitory drawing near, plans for the landscaping of the surrounding area have taken definite shape, according to K. Ezra Bucher, development secretary.

In broad outline, the landscaping has been so planned to mesh with the present campus structure with concrete walks on the east, west and north sides of the building crossing a rich carpet of lawn.

Three sets of stairs will lead off a walk that runs the entire front of the building from the driveway at the east end to the extreme western end where it joins a bituminous walk that leads to a driveway off Arch street.

The steps leading to the center or main entrance will be a double deck and will extend to a driveway spur that will curve up from the regular Orange street drive.

A parking area will be provided at the west end of the building. A service drive will extend from the rear of the east wing.

In the rear of the dormitory will be a network of bituminous walks and an area for planting near the residence.

Estimated cost of the landscaping project is $16,000. McCloud and Scatchard, Lititz, are the landscape architects.

Campus Clubs in the News

ETA GAMMA KAPPA

Eta Gamma Kappa is a "Galilean fellowship" for male students interested in full-time Christian work, in the words of club leader Ted Yohe.

The orientation meeting was held on October 10. The club hereafter will meet once a month.

The Rev. Phillip Saylor, pastor of the Elizabethtown Evangelical and Reformed Church, will be guest speaker at the November 7 meeting.

A field trip is planned for the club November 13 to 15. Members will attend the State Pastors' Conference at the Presbyterian Church, Harrisburg.

FTA

Future Teachers of America (FTA) is an organization open to all students majoring in education. President Gloria Keller reported that the club meets on the second Tuesday of each month.

Outside speakers from the educational field will be invited to meetings. Teachers, principals and specialists in certain fields of education will speak to the club.

CBYF

Church of the Brethren Youth Fellowship (CBYF) does service work and offers recreational opportunities to students of the Church of the Brethren as well as for others who wish to come.

Ken Miller, president, reports the group intends to vary its program for meetings and will invite outside speakers from time to time.

CBYF meets every other Thursday evening.

LSA

The Lutheran Student Association (LSA) is open to all Lutheran students attending the college and like CBYF is open to those of other denominations who would care to attend.

The introductory meeting was held in the Alpha Hall living room early in October. Glenn Snelbecker, president, and Pastor Raymond Fetter, group adviser, explained the purpose of LSA to the members. Refreshments were provided later by Mrs. Fetter.

On October 30, women of Christ Lutheran Church, Elizabethtown, will treat LSA members at a dinner meeting in the church basement.

VARSITY "E"

The Varsity "E" Club is the club for men and women who have earned a letter in a college sport. Bob Wert is the club president and Donald Smith, instructor in physical education, serves as adviser to the group.

The club meets on the first Monday of each month. Movies will be shown at various meetings throughout the year.

Members also sell programs and refreshments at the different home sports events.

PHI BETA CHI

Phi Beta Chi is a club for those scientifically inclined. It is under the leadership of Al Rogers, president.

The meetings, which are held on the first Monday of each month, feature outside speakers and discussions on scientific subjects.

Initiation for upperclassmen joining the club will be held on or by the time of the November meeting. Freshmen will be eligible to join the club after the completion of one semester of a science course.

THE ELECTION COMES TO CAMPUS

With The Candidates

To better acquaint students with the stated objectives of the two major political parties in this presidential election campaign, the ETOWNIAN has drawn up a comparison of the Democratic and Republican platforms on the more vital issues.

The information contained in this comparison is quoted directly from the platforms adopted by the parties at their nominating conventions, upon which President Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson must campaign.

Republican

Civil Rights

"The Republican Party accepts the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court that racial discrimination in publicly supported schools must be progressively eliminated . . . with all deliberate speed. We believe that true progress can be attained through intelligent study, understanding, education, and good will. Use of force or violence . . . will tend only to worsen the situation."

Foreign Policy

"We rededicate ourselves to the pursuit of a just peace and the defense of human liberty and national independence. We shall continue vigorously to support the United Nations. We shall continue to support the collective security system begun in 1947. . . . Where needed, we shall help friendly countries maintain such local forces and economic strength to provide a first bulwark against Communist aggression or subversion. We will continue efforts with friends and allies to assist the underdeveloped areas of the free world . . . (to attain) independence, self-determination, and to raise their standard of living."

National Defense

"We will maintain and improve the effective strength and state of readiness of . . . (the) armed forces. We fully appreciate the importance of scientific knowledge and its application, particularly in the military field. We wholeheartedly agree with President Eisenhower that our military defense must be backed by a strong civil defense. We agree . . . that civilian authority and control over our defense structure . . . must be maintained. . . ."

Labor

"We applaud the effective, unhindered, collective bargaining which brought an early end to the 1956 steel strike. . . . The Eisenhower Administration will continue to fight for dynamic and progressive programs which, among other things, will: Stimulate . . . job safety . . . Continue and further perfect programs of assistance to workers . . . Strengthen and improve the federal-State employment service. . . . Extend the protection of the federal minimum-wage laws . . . Continue to fight for the elimination of discrimination in employment . . . Revise and improve the Taft-Hartley Act so as to protect more effectively the rights of labor unions, management, the individual worker, and the public."

Agriculture

"Sustained national prosperity is dependent upon a vigorous agricultural economy. The Democratic Party . . . (will) . . . undertake immediately by appropriate action to endeavor to regain full 100 per cent. of parity the farmers received under Democratic Administrations. We will achieve this by means of support on basic commodities at 90 per cent. of parity and by means of commodity loans, direct purchases, direct payments to producers, marketing agreements. . . ."

Democratic

Civil Rights

"We will continue our efforts to eradicate discrimination based on race, religion or national origin. The Democratic Party . . . recognizes the Supreme Court of the United States . . . (as being) superior to and separate from any political party, the decisions of which are part of the law of the land. The Democratic Party pledges itself to eliminate illegal discriminations . . . in relation to (1) full rights to vote, (2) full rights to engage in gainful occupation, (3) full rights to enjoy security of the person, and (4) full rights to education in publicly supported institutions."

Foreign Policy

"The way to lasting peace is to forego bluster and bluff, to regain the steadiness of purpose, to join again in faithful concert with the community of free nations; to look realistically at the challenging circumstances which confront us. . . . The United Nations is indispensable for the maintenance of world peace. . . . We pledge determined opposition to the admission of the Communist Chinese into the United Nations. . . ."

National Defense

"We stand for strong defense forces so clearly superior in modern weapons to those of any possible enemy. . . . The Democratic Party pledges itself to a bold and imaginative program . . . to fully utilize the brain power of America's youth, including its talent in the scientific and technical fields. We believe that a strong, effective civil defense is necessary. . . ."

Labor

"We unequivocally advocate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. . . . We feel it imperative to raise the minimum wage to at least $1.25 an hour. . . . We pledge revision and honest administration of the Walsh-Healey Act to restore its effectiveness . . . for maintaining fair standards of wages and hours. . . . We support legislation providing (for) a program to promote industry and create jobs in depressed industrial and rural areas. . . ."

Agriculture

"Sustained national prosperity is dependent upon a vigorous agricultural economy. The Democratic Party . . . (will) . . . undertake immediately by appropriate action to endeavor to regain full 100 per cent. of parity the farmers received under Democratic Administrations. We will achieve this by means of support on basic commodities at 90 per cent. of parity and by means of commodity loans, direct purchases, direct payments to producers, marketing agreements. . . ."

Germany's Position In World Affairs To Be Discussed

Mr. Gerbert H. Seger will lecture on the subject, "Germany: Past, Present and Future" Thursday, November 1, at 8 p. m., in the Student Alumni auditorium. This will be the second feature in the Community Program series.

On Friday, November 2, Mr. Seger will address the student body during the regular chapel period with the lecture "The Role of the Churches in Germany."

Mr. Seger was born in Leipzig, Germany, and was graduated from the School of Journalism, University of Leipzig.

As background for these lectures he served in the German army in World War I and then as a member of the German Reichstag on the Committee of Foreign Relations. Jailed by the Nazis as a political opponent of Hitler, he escaped to the United States, where he has become a naturalized citizen and served with the United States Army during World War II.

Republican

fort to develop a more accurate measurement of farm parity; To provide price supports as in the Agricultural Act of 1954 that protect farmers, rather than price their products out of the market; To keep agriculture strong, free, attuned to peace and not war. . . ."

Business

"We believe in good business for all business—small, medium, and large. We also propose procedural changes in the antitrust laws to facilitate their enforcement; legislation to enable closer federal scrutiny of mergers (which tend toward monopolies), continuance of the vigorous Securities and Exchange Commission policies which are providing maximum protection to the investor. . . ."

Veterans

"We believe that active duty in the armed forces during a state of war or national emergency is the highest call of citizenship, constituting a special service to our nation, and entitles those who served to positive assistance to alleviate the injuries, hardships, and handicaps imposed by their service."

This comparison can be used as the starting point for discussions that will acquaint the student with various shades of political opinion and the facts that underlie the declarations.

College People and the Election

Every four years the American people are given the opportunity and responsibility of choosing a man to lead them in solving domestic and foreign problems. He is, of course, our president.

Too many of us take the job of electing a president too lightly.

Governor George Leader, in an interview here on campus, pointed out that those who should take the lead in casting an intelligent ballot are not doing so. He referred specifically to college people.

The governor cited statistics which revealed that only one in three college people who are eligible to cast a ballot are expected to do so next month.

He went on to report that, according to his reports, college people generally were not familiar with the vital issues to be decided in this presidential election.

Undoubtedly this came as a distinct surprise to those who look upon college men and women as among the best informed in the nation.

If those of us who are to assume positions of leadership in the future are not familiar with our national affairs, how can we possibly lead effectively? The answer is obvious. We cannot fulfill our responsibility unless we take an active interest in current affairs, particularly during important national elections.

On this premise, the Political Science Club has made plans to sponsor a mock political campaign on campus to stimulate interest in the candidates and issues involved in the balloting set for November 6.

It's a worthy project and one that we hope will receive your unbridled support, regardless of whether you are of voting age or not. Training in casting an intelligent ballot is a highly desirable thing.

The ETOWNIAN is lending whole-hearted cooperation in the campus campaign by printing key passages from the platforms of both major political parties.

We hope you will read them, study them and decide for yourself which you think best for the nation under present conditions.

Politically, this paper is neutral. Our sole objective is to stimulate your interest in casting an intelligent ballot.

That is the reason we devote this space to the campaign.

Read, think, think again, and then vote.

Frosh-Soph Tug-of-War At Lake Placida, Sat.

The annual freshman-sophomore tug-of-war will take place this Saturday at 10 a. m., across the northwest corner of Lake Placida.

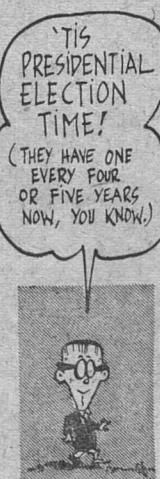

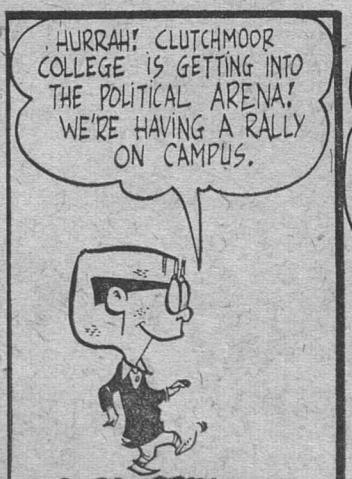

This is the chance for the freshmen to emerge from oblivion by pulling the sophomores into the lake and thereby winning the right to discard the hated dinks. The sophomores will try just as hard to reverse the results and remain the supreme leaders of the hapless freshmen.

The teams will be composed of ten members and victory will be determined by the winner of two of three pulls. Men and women will compete separately for their own privileges.

The rules state that any type of shoe may be worn and substitutes may be made on each squad before every pull. The first one or two pulls will be over when the first man touches the water with the final pull ending after each member of the losing squad has entered the lake. No substitutes will be allowed during the pulls. The athletic committee will judge the event and see that all rules are followed.

MUSIC FOR HOMECOMING . . . Music, both choral and instrumental, will fill the air on the night of Homecoming Day as the Pottstown Band and Glee Club combine for a concert in the Alumni Gymnasium. Directed by William F. Lamb, the band and glee club will offer a variety of selections that range from the popular and musical comedy fields to opera and march numbers. A number of solo artists will perform to lend variety to what promises to be a full evening's entertainment.

Intramural Schedule Features Four Fall Sports

The intramural sports program got off to a fine start in the last two weeks as both resident and non-resident students competed in four different sports.

While the men are clashing in a touch football league and a tennis tournament, the women have been playing soccer—believe it or not—and volleyball.

In the volleyball league which sees action every Thursday night in the gym, six teams have been competing with the Co-eds, Barrettes, and Half-pints undefeated in two games each.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

	W	L
Co-eds	2	0
Barrettes	2	0
Half Pints	2	0
Hustlers	0	2
Sneaky Sneakers	0	2
Blue Jays	0	2

Thursday evening the Co-eds captained by Kitty Swigart nosed out Kitty Weaver's Hustlers 38-36 while Clara Barret's trimmed the Blue Jays of Ruth Varner 56-24. In the third tilt of the evening, the Sneaky Sneakers lost to the Half Pints 30-23. Those teams are captained by Lois Tintle and Martina Smith respectively.

The loss was the second for the Sneakers who bowed to the Barrettes last week as the Half-pints held off the Hustlers and the Co-eds bounces the Blue Jays.

All teams will be in action again Thursday night.

A two-team soccer league has been set up for the women also and the first contest ended in a scoreless tie. The squads are divided according to classes with the senior-junior team under Deloris Turner and the freshman-sophomore outfit led by Martha Reese.

These games are played on Tuesday afternoons.

A tennis tournament is currently under way for the men. Twenty players were entered at the start including representatives from every class and several members of last year's tennis team.

Curt Reiber, John Smith, and Gene Groff have survived the second round which is not completed as of yet.

The finals are scheduled to be completed by Oct. 23.

In the football league, the Eagles hold a one-point edge over the Redskins with two wins and no losses to the Redskins' win and tie. The Lions, with two ties, place third, while the Bears, Rams, and Giants are deadlocked for fourth with a loss and a tie.

TIME OUTwith
Carl Denlinger

Varied criticisms have been received since the last issue of this column as to the mythical "Little Ten" league. Most of them seemed sympathetic with the plan, but few seemed to have any hope of such becoming a reality.

I agree with them—that is, if everyone continues to sit back and say it can not be done. I personally think it can.

We can voice our opinions in local newspapers, write to other college publications, and in general express our wishes to those with the authority to promote such a league.

Just recently a step has been taken in the right direction in soccer as Coach Greene has finally been able to schedule a scrimmage with F. & M. This is a big step because scrimmages can soon lead to the appearance of F. & M. on our soccer schedule, if things follow the expected usual pattern.

Those of us who were here at E-town during the 1955-56 basketball season recognize a familiar face back on campus. Hal Wilson, '54, is back after a hitch in the army, for some education courses. It is easy to remember the last game he played for the Blue Jays when he scored 26 points in a victory over Kings. Welcome back Hal.

By the time the next issue appears, Coach Don Smith will be in the early phases of building this year's basketball team. Although he will not commit himself, you can see a smile on his face as he talks of his veteran squad. Losing only two men from last year's squad and having some standouts moving up from the J-V's, he will be able to enjoy the tough decision of who to cut to bring his squad down to size.

Well, the soccer team followed the predictions of "The Crystal Ball Department" and beat Gburg. I guess I can overlook the fact that they ruined my prediction by not scoring a fourth goal, if they promise to do just as well against those teams against whom I predicted a Blue Jay loss.

Talking to the players after the game, they seemed to be happy with the victory, naturally, but felt that their all-around play was far below their potential ability. But they also felt assured that they will have a fast, smooth-operating team as soon as they hit their stride.

I have the same feeling and I am looking forward to Saturday's game which should be a real hard-fought struggle.

Cross country coach, Ira Herr, reports that his squad has been cut to seven men by the unfortunate injury to Russ LeFevre in an automobile accident.

He also mentioned that all the candidates are upperclassmen, and wonders where the freshmen prospects are? Those interested should report to Coach Herr immediately.

They may set their own schedule for practice running and have the privilege of eating at the training table (milk for dinner!).

Well, I hate to mention this because I would have rather seen us win, but the Howard soccer score of 2-2 was identical to that predicted by this writer in the last issue. Just for fun, compare Bowers' and my predictions to the actual scores. Maybe you would even like to submit your own forecasts to this column. We will gladly accept and publish them.

Women's Athletic Club Formed; 75 Members Enrolled

by Jessie Martin

Although still in its infancy, the Women's Athletic Club, the newest campus organization, boasts a membership of 75, all of whom joined at the first meeting of the group held Oct. 1.

Designed primarily to promote interest in women's intramurals and feminine athletics in general, the club offers membership to any woman who participates in at least one varsity or intramural sport.

The new organization, advised by Miss Julia Risser, women's athletic director, will organize women in teams for various sports, including volley ball, soccer, bowling and basketball.

Students will be used for supervision and officiating in preparation for post-college leadership in camps, playgrounds and community service.

The girls will stand ready to assist in planning all college athletic programs, both men's and women's.

In the future the organization could become a member of the state and national Women's Athletic Association.

Eight Men Report For Cross Country

Eight men have been working out under Coach Ira Herr for the cross country team. These men are: Lorell Price, Don Price, Russ LeFevre, Carl Ziegler, Cal Williams, Jack Reed and Ken Miller.

The harriers, as they are commonly called, run according to their own schedule every day, regardless of the weather. They usually run east on College Avenue and out over the back roads for about 3 or 3½ miles.

By the time this goes to press they will have competed in their first meet at Juniata, and will be in training for a home meet with Albright next Tuesday.

Coach Herr is still willing to accept new candidates, especially freshmen, as he considers the present squad too small to make victory an easy task.

Cheerleading Squad Chosen Thursday

The gals who'll lead the cheers this year were chosen last week at a tryout in the gymnasium.

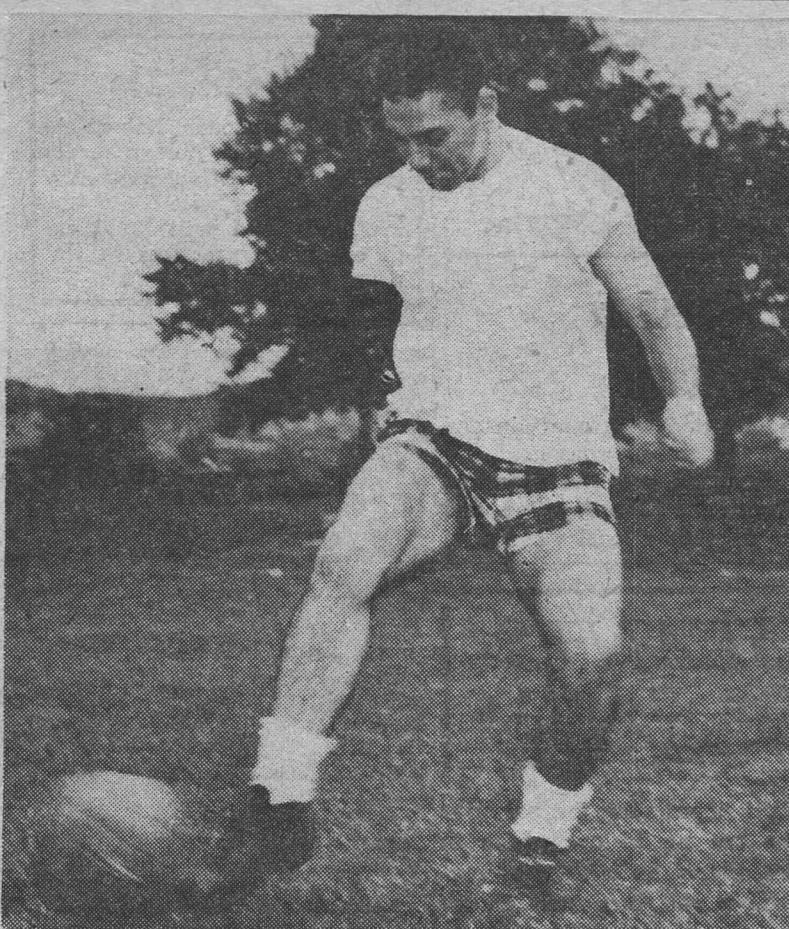

Underclassmen completely dominate the squad of which five members are returnees from last year. The holdovers, Janie MacNeal, Jeanne Risser, Jean Anne Rodgers, Joan Birdsall and Lois Tintle were selected along with four freshmen and a sophomore.

Barbara Smith, the sophomore, and freshmen, Carol Hall, Bonnie Merkle, Barbara Zimmerman and Bernice Hilberg are the newcomers.

Janie MacNeal will captain the crew but Adviser Julia Risser has not yet designated placements as to varsity and junior varsity.

The ego boosters will see action before the basketball season, including the homecoming soccer game, and any pep rallies that come up.

Miss Risser and the student senate athletic committee composed of Polly Wolf, Audrey Sprenkle, Lorell Price, Carl Denlinger, Carl Ziegler and Ken Bowers judged the try-outs.

ANOTHER POINT FOR THE BLUE JAYS . . . Senior Bob Wert dribbles in for a soccer score as he exhibits his prowess in one of his three letter-winning sports.

ON YOUR MARK! GO! . . . Coach Herr explains the basic points of running the cross country to the two seniors on the squad, Lorell Price and Ken Miller.

Bob Wert Earns "E" in 3 Sports

by Ken Bowers

In recent years, three-letter men have become scarce in the majority of colleges. It seems that today, athletics follow along with the trend toward specialization. The athletes who concentrate on one sport usually go the fartherest.

Bob Wert leads the opposition against this theory at Elizabethtown College. Last year the pint-sized speedster was one of only two three-letter men in the college and looms as the only one this year barring injury.

The ex-star of Catasauqua High School in Lehigh County stands only five feet nine inches and weighs 155 pounds, but this is no drawback to his athletic ability.

At E-town, he has played and starred in soccer, basketball and baseball. He never played soccer in high school, where football was the fall sport. After two years of watching soccer here he decided to play and promptly closed out his first season by gaining honors at wing in the Eastern Seaboard All-American team.

In his senior year in high school he won honorable mention on all-state in basketball. Here he has played both junior varsity and varsity basketball. An appendix operation slowed him down in his sophomore year but he still managed to see varsity action every year since coming here.

Baseball, too—

Come spring, Bob will be performing on the Blue Jay baseball nine. A shortstop, he finished among the top three hitters in the county last year. He plays for Limeport in the Tri-County league during the summer.

Academically, Bob is enrolled in secondary education, majoring in Spanish and English. He is a member of the committee of men's affairs and serves as president of the Varsity "E" club.

When this year is over the versatile senior hopes to teach and coach and it's surely an understatement to say that he will be missed. Athletes of his calibre are few and far between.

Jay Booters Win at Gettysburg; Deadlock Howard 2-2 at Home

Coach Greene's soccermen stand undefeated with one win and one tie, after the first two encounters of the current season.

The most recent game, and first home tilt, saw the Blue and Gray battle Howard U. to a 2-2 tie. Twice the Blue Jays led, and twice the Washingtonians came back to prevent a local victory.

Gene Wise kicked one through with the help of Gene Bucher early in the first quarter and it appeared that the Jays were off and running. A stubborn Howard eleven held off though, and the score read 1-0 at half-time.

After the visitors knotted the count early in the third frame, Bob Wert tallied in the fourth to vault the Jays back into the lead. It wasn't enough, however, because Howard's only substitution shoved one through late in the same quarter and that's the way it stayed.

A muddy field and the Howard time schedule prevented any overtime periods.

Three days earlier at Gettysburg the Blue Jays took the season opener by a 3-2 count.

The Bullets sandwiched two tallies around a Wert goal in the first period and led at intermission 2-1. A fiery third frame, though, sparked by Wise's pair of goals provided the margin of victory.

E-town linemen were constantly on the move as the 26 saves of Gettysburg's goalie suggests, but they couldn't find the right combination at the right time.

Fouling was frequent in the fracas with 25 fouls detected by the officials, 15 of which were called on the Jays. The Bullets, meanwhile, lost the ball no less than ten times, on offside penalties.

Jaygals Trounce Teachers, 10-1

Fresh from a pre-season win over the Blue Ridge Hockey Club, Miss Risser's Jaygals came right back to trounce Millersville, 10-1, in the first regularly scheduled contest of the season.

Fran Hoover contributed five goals with Yvonne Brubaker, Jessie Martin and Joan Rigler, netting two, two and one respectively.

The Teachers scored shortly after the opening whistle but went no farther as the Bluebirds racked up six for a 6-1 half-time lead.

The game was played at Millersville as part of their annual homecoming program.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

Right about now the majority of us are up to our necks in books, therefore, a little recreation now and then will do no harm. Now that we're down to the grind, however, the athletic program is in full swing.

Both the hockey and soccer teams have seen action as well as the cross country outfit which, incidentally, Ira Herr will mentor. Better yet, intra-murals have gotten off to a better start than in recent years.

Polly Wolf and Lorell Price have gone out of their way to supply every interested student on campus a chance to get out and flex the muscles and loosen the legs. Conditions here as far as time and space are concerned hinder the program slightly, but this year's assortment of sports this early is the best yet.

Miss Risser's Blue Birds got off to a fine start with a 4-2 scrimmage win over the Blue Ridge Hockey Club of Harrisburg. The offense looked especially impressive continually peppering the Blue Ridge goal with shots.

Freshman Fred Zimmerman's sister, Pat, the visiting goalie, had 27 saves to statistically support the fact.

Fran Hoover (naturally) paced the co-eds with all four of the Jaygal scores. Beware Shippensburg on Homecoming Day.

The Blue Jay Booters, on the other hand, scrimmaged to a tie at Franklin & Marshall in their first taste of competition.

Gene Bucher and Bob Balthaser netted the E-town goals in the 2-2 draw.

We salute the booters for this affair with a college that's supposed to be out of our class, especially since several players, including starters Bob Wert, Earl Mellott and Larry Reber, missed the game because of injuries.

All three were back in action at Gettysburg although Reber was obviously bothered by his thigh injury.

Center-Forward Fran Hoover Leads E-town Hockey Team for Second Year

by Don Price

This being her second and final year of varsity hockey Fran Hoover, E-town's first-rate center-forward, will be no small loss to Coach Julia Risser's forces next year. For, with a full season ahead, more than a little of the team's success rests on her shoulders.

Bluebirds Face G-burg Here Tomorrow Host Shippensburg on Homecoming Day

Gettysburg, the next opponent for Coach Julia Risser's gals, will undoubtedly be the game the Blue Birds are pointing for.

Last season this team handed E-town its only defeat of the campaign, 4-2.

This year's battle is listed for the home field tomorrow, October 16.

Next on the schedule is Shippensburg, the only club able to tie the high-flying birds last year.

The locals travel to Albright to tangle with the Lionesses, a team of Jaygals bounced last year, 7-0.

Millersville provides the opposition October 30 in the final home game of the season, and judging from last year's encounter, the Blue Birds should win easily.

To conclude the season East Stroudsburg, a new team on the schedule, will provide the opposition November 5.

Soccermen Invade Drexel Wednesday

With six games remaining on the schedule, Coach D. Paul Greene's soccer squad faces one of their toughest foes of the campaign in Drexel at Philadelphia.

Last year the Jays pulled out a 4-3 victory mainly because of Bob Wert's three goals.

On Homecoming Day the E-towners hope to avenge a 2-1 defeat by East Stroudsburg on a rain-soaked field.

Wilkes, the next opponent, will also be on the revenge list as they dumped the locals in last year's Homecoming Day battle, 4-1.

The final home game is set for November 6 when Lock Haven comes to town. In the '55 encounter the teachers whitewashed the Greenmen, 1-0, in a game that was regarded as one of the top battles of the season. This year's dual should be no exception.

To wrap up the campaign, the Jays go to Bucknell to settle last year's game that ended in a 2-2 deadlock.

President Envisions Campus Growth In Reporting To Board Of Trustees

In his report to the Board of Trustees of the college recently Dr. A. C. Baugher, president, outlined in broad terms the expected growth and development of Elizabethtown College over the next eight years.

His report, all of which was approved by the board, included all aspects of college activity from the enlargement of the student body to the need for more faculty members and physical facilities.

According to Dr. Baugher's report enrollment for next year should reach 600 and by 1965 should swell to 750, which has been established as the maximum for the college's facilities, including new construction.

Of the 750 students expected by 1965, 550 should be resident students. The on-campus enrollment may be further broken down to 325 men and 225 women. The other 200 will be commuting students.

A faculty of 50 members will be needed to properly instruct the maximum enrollment, Dr. Baugher continued.

The following statements taken from the official report to the Trustees reflect the anticipated physical changes on campus.

"When the new dining hall becomes available the present dining room and kitchen should be used for (1) a college store, large enough for an enrollment of 750; (2) a snack bar where light refreshments will be served including some lunches for non-resident students; (3) a post office; (4) a student activities room; (5) some faculty offices; and, (6) the Alumni office.

"Because of the extremely crowded conditions in the present Registrar's office and the Dean's office, it is proposed to move these two offices to the east end of Alpha Hall first floor where the office of the Alumni Secretary and Student Activities office are now located.

"And to make the room now occupied by the Development office available for the Library, it is our plan to bring the Development office and the office of the Treasurer to the room now occupied by the Dean.

"When the college store is moved from its present location in the basement of Rider Hall, that space can be used for a classroom, faculty office space, lavatories, and the enlargement of the day student room now limited to the old gymnasium.

"It is important that early and definite attention be given to the need for a field house to provide facilities for the health, recreation, intramural, and our intercollegiate sports program.

"When a new field house does become a reality, then the present gymnasium-auditorium can be converted into a chapel-auditorium. This building would then also likely provide facilities for our Department of Music."

Speech Therapy Talks Scheduled Next Month

Techniques of speech therapy will be discussed by two guest speakers in room 168, Friday, December 7, in a program arranged by the Teaching of Reading Class.

Scheduled to lead the discussion are Miss Martha Dohner, teacher at the Crippled Children's State Hospital, and Dr. Charles Cumston, speech therapist.

Student Recital Tonight In Chapel

The first of a series of student music recitals is scheduled for this evening at 7 p. m. in the chapel, when solos will be presented by organ, voice, and piano students.

Organ solos will be offered by Lois Hershberger and Ruth Ann Yeager under the direction of Mr. Reginald Lunt. Lois will play "Greensleeves" by Purvis, and Ruth Ann will offer "In Quiet Joy" by Dupre and "Christmas Pastorale" by Bach.

Helen Louise Bucher, Shirley Heller, and Marie Hoover, piano students under Mrs. E. G. Meyer, will play "Scarf Dance" by C. Chaminade, "Moment Musical" op. 94 by Franz Schubert, and "Elfin Dance" op. 12 by E. Grieg, respectively.

Under the direction of Prof. Nevin Fisher, vocal solos will be presented by the following: Ruthanne Butterbaugh, singing "Down in the Forest" by Landon Ronald; Warren Bates, "Great Peace Have They" by Rogers.

Esther Hershman will sing "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from the opera "Samson and Delilah" by C. Saint-Saens; Patricia Shelley, "You and I" by Ward Stephens; Theodore Yohe, "Captain Mac" by Wilfrid Sanderson; and Lois Zeigler, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

Opera Star To Sing In Community Series

Metropolitan Opera soprano Jarmila Novotna will present a concert of popular, semi-classical, and classical selections here in the next offering of the Community Program Series, Dec. 4.

Jarmila Novotna

The program, entitled "Moments To Remember," will feature selections which have proven favorites over the years.

A fluent linguist, Miss Novotna sings numbers in either French, German, Italian, or English. She has appeared in several motion pictures including The Great Caruso with Mario Lanza, and The Search.

While on Broadway she has starred in the musical Helen Goes To Troy and Sherlock Holmes. She also appeared in the TV production The Great Waltz.

The Community Program series is sponsored by Patton School and The College students will be admitted upon presentation of their activities booklets.

Holiday Atmosphere Prevalent; College Plans Special Programs

The tempo of year-end holiday activities, which begin tomorrow with the start of Thanksgiving vacation, will quicken during December and reach a crescendo with the arrival of the Christmas season.

Already various campus organizations are making tentative plans for pre-Christmas programs, including a special dramatic production, a children's party, Christmas movies, and the annual Deans Yule Bowl.

In addition, a special Christmas meal is being planned, chapel services will reflect the mood of the season, and the perennial caroling trip through Elizabethtown will take place.

The Student Senate will open the yuletide programs with a series of Christmas movies in the chapel December 14. A party for patients from the Crippled Children's Hospital will be held in the gymnasium, December 19, under the sponsorship of the Student Christian Association.

Yule Bowl

Also scheduled for the 19th is the Deans' Yule Bowl, an annual informal gathering in the Alpha Hall living room to which all students and faculty are invited.

The dramatic and music departments will combine to present A Child Is Born, a modern drama of the nativity, on the evening of December 20. Following the play the SCA will sponsor a caroling trip down town.

Christmas vacation is scheduled to begin after 4 p. m., December 21. Classes will resume January 7, at 7:40 a. m.

Campus Students Ready to Embark On Kansas Trip

At least 25 students from Elizabethtown will be making a trip to MacPherson College, Kansas, to take part in the annual conference of the Brethren Student Christian Movement, November 22 through 25.

Theme for the conference will be, "The History of Faith."

The local group will be accompanied by Prof. Robert Byerly, who will be Bible study leader at the meeting. They will travel first to Juniata College, and then, along with Juniata students, will go by bus to MacPherson, Kansas.

The conference will be attended by students and led by professors from all six Brethren Colleges.

Kenneth Miller, Elizabethtown's representative on the BSCM council reports that the program will be full of spiritual enlightenment in the form of meditation, talks and discussion groups. This will be a chance for Brethren students from all over the United States to join in a bond of Christian fellowship.

Students Bates and Yohe Merge School With Full-time Ministerial Charges

by Carl Denlinger

Known to their classmates as Ted and Warren, two upperclassmen have acquired the title of pastor in their respective congregations.

Ted Yohe, senior, and Warren Bates, junior, have taken an early step toward their proposed life-time profession by becoming pastors of small churches in Dauphin County and Steelton, respectively.

Coming Chapels Feature Orchestra, Gray, King

A concert by the newly-formed college orchestra will highlight the chapel program for November 30, the first to be sponsored by the Student Association.

Programs during next month will feature addresses by Prof. Albert L. Gray December 7; the Rev. M. Guy West, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren, York, December 14; and Dr. James Roy King, December 21.

Mr. Yohe is the student pastor of the Clark's Valley and Zionville E. C. congregations, located in a small community 13 miles west of Harrisburg. They are two small separate churches, each having an enrollment of nearly 50. In order for Ted to hold weekly services in each church, he preaches in one in the morning and the other in the evening. This routine alternates every week and provides a tough schedule for a young man who is also carrying 12 academic hours at

Republicans Win Campus Election

By overwhelmingly re-electing the Republican team of Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon, students proved to be harbingers for the nation at large as they voted in a mock election here earlier this month.

Figures released by the Political Science Club, which sponsored the straw vote, indicate that the Republicans defeated Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, 252 to 40.

In the contest for United States Senator from Pennsylvania the students voted contrary to state-wide trends by electing Republican James Duff over Democrat Joseph Clark, 205 to 82. Clark won by a narrow margin in the state balloting.

A total of 338 students and faculty members registered to vote in the campus election.

Let's Look at Our Elections

Republicans and Democrats alike had a common plea during the recently completed election campaign.

They urged voters to become fully acquainted with the candidates and issues at stake in the election. And both parties took better than two months of intensive campaigning to put their men and objectives across.

There's a lesson in this that could well be learned and adopted here at Elizabethtown as we go about the business of electing various student officers for the next school year.

We have been fortunate so far in electing people to student offices who have a genuine interest in promoting the best interests of the college and the student body. However, we cannot depend upon this to continue unless everyone takes a more active role in the process of election.

The ETOWNIAN presents the following suggestions concerning student elections on the campus:

(1) That the campaign for each office be extended over a greater time span.

(2) That time be set aside for candidates to speak to the student body on their qualifications and objectives.

(3) That each candidate have a committee of backers to promote his cause on campus in a spirited and straightforward manner.

(4) That every effort be made to create general interest in the various elections.

(5) That each candidate be required to present a signed statement of his or her objectives and qualifications to the student body.

The Shrimp Whistles

"Anyone who expects Communism to change will have to wait until a shrimp learns to whistle."

Nikita Kruschev, a man long known for putting his foot in his mouth, boastfully coined that phrase while visiting Great Britain not too long ago.

And now as he reflects behind the imposing walls of the Kremlin, Kruschev may remember those words as he hears reports of the unrest and rebellion that are shaking the satellites.

While the basic doctrines of world Communism remain constant and unwavering, the external nature of Bolshevism has changed, and according to seasoned observers, will continue to change.

The solid, granite-hard front of Communism has begun to crack. The Red leaders in the Kremlin have been forced to make the "agonizing reappraisal" of their policies toward the satellites.

They have been forced to go to Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia with hat in hand to woo him into returning, at least in part, to the Soviet orbit.

They have been forced to recognize a government in Poland that, while not unfriendly toward Moscow, is not hand-picked by Kruschev and company.

They have been forced to resort to raw military force in crushing the Hungarians and thereby had their farcical role of "big brother" exposed for everyone, even the hard-to-convince neutrals, to see.

Indeed the shrimp is whistling for Kruschev. And its tune may be Nikita's swan song as Soviet dictator.

And We Are Here

Fall of '56—Pregnant With History

Whether we realize it or not, the events that are crowding the front pages of the nation's newspapers may well be shaping the broad course of history for years to come.

The most portentous of today's newsmaking developments as far as the immediate and distant future are concerned is the imminent collapse of Russia's satellite empire.

That the Soviet satellites are breaking the iron grip of the Kremlin is evident. Russia's empire is cracking and falling toward complete collapse. As one leading news magazine states, the total breakdown is simply a matter of time.

This fact is fraught with significance for all of us. Each and every one of us and those who come after us will be effected by the Russian bloc breakdown for the simple reason that world Communism, while still a major threat, will not be able to offer a single united front as it did during the days of Stalin.

However, one battle won doesn't assure total victory unless we are prepared to follow up our advantage. We must remember that Communism, united or not, still subscribes to the same basic objective: world domination.

Ever since the end of World War II many authorities held the opinion that the West was losing the cold war, that we were on the defensive while the Reds gained in Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

This trend, if true in the first place, has now been reversed, and the Free World has won a resounding victory. We are now clearly on the offense while the leaders in the Kremlin scramble to re-align their policies, try to patch up the ever-widening cracks in the Iron Curtain.

The open revolts in Hungary, Poland and East Germany and the reported unrest in Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Russia proper are proof positive that Communism hasn't worked and can be beaten.

This is another major ideological triumph for the Western World.

Frustated by the revolts in the satellites, the new pattern of Communism as set by the Kremlin in the massive policy change will feature "sovereign" states run by "independent" Red leaders. Even this approach failed in Hungary where anti-Soviet forces demanded a complete and utter withdrawal of Russian troops and influence.

In short, the present trouble behind the Iron Curtain adds up to the greatest crisis the Communists have faced since World War II.

Self-Sufficiency Is Non-Existent

Too many of us don't like to be reminded that we are not self-sufficient. But the truth, uncomfortable as it may be, is that we owe so many debts of gratitude that they can scarcely be enumerated.

For example, we owe the gift of life to our parents, the gift of social fellowship to those around us, the gift of citizenship in a free country to our forebears, the gift of open opportunity to our society, the gift of a college education to those who provided the means and to the institution whereat we study, and above all, the gift of spiritual discernment, to God.

Be thankful for these and all our blessings on Thanksgiving Day.

Off The Beaten Track

with

Bob Balthaser

Now that the election and all the politicking is in the past, how many remember the gent who so stoutly defended his party the night of the hayride? Politically challenged by three wagonloads of students, he nevertheless stood his ground.

Interesting things get posted on bulletin boards. In the boys' dorm for example, pictures are clipped from the ETOWNIAN and tagged on the wall together with headlines of other articles. Fancy, if you can, the picture of cross-country men Lorell Price and Ken Miller with this caption "Cheerleaders Chosen!"

Wish we could have been at the WGAL-TV station the morning of Prof. Franke's College of the Air lecture. Eight minutes before the program's scheduled ending he uttered, "And in conclusion . . ." Hard to say what the cameramen and program directors thought just then. It would have been fun seeing their agonized expressions as they ran about pulling out their hair.

The Pottstown Band's performance the night of Homecoming was exceptionally good. What stands out in our memory is the push that the master of ceremonies received from a soloist walking to the center of the stage. The MC continued his introduction as he was hurled face first into the microphone.

Another freshman makes the news! Prof. Spurling was calling the role in a sociology class one day. After he read Joanne Brant's name there was silence. Just as he was ready to go on to the next name, "Dagwood" B.S.A. (before sprained ankle), Brant barged into the room with a loud and belated, "Here!"

We're not saying that anybody comes to breakfast in their sleep, but one morning the guy seated next to us bowed his head and began his prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep . . ."

When Larry Seiders sings the song, "Throw Momma from the Train a Kiss," he does it with lyrics of his own. Things like, "throw Poppa down the stairs, his hat" and "throw the cow over the fence, some hay."

Ken Miller's car was towed onto campus by Amos Cunningham the other weekend. Before the towing apparatus was dismantled, Ken's car was ticketed with a decal notice. How 'bout that! He got a ticket before he drove his car. Oh, well, that's the way the old mop flops.

Nearly everyone got an extra hour's sleep with the advent of standard time. However, Bobby Wert, who forgot to turn his clock back, didn't. At 11:30 o'clock that fateful Sunday morning, Bob rushed into deserted Alpha Hall, then did an about face, and trekked dejectedly back to South Hall to wait another hour till dinner.

Watch those unconscious gestures. A magazine article reports that nose rubbing is a sign of disbelief, and that the swinging of a crossed leg indicates boredom and the taking of an imaginary walk away from it all. Actions speak louder than words or something like that.

THE ETOWNIAN

Page Three

'Academically, Spiritually, Socially'

Our College: How Does it Rate?

In the belief that a college degree should signify more than four years of successfully passing academic examinations, the ETOWNIAN polled a representative group of students on three specific aspects of college life.

In the group were members of the Student Senate, dormitory heads, religious group leaders, and average members of the student body. They represented all classes, from freshmen to seniors.

They were asked to comment on the progress made by the college in providing students with (1) an academic education, (2) proper spiritual environment, and (3) training in social techniques.

Their answers were given only after careful and serious consideration. This is what they said:

"While the fostering of education and a sound moral foundation remain the primary responsibilities of a college, we cannot discount the need for a broad social background. In the modern world of today there is an increasing need for the individual to be socially well-rounded. The college should not forget that one of its duties is to create an atmosphere where a wide and full social character may be developed."

Gloria Keller, senior—"I feel that this college can improve the quality and quantity of its educational program to meet the needs of a growing student enrollment. I commend the organizations responsible for the social and spiritual life on campus. However, there is room for improvement here, too. Much of one's attitude is based on why we came to college."

Jay Lutz, senior—"I feel that this college has always given adequate religious guidance, and on the social and educational level I can see a definite swing toward the upgrade. But an interesting feature in all three of these considerations is the administration. Here, I think, a policy more coordinated with student interests would be appreciated."

Edwin Ankeny, junior—"Educationally, religiously and socially the college curriculum is well rounded. Too often, I believe, we as the students complain about the institution but fail to assume any leadership. We all expect to follow. The administration cannot correct these things we believe wrong unless we express our feelings."

Barbara Marzolf, freshman—"I like the social life here. It's well rounded for the size of the college. Perhaps we could use a few dances, but between studies and membership in campus organizations my time is well taken up."

Pauline Wolfe, senior—"Social activities sputter here, Frankly, I think social polish is grossly neglected. This includes dancing and general training in behavior at formal or semi-formal functions."

Robert Peterson, sophomore—"The educational and spiritual standards here are adequate, but social life is lacking. I'm for dances and fraternities. Social activities should have equal standing with education and spiritual activities."

Joyce Schaffner, sophomore—"Social life is lacking, and I don't mean simply dancing. I don't think students like to go to the living room and just sit after the evening meal. Maybe a snack bar with a juke box on campus would help. Let's not be so naive about dancing."

James Pannebaker, junior

"Educational and spiritual functions are effective, but there is a lack of social training. I believe social training is needed for college graduates as they enter their professions, and this includes all aspects of social etiquette. Social clubs are needed here."

Bruce Slaybaugh, sophomore

"Educational standards are satisfactory and spiritual life is good. However, social life is lacking. There just isn't enough, particularly over the week ends, which are devoid of popular social activities."

Marilyn Mellinger, freshman

"The educational, spiritual and social program is well rounded in my opinion. My time is certainly taken up with campus organizations such as Sock and Buskin and SCA."

Louise Kauffman, senior

"Educational standards are good and this spiritual training fulfills the need here. However, social life is not well coordinated and leaves out the social polish a college graduate should have upon graduation."

Colvin Carter, sophomore

"Social life here could be improved by a better equipped and larger recreation hall. I favor dancing on campus, but I recognize the church's position on this and I'm willing to abide by it. Maybe a canteen with a juke box would help."

Edwin Muller, senior

"Educational standards are adequate, but I feel I could be better prepared in certain subjects as far as graduate school is concerned. Our spiritual life is satisfactory, but social life is lacking. Our students don't receive enough practice in social etiquette. There is no concerted effort to provide social polish in connection with our future occupations."

Curtis Reiber, junior

"The college is rapidly gaining in the fields of education and religious matters. Socially we are at a standstill. The failure of the administration to consider student opinion which has been expressed by the senate has bothered me to a great degree. The senate is looking forward to discussing common problems with the administration."

Kathryn Swigart, senior

"As I think back over the three years that I've been here, our social opportunities have become better and better. Of course, there is much room for improvement, but the student body has a great deal to do with that. With good Student Senates, hard working and planning committees, and student support such as we have had this year, I believe our social opportunities will be on the level of our educational and spiritual training in just a few years, but this takes time, thought and planning."

WHAT HAVE WE LEARNED?—Prof. Robert Byerly, director of religious activities, goes over the high points of Religious Emphasis Week with members of the planning committee. From the left they are Audrey Kilhefner, Theodore Yohe, Glenn Snelbecker, Edwin Muller, Nadine Larry, Eldon Morehouse, and Prof. Byerly. The group reviewed highlights of addresses made by Dr. Robert Sherfy, guest religious leader.

Dr. Robert Sherfy Poses Challenge As Religious Emphasis Week Closes

By Daniel Brensinger

Dr. Robert Sherfy, guest leader of Religious Emphasis Week on campus, climaxed his stay here by issuing a challenge to students to answer God's call during an address to an all-college chapel service, October 26.

His talk was in line with the main theme of the week, "God's Call and Man's Response."

During his stay on campus Dr. Sherfy met with students, both individually and in groups, to answer questions on religious topics.

The week of fellowship began on Tuesday evening October 23, with a reception for Dr. Sherfy in Alpha Lounge, which was hosted by Eldon Morehouse. Pauline Wolfe and Barbara Theel were in charge of the tea.

Following the reception a Vesper service was held in the auditorium-gymnasium. Students participating in the service were Dorothy Larry, Maynard Grunstra, Jean Fretz, Mary Lou Armstrong and Heinz Bednarick.

At 6:40 a.m., Wednesday, Dr. Sherfy led a morning vigil with the assistance of Amos Cunningham.

"Our Business as Christians" was the topic of Dr. Sherfy's SCA talk. He used the Samson story to illustrate the do's and don'ts of leading a Christian life.

"A Christian's business is not only to save one's soul, but to save humanity." He hit upon the highlights of leading a good life, rather than always obeying natural instincts as if we had no capacity to decide what is wrong and what is not.

Also on the program was a violin trio including Esther Herschman, Esther Frantz and George Smith. Shirley Heller, Pat Shelly and Ted Yohe lent assistance in the presentation of this program.

Three requirements for life stated by Dr. Sherfy in the chapel held Thursday morning were: a matter of sensitivity, responsibility and dedication to purpose. He dwelt on the fact that life is not a matter of routine but of quality. Curtis Rieber was the student presiding over this service.

"Who Do You Think You Are?" was discussed at the Thursday evening service. A male quartet including Ted Yohe, Warren Bates, Peter Thompson and Charles Cobaugh sang.

Dr. Sherfy used the creation story for purposes of illustration

News and Nonsense

from

Other Campuses

College people are a breed by themselves, and stories about college people, some serious and others not-so-serious, always make good reading. We gleaned the following information from the Associated Collegiate Press and offer it for your approval.

Let's think first about a new system of "Classmanship" devised by Oklahoma Daily writer Ed Turner.

Put briefly, Turner's system has to do with frustrating a well-meaning professor to the extent that he seeks employment in a munitions factory. These are his simple rules:

1. Always be late for class. Upon entering the room never look meek or apologetic. Appear surprised that the class has started or even hurt that they could begin without you.

2. Openly disagree with the professor. For example, the economics prof may say profoundly: "The theories of Adam Smith are the foundations of our modern system of economics." Then you say in an audible whisper: "But that's no passe." This makes the prof sound antique and drives him to distraction (it says here).

3. Develop your "leavemanship" techniques. About ten minutes before class is over slam your book shut, zip up your notebook, tuck your pencil neatly in your pocket, and begin tapping your foot spasmodically. At five minutes before the hour, scoot to the edge of your seat, alternating your gaze between the wall clock and your watch, and about "X minus five minutes, X minus four minutes," etc., right up to the end of the class period.

Turner's suggestions stop here. As a fourth step, however, we suggest that you be prepared to receive a friendly summons to view the scenery through Dean McAuley's office window.

If you think conditions are crowded here, check this item from the University of Texas.

It seems in making the dormitory room assignments for the new school term somebody goofed and sent out more assignments than there were rooms.

Result: 16 students showed up only to find themselves without space to lay their weary heads.

Harried university officials assigned them "quarters" in the halls of the dormitory while they awaited expected cancellations.

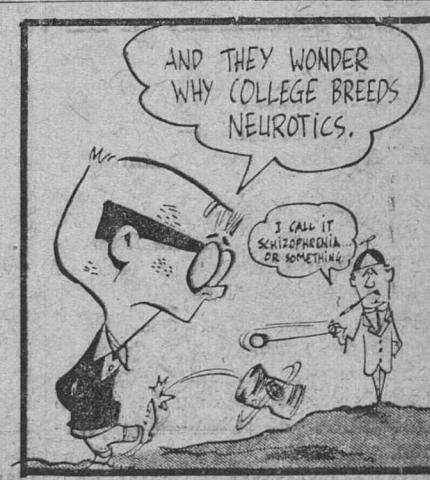

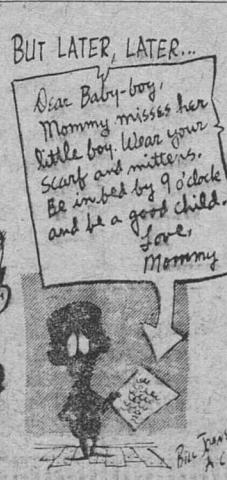

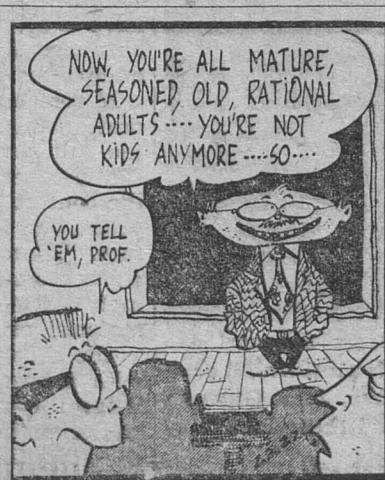

At last report the cancellations hadn't materialized, and those hardy Texans are still sacked out in the halls of the dorm.

This is living?

And finally this little example of esprit de corps from the University of Mexico, where students came to the aid of one of their number who suffered a broken leg when struck by a bus.

Their concerted action was swift, bold and effective.

They seized several buses and held them until the bus company agreed to pay damages to the unfortunate student.

A Good ExampleOlder Students Demonstrate Maturity In Everyday Aspects of College Life

by John E. Way, Jr.

There is a certain quality in a mature individual that is totally lacking in the everyday behavior of one who has not yet reached that stage of development.

This fact struck me as being most prominent as I talked to two of the older students on campus. Age to these people is not a hindrance in getting an education.

I'm speaking of Mr. Thomas Stimac and Miss Ruth Martin who have come to our campus later than the average college freshman, but they have stepped into the role of students with as much zest and ardor as any teenage freshman.

Mr. Stimac comes to us via 25 years of service in the U. S. Air Force Medical Corps. He served in the China-Burma-India theater during the Second World War.

He graduated from Marysville High School in Michigan and now makes his home at 1010 Plane Street in Middletown, Penna. Mr. Stimac is one of those quiet reserved sort of individuals who seems well contented at being a college freshman and an expectant grandfather at the same time.

Starts New Career

He is working on his B.S. in Secondary Education and likes his course. There must be a definite gratification in being retired from the armed forces and starting an entire new field at the end of long years devoted to the U. S. Government.

When asked about his life during the 25 years he spent in the service he smiled and said, "I wouldn't recommend anybody to stay in the service that long."

He spent some time in Panama and just a year ago he came home from England to end his last enlistment. If there are orchids to be given perhaps they should be given to this student who is starting a career after having finished another.

Miss Ruth Martin is the daughter of the Rev. J. H. Martin of Elizabethtown. She lives at 229 Lemon street, and also has that unique quality of maturity that seems to demand respect.

She is majoring in Elementary Education and is enjoying her life as a student.

Steady Study Habits

Having been delayed in her quest for an education doesn't seem to have hindered her zeal in sinking into the books, because she can be found in the library during most of her spare time and she is always studying.

These are two people who go relatively unnoticed during the day when students are rushing to classes, but perhaps a look at their earnestness and their real desire to learn will give some of the younger students a boost when they feel the depression that comes during final examinations and they have a fear they may be thwarted in their quest for an education.

Names in the News

Gloria Keller, James Baugher and Audrey Sprenkle, all members of Future Teachers of America, attended the Delta Kappa Gamma tea for high school F.T.A. students in Lancaster. They represented the college in a panel discussion.

Robert Balthaser and his band entertained the children at the State Hospital during a recent Halloween party. Also on the entertainment program were Dolores Turner, Corrine Fauntleroy and Nadine Larry.

Margaret Geissler and Lloyd Shim were guests of the Lancaster College Club on a tour of Washington, D. C. recently.

Heinz Bednarzick and Celia Lascaris attended a fellowship buffet supper in Lancaster recently as guests of the American Association of University Women.

Safety Contest Coming

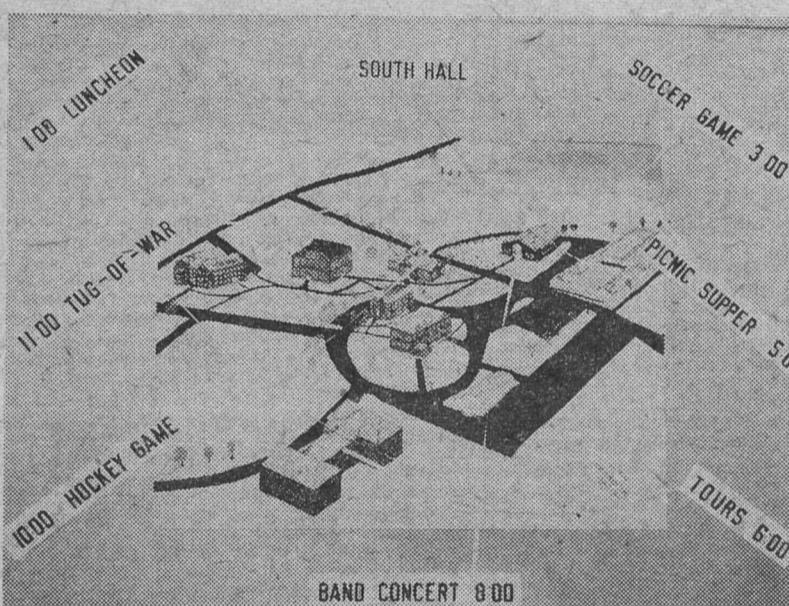

The December issue of the ETOWNIAN will present a series of stories, pictures and cartoons dealing with safety on the nation's highways over the holidays.

The safety drive is being held in conjunction with the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company, which annually conducts a safety contest.

Students wishing to submit materials, either pictorial or written, may do so by contacting the ETOWNIAN.

SOCK AND BUSKIN

"The Use of Dramatics in Church Work" will be the topic of a talk to be given by Miss Jean Roland, '54, at the next meeting.

All students interested in this phase of church work, whether members of the Sock and Buskin or not, are invited to the meeting December 11, room 242.

The Lutheran Student Association will feature a student-led discussion concerning the Lutheran Church Calendar at its next meeting November 27.

The subject will be broken down into the six seasons of the calendar; Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Easter, and the Trinity.

As always, the meeting will be open to all college students, and after the discussion refreshments will be served.

East Prussia to ElizabethtownGerman Student Likes Friendly Campus; Tells of His Life Here and in Europe

by Heinz Bednarzick

Life was given to me the early weeks of the year 1936 in a small town in the province of East Prussia. Today this birthplace of mine unfortunately is occupied by the Polish.

The year 1944 can be noted as the turning point in my youth. This year, as history delivers, many Germans, including me, had to leave their native country to seek refuge in some western-located area, because the enemy, the Russians, were attacking and invading.

Our search for refuge, however, was ended by the landing in a Danish detention camp where my brothers and sister and I were forced to stay for almost three years.

Parents are hardly in my memory, since father died in the beginning of 1937, and mother, in the fall of 1944.

The years in the detention camp were not of pleasant nature. However, with some courage and faith we finally managed to return to Germany in fall, 1947.

My high school career ended with graduation in 1953 when I, a few months later, had the opportunity to visit the U. S. as an exchange student on the basis of the International Exchange Student Program. During my exchange year I attended Hershey High School and was graduated in 1955.

While in the States, I became very much interested in business work and especially in export business, and I decided to work in export business after my return to Germany. The company, by the way, with which I had the pleasure to work, exported road building equipment and machinery to all countries in the world except the United States.

However, my ambitions to further my education resulted in leaving the company and entering this college this fall.

Impressions of America

My impressions of America are mixed. Even though many Americans are of German descent their traditions and customs have changed so much that they hardly can be compared anymore with the ones their ancestors had in their home countries.

Little things like preparing a meal, behaviour and attitude of children to parents, behaviour of adults while away from home and while visiting friends are different. Social life varies even more. There are for example, public dances, the attitude towards smoking and drinking, and what is of great importance the attitude of young men to young women.

If a foreigner does not know any of the mentioned differences in family and social life he might leave the U. S. with a feeling of great dissatisfaction and disappointment.

Another important factor is cultural life. People back in Germany, it seems to me, appreciate the fine arts of living more than I have seen people do in the States.

Life on the campus of Elizabethtown College can be and often times is real pleasant, for the friendliness of students as well as administration are contributing factors. The location of the campus and the arrangement of the buildings so wonderfully chosen that it makes the student feel right at home.

Campus Life

Campus life varies from German high school life as much as it does from university life. In high schools we have to take up many subjects and are forced to learn, while our universities are so liberal that you do not even have to attend classes. One must be prepared for the final oral examinations only.

If someone does not pass the oral examination, he has to take the full semester all over again. While attending the university, the contact between students and professors is of impersonal nature. There are no question and answer sessions permitted. The motto is at all times: Grasp the material or flunk and try again.

The changes of teaching I note with a hearty welcome. On the E-town campus the helpfulness and friendliness of professors to EN ROUTE TO THE LAKE—Members of the freshman tug-of-war team strain mightily but to no avail as they were hauled unceremoniously through the waters of Lake Placida in one of the special features of Homecoming Day last month. As a result of their defeat, the yearlings were forced to wear their dinks until Thanksgiving.

Campus Assumes Cosmopolitan Air By Mixed Enrollment

by Jessie Martin

When speaking of colleges with a cosmopolitan atmosphere, Elizabethtown cannot be overlooked.

The current student body is composed of 550 students from 221 different secondary schools, located in 17 states, the District of Columbia, the Canal Zone and five foreign countries.

There are 204 women, outnumbered by 346 male students.

The freshman class numbers 192, while the sophomores run a close second at 158. These plus 108 juniors, 88 seniors and four special students complete the count.

Among the states, Pennsylvania contributes 464 students from 34 different counties. New Jersey second, represented by 32 students.

Hong Kong provides three students, Korea two, Germany two, Latvia and Greece one each.

In the enrollment in courses science majors lead with a total of 154. Education majors number 150, followed by 119 in Business Administration, 111 in liberal arts and 16 in secretarial science.

Parking Violations Down, But Still Occur

On-campus parking violations are on the decrease as most students are heeding regulations, according to Wilbur Weaver, business manager.

Mr. Weaver repeated that parking areas marked by yellow lines are reserved for faculty members and administrators, while the white-lined areas are set aside for students.

Violations of this ruling have been prevalent, particularly in the area north of Memorial Hall, he said.

A few students have not yet registered their cars in the business office, he went on to say as he again urged prompt action on the part of the delinquents.

Admission Requirements Tighten; Applications Top Last Year

Despite the fact that admission requirements are tighter, applications are ahead of last year's as the student recruitment program moves into full swing with visits to the campus by prospective students for all area high schools.

Under a new ruling this year only the top 40 per cent. of a high school graduating class will be eligible for acceptance by Elizabethtown, according to Eby Espenshade, director of admissions.

Looking ahead to possibly beginning their college careers here, students have come from Hempfield, Donegal, Elizabethtown, Middletown, Hummelstown, Manheim, Pequea Valley and Susquehanna high schools to Campus for tours.

Approximately 225 new students are expected to be enrolled here next year. Of these 200 will be freshmen and 25 transfer students, Mr. Espenshade said.

As part of the college's plan to attract better students, campus officials will visit the greater Johnstown area, Somerset, Central Dauphin, Upper Moreland, Oxford, Pottstown, Lebanon, Milton, Reading and York. The college representative will address students at these schools as they hold their respective "college nights."

Rejections Mounting

Statistics released by the admissions' office reveal that the college turned down about ten per cent. of all female applicants and 30 per cent. of the male applicants this year.

Indications point to even higher percentages of rejections for next year, Mr. Espenshade reported. He went on to relate that admission requirements have been raised considerably in the past few years.

Is History Major

Planning to receive his Liberal Arts degree with a major in history this spring, Ted is quick to explain that his college background in sociology has been of much help in working with "his people." He also adds that the Bible courses have provided him with much of his material for sermons and talks.

This hard working senior from York claims that he divides his time equally between lesson preparation and his church work, and likes his pastorship very much. Ted plans to go to Westminster Seminary next Fall to prepare for a full-time pastorate.

Warren Bates is the full-time pastor of Mt. Zion Methodist Church in Steelton and he expresses a very keen interest and enjoyment in his charge. Working towards a Liberal Arts degree with an English major, he was forced to drop all other extracurricular activities so that he might spend that time in church preparation.

His church has a membership of 124, including a student, Paul Hagenberger. Warren invites any students to attend his church services every Sunday at 9:00 a.m.

Pushes Youth Work

Presently trying very hard to initiate an active youth movement in his church, he concentrates entirely upon the youth every Sunday evening, bringing

Student Teachers Move Into Classrooms For First Taste of Their Future Work

by Carl Denlinger

After more than three years of preparation, 37 secondary and elementary education majors have moved from the campus to the classrooms in four high schools, one junior high school and six elementary schools to begin their practice teaching, according to Prof. E. B. Hoover, director of teacher training.

This record-breaking total of prospective teachers consists of 17 secondary education majors and 20 elementary instructors.

Approximately the first two weeks are spent in observing their classes and methods of teaching which they will use, after which they take over the complete load of their cooperative teacher.

Secondary Teachers

Secondary teachers are divided between Elizabethtown, Hershey, Donegal, Middletown and Edison Junior High School in Harrisburg.

Now observing at Middletown are: Matthew Belicic, social studies; Grace Burgess, social studies; Barbara Theel, commercial; Emma White, commercial, and Wanda Sprout, English.

Teaching under Donegal faculty are Ina Daniloff, French and social studies; Carl Denlinger, English; Jere Frey, social studies; Marlin Reed, mathematics and general science, and Donald Witters, mathematics.

Doing their teaching at Elizabethtown are: Harry Graham, mathematics; Robert Knappenberger, social studies and psychology; Jessie Martin, social studies; Lorell Price, social studies, and Harold Wilson, science.

At Edison Junior High we find Delores Turner teaching English and at Hershey is Lloyd Swope teaching mathematics.

Elementary Teachers

Elementary teachers are found in Florin, Elizabethtown, Rheems, Hershey, Mill Road and Middle town.

Teaching at Florin are Ruthanne Butterbaugh, kindergarten and first grade, and Gloria Keller, third grade.

At Elizabethtown are Ruth Eberson, fifth grade; Jean Fretz, third grade, and Shirley Heller, fourth grade.

Rheems is the school for Lois Hess, third grade; Elaine Hollingshead, fourth grade; Joyce Longenecker, second grade, and Kathryn Swigart, sixth grade.

Making the daily trip to Middletown are: Doris Spotts, sixth grade; Mary Thome, third grade, and Hazel Yoder, fourth grade.

Hershey claims the largest number with Clara Lou Hildebrand, first grade; Shirley Prange, fourth grade; Audrey Sprengle, fourth grade; Verna Weaver, second grade; Hazel Wells, fifth grade, and Pauline Wolfe, third grade.

Marie Hoover is teaching fifth grade and Lois Wenger sixth grade at Millroad.

Study of Career Opportunities For Students

In an attempt to better acquaint students with employment and scholarship opportunities available through the college placement program, the ETOWNIAN is cooperating with Dean Roy McAuley in presenting the following information.

More details on any of the opportunities listed below and others may be had by contacting Dean McAuley.

Admstrong Cork Company has openings for male college graduates in the fields of advertising, promotion, chemistry, chemical engineering, industrial engineering, physics, and both technical and non-technical sales positions. Most of the listed openings involved assignments at the Lancaster plant.

Fibre Box Association, Chicago, needs college graduates to design and sell boxes and to train in administrative and production work. "Unlimited advancement" opportunities.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has opportunities for savings and loan examiners in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia for college graduates. Starting salaries: $4,525 to $5,440 yearly.

Addressograph - Multigraph Corporation needs salesmen. Minimum starting salary: $300 per month, plus expenses while attending training school, and minimum of $400 per month and expenses upon becoming senior salesman. Present vacancies in Philadelphia area.

Civil service opportunities are available in the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and other scientific and engineering fields.

Education Opportunities

For those wishing to become college teachers, educational fellowships are available from the Danforth Foundation and the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program. The 60 Danforth fellowships are one year duration and are renewable. The 200 Wilson fellowships are for one year and non-renewable.

Financial assistance from the Danforth fellowship is $1,800 for single men and $2,400 for married men. The Wilson fund allows $1,250 plus tuition for single men with special consideration for married men.

Marshal Scholarships for study in England are offered by Great Britain and the Social Science Research Council has opportunities for various levels of social research grants and fellowships.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPARTMENT . . .

Here we go again. Recovering from a tough soccer season the reinforced ETOWNIAN sports staff crawls farther out on a limb as we fearlessly forecast the forthcoming basketball season.

These predictions are based on last year's results plus a small share of Blue Jay partiality. Unwilling to venture exact scores we've bravely included a point margin.

From any critic or grandstand manager we will gladly accept any predictions of the same set of games including scores or point spreads. The most talented forecaster will have his predictions and formulas published in the next issue. They can be submitted to any member of the ETOWNIAN sports staff before Monday, December 3.

DENLINGER

GETTYSBURG — G-burg to show improvement over last year's score, but E-town will open the season with a victory.

MORGAN STATE — All-negro squad to keep close by use of speed. Big crowd jitters may hamper Blue Jays in eking out a victory.

WILKES — E-town to win with ease in the home court opener. Look for a high-scoring game.

DICKINSON — Superior height to give us a definite advantage over an inexperienced Dson squad.

MILLERSVILLE — A knock 'em down, drag 'em out battle of the boards with the Blue Jays unable to overcome big John Parker on the neutral court.

PRICE

GETTYSBURG — Second year under Davies, Bullets will be tough, but not quite enough to stop Jays' offense.

MORGAN STATE — Hard to predict score with this newcomer, but Blue Jays well-rounded team will squeeze by.

WILKES — No contest last year and strictly none on the home court. Good chance for second team to shine.

DICKINSON — Unless the Red Devils have come up with something new the 26-point margin may even be too gracious.

MILLERSVILLE — Neutral site will provide good game and without a recurrence of last year's "second half," Parker and his boys will be beaten.

BOWERS

GETTYSBURG — Several strong replacements from last year's freshman team may help the Bullets pull an upset.

MORGAN STATE — The Jays are stronger than last year and Baltimore's representative to the York Tournament isn't.

WILKES — The locals romped to victory a season ago at Wilkes-Barre. This time at home should be easier yet.

DICKINSON — E-town has too much and too many for the Red Devils who don't promise enough improvement.

MILLERSVILLE — A thriller to the wire, this one could go either way. The teachers have the nucleus back, but the loss of a first-rate coach may hamper them.

Fall Intra-mural Program Ends

Along with intercollegiate sports, the intra-mural fall program has come to a close.

The women recently completed their volleyball league when Kitty Swigart's Co-eds dumped the Sneaker Sneakers to remain undefeated in five games for the championship. They had previously handed the Half Pints of Martina Smith their only loss in the big game of the season. The second place Pints finished with four wins and a loss.

The Eagles of Lorell Price copped the touch football title by nosing out Don Price's Redskins in a 12-6 overtime affair. The final tilt was decided when Bob Reiter hit Lorell Price in the end zone with a pass five seconds before the end of the overtime period.

Jack Beaston and Gene Groff have yet to play the final match of the tennis tournament. Several matches were delayed because of inclement weather.

Coming up in the near future will be a ping pong tournament for the women and a basketball league for the men.

Jay Matmen to Open Here With M-ville

Coach Robert Byerly's wrestling squad will open its third season of intercollegiate competition with a home meet against Millersville on December 8.

The team should be the best yet as a host of lettermen are back to bolster it. John Hollinger, Larry Seiders, Jay Greider, Ralph Baker, Dave Anyll, Colvin Carter and Terry Bush, all who saw plenty of action last year, plus several freshmen with high school experience suggest improvement over the 2-5-1 record of a year ago.

The Millersville meet is to be the first of a ten-game schedule, the largest yet. Last year the Teachers shut out the locals. A week later the muscle boys take on Lycoming, a new addition to the schedule, on the home mats.

The first away match comes after the holidays on January 10, when E-town travels to Philadelphia to wrestle Temple, who also topped the Jays last season.

Middle Atlantic States Proposes New Divisions

TALKING TO Director of Athletics Ira R. Herr in his office recently about the scheduling difficulties of E-town in basketball, I ran across some information which is in line with my proposed league.

It seems as though the Middle Atlantic States division of the NCAA has made a proposal for the redistribution of colleges for the determining of tournament representatives.

They propose two conferences, a university and a college conference, which will keep competition on a more equal basis.

The University division includes Bucknell, Lafayette, LaSalle, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, Rutgers, St. Joseph and Temple. The winner of this group will be selected by a selection committee of the Middle Atlantic States and will participate in the NCAA playoffs.

E-town in South

The college division splits into two leagues which are the North and South divisions. E-town is tentatively placed in the South division with F & M, Gettysburg, Johns Hopkins, Washington College, Swarthmore, Ursinus, West Chester, Delaware, Drexel, Haverford, P.M.C. and Western Maryland.

LVC. Juniata, in North

The North division should include Albright, Dickinson, Juniata, Lebanon Valley, Lycoming, Hofstra, Moravian, Scranton, Stevens, Wagner, Wilkes and Susquehanna.

This proposal recommends that at least 11 games must be played in the college division. To be eligible, a college must play at least six schools in its section and a minimum of three schools in the other section.

Winner in Playoffs

The winner of each section will be determined by percentage of conference games only, and then a committee will pick the stronger of the two section winners to play in the NCAA playoffs.

This is only a proposal and I asked Mr. Herr what his views were on the set-up. He replied, "I am working hard to have a change made in the distribution of schools and it has a good chance of being adopted. I propose that E-town be changed to the North section with schools already on the schedule. Otherwise I think it is a step in the right direction."

John Hollinger as Wrestling Mainstay For Third Season

by Don Price

WRESTLING to Elizabethtown College, is a fairly new sport, but to John Hollinger it's been his bread and butter for the last six years.

Ever since tenth grade when, at 103 pounds, he considered himself too small for any other sport, John has been sweating it out on the mats. His record at Manheim High School is comparable to a wrestler's dream. Through three years and approximately 50 meet, he was pinned only once, reaching the district tournament semi-finals all three years.

The 147-pound grappler, who would like to teach history and coach his favorite sport after graduation, has lost only two of the 12 matches he's participated in for E-town College. In the remaining ten he has been victorious eight times and has fought to a draw twice. Four times he has pinned his opponent and has yet to be pinned himself.

According to John, and he should know, wrestling is one of the finest competitive sports as well as one that provides an excellent opportunity for young men not talented in other fields. "Here," John says, "individual differences are minimized as one only competes in his own weight class."

Wrestling has been good to John, and in turn, Mr. Hollinger has been good to E-town College.

As we discussed this, I could see that he has a very sound recommendation, because on this year's schedule we play eight schools in the North, two more than the necessary minimum, and only three schools in our South section. Chances are very slim that we would be able to break into the schedules of the necessary three more colleges in the South in order to be eligible for the championship.

If Mr. Herr can facilitate this change, we will be in a very favorable set-up, but as things stand now we would gain very little by this Middle Atlantic States proposal.

Some of the draw-backs to the present arrangement are our completely inefficient basketball facilities and the size of the school as a whole. These factors make it hard for us to schedule games on a home and home basis. A new fieldhouse would be a big step in giving us the recognition which we deserve.

I decided to visit Coach Don Smith to get his reaction to this proposal and he had this to say, "I certainly agree with Mr. Herr that we belong in the North section, not only because of location but also because our athletic policy is much more in line with that group than the South section. Although this idea is better than the present arrangement, I do not think that the divisions should be based solely on geographic location, but rather on academic and athletic policies in connection with present schedules."

Coach Smith would favor a local league such as Harry Goff's "Central Seven," rather than a

YOU CAN'T KEEP A GOOD MAN DOWN . . . John Hollinger practices a sitout with assistance from Coach Byerly in one of the early wrestling practices. John will wrestle in the 130-lb. class in the matmen's opener on Dec. 8.

Cross Country Team Ends First Season

The cross country team just completed its freshman year and four-game schedule with one win and three losses.

Considering the fact that Coach Ira Herr had to start with an inexperienced squad and build from there, the team has nothing to be ashamed of.

The Harriers began the season by losing to Juniata 18-36 and then to Albright in a squeaker, 26-31. They hit the victory trail for the first time at P.M.C. where they nosed out the Cadets 26-29. The campaign ended with Franklin and Marshall whitewashing the Jays at Lancaster.

Ken Miller, Lorell Price and Jack Reed were the most consistent runners on the squad which shows good signs for 1957.

Scattered league with much less personal fan interest.

From a personal viewpoint, I can only say that I hope the proposal is adopted, because anything is better than the present lack of organization which gives no initiative for post-season playoffs. A chance for a post-season tournament adds much more importance to the individual games and provides better school spirit.

Jaygals Trim D-son in Finale; End Hockey With 7 Wins, 1 Loss

The Blue Jay hockey team of Coach Julia Risser completed their eight-game schedule recently with a smashing 7-0 win over Dickinson here.

The victory was the Jays' seventh in eight starts, and it concluded the best field hockey season in the history of the college.

Four Blue Birds to Vie For National Honors

Janie MacNeal and her coach, Julia Risser have been selected on Pennsylvania's all-star college and club hockey team after participating in all-star tilts at Mechanicsburg on November 10 and 11. Fran Hoover and Joan Rigler made the second team.

All four will play at Philadelphia over Thanksgiving and will vie for berths on the national teams which will make various exhibition tours this summer.

Fran scored four goals and Miss Risser two in the playoff games. Jeanne Risser, who wasn't picked the last time out, scored one.

Fran Hoover paced the Jaygals in the trouncing with three goals that gave her a grand total of 18 for the season. Jessie Martin, Jeanne Risser, Janie MacNeal and Adele Taschner accounted for the other four tallies.

Two days earlier at East Stroudsburg the Blue and Gray lost their only decision of the campaign and that was a heart-breaker that went to the wire. The Teachers scored in the first half but the locals came back early in the second to tie it at 1-1. Then with less than three minutes left in the contest, Jane Chamberlin, the Teachers' center forward, pushed one through and that was the game. Miss Hoover netted E-town's lone goal.

Prior to that it was E-town all the way as they racked up Millersville, 3-0, Albright 9-1, Shippensburg 5-2, Gettysburg 4-0, and Lebanon Valley 4-0.

Statistically, the Jaygals slaughtered the opposition with 43 goals to their opponents' six. Fran Hoover's 18 tallies made her the highest scorer in the area and gave her an average of more than two goals per game. Jessie Martin and Yvonne Brubaker followed her with eight and seven, respectively.

Five Play Last Game

Rachel Keller, the captain and a standout on both offense and defense at center halfback, will complete her eight semesters this year. She is also a mainstay on the basketball five.

Kay Barron, another basketball Blue Jay, completes a two-year course in 1957 after two seasons of brilliant play at left halfback.

Fran Hoover, two-year student, also needs no explanation. Her field hockey record here is unsurpassed.

Jessie Martin, a senior, ran second in scoring at left wing. She captained the outfit last year and is the only Blue Jay ever to play four years of varsity hockey.

Verna Weaver, the only other senior on the squad, played right full back. She plays basketball also.

Blue Jay Booters Beat Bucknell; End Season With 5-3-1 Record

A season ending with a 2-0 victory over Bucknell at Lewisburg last Tuesday made it three straight for the Blue Jay soccermen and gave them a season log of five wins, three losses, and one tie.

The booters came back with the string of triumphs which included wins over Lincoln and Lock Haven after three successive losses, one each to Drexel, East Stroudsburg, and Wilkes, that threatened to doom them to a losing season.

In the coldest contest of the campaign, they shutout Bucknell on the strength of thirty-five shots to the Bisons' ten as they dominated the home team throughout the game. Freddie Zimmerman marked the first Jay tally late in the second stanza, and Gene Bucher hooked one in from the extreme right of the goal in the third for the two scores.

TRIM TEACHERS

A week earlier the Blue and Gray ground out a 3-1 triumph over a stunned Lock Haven eleven in the Jays' last home fray.

The Teachers had previously beaten East Stroudsburg for the State Teachers title and were no soft touch. After Larry Reber had his first quarter tally matched by a Lock Haven penalty kick, Zimmerman put the E-towners ahead to stay as he netted one in the second frame. Bucher iced it with a third goal early in the final period.

SHUTOUT LINCOLN

Before that the booters snapped a three-game losing streak when they mauled Lincoln 5-0 at Chester. Reber pulled the hat trick with three goals as Zimmerman and Heinz Bednarzick each scored once.

LOSE THREE

Prior to that they lost to Drexel at Philadelphia, East Stroudsburg here on Homecoming Day, and Wilkes at Wilkes-Barre.

Bucher, Bob Balthaser and Bill Hoar scored for the Jays in the 5-3 loss to Wilkes and Bob Wert scored the lone tally in a 5-1 defeat at Drexel. The tilt with Stroudsburg was a 6-0 shutout.

BALANCED ATTACK

Individually, the scoring was divided throughout the season as eight players contributed to the scoring column. Wert, Reber, and Bednarzick all accounted for four goals, and Wise, Bucher, and Zimmerman each had three. Hoar and Balthaser had one apiece.

Bucher and Wert led in assists with three each as John Fisher, Zimmerman, and Reber had two apiece.

In total scoring the Blue Jays barely won out, scoring twenty-three goals to the opposition's twenty-two.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

A soccer win at Bucknell, a hockey shutout here, a cross country loss at F. and M., and the fall sports are over for another year. They're gone but not forgotten as the attention now swings indoors to the basketball floor and the wrestling mats.

We can't help but pay a word of tribute to Miss Risser and her gallant band of hockey lassies. As the fifth field hockey team in the college's history, the Jaygals rose to great heights in their quest for some well-earned recognition.

Not only was the team blessed with beauty, but, more important, it was loaded with talent. Four girls had the honor of being selected on all-star teams through post-season tryouts, and they were only part of a well balanced team that will give future Bluebirds a record to shoot at.

Soccer Predictions

Although the individual games were not forecast with a great degree of accuracy, the summaries left nothing to be desired. Denlinger fared well on five games predicting the outcome correctly and even hit the Howard game on the nose with a 2-2 tie. This writer had only four of nine games right, but the overall record came out perfectly at 5-3-1.

Since this journal strives to serve the students and alumni, it is susceptible to criticism at any time on any subject. We gladly accept this indication of interest for it oftentimes facilitates and betters our work.

Occasionally we find it advantageous to publish such critiques. Believing in the theory that a good athlete is a modest one, we would like to pass on this unbiased suggestion received from a member of the cross country team. His statement reads, "I don't want to sound conceited or anything, but I participated in a lot of athletics including intramurals these past four years, so how about a feature on me?"

Any other helpful hints?

Tony Arcuri

Fred Noel

Tony Arcuri and Fred Noel, Former York Stars, Now Bolster Blue Jays

by Carl Denlinger

Interviewing Fred Noel and Tony Arcuri faintly resembles an echo chamber. Their athletic backgrounds have paralleled so closely that what can be said for Tony usually can be said for Fred, or vice versa.

It all started way back in a York elementary school and continued on to York Catholic High. Tony and Fred both earned three letters in basketball on a team which entered the class "B" playoffs all three years. Their senior year, 1953, saw Fred captain the York quintet to its second successive league championship. This proved to be only the starting point for their basketball abilities, as they were destined to reach higher goals.

Both of these high school stars were placed on the All-Catholic league team their senior year and York fans were glad to learn that they would be seeing them play for two more years at York Junior College.

York Junior College

Tony and Fred set the pace for YJC as they won two successive Junior College league championships. Their popularity and ability enabled them to be elected co-captains both years at YJC, another instance of their closely paralleled backgrounds.

At YJC Tony and Fred reached all-star fame again as Tony gained the distinction of being named to the all-league team both years and was joined by Fred the second year. The 1954 team sported a 21-5 record but was bettered by the 23-2 record of the 1955 squad which won 20 consecutive games. Both men regard this as one of their biggest athletic thrills and think highly of their YJC teams.

Eight Lettermen Return
From '55-'56 Team Which Boasted an 18-6 Record

ON DEC. 3 the Blue Jay Cagers of Coach Don Smith will invade Eddie Plank Memorial Gymnasium at Gettysburg for the start of a tough 23-game basketball schedule.

The Jays will face two new teams in Morgan State and the U. of Scranton in their attempt to better the respectable 18-6 mark of the 1955-56 quintet.

Eight lettermen will be on hand to form more than a nucleus, but the going won't be easy because all reports show that the opposition has improved in almost all cases. Millersville certainly hasn't become weaker, and teams such as Susquehanna, Lycoming and Dickinson played with underclassmen last year.

Of nine holdovers, four averaged double figures a year ago, and several ranked high in post-season P.A.I.A. ratings. Bill Penn, sophomore center, paced the point-makers last season with a 17.5 average, but received plenty of help from Sal Paone who hit at a 16.1 clip and Jim Sarbaugh and Tony Arcuri both of whom averaged 12. These four along with other mainstays such as Bob Wert, Bob Goudie, Fred Noel, Jim Chase and Sheldon Dent should give E-town a well-balanced outfit.

Open at G-Burg

In the opener at Gettysburg, they will face the young, but improved Bullet team of Bob Davies. The ex-Chester ace lost several starters. However, last year's frosh team was one of the best around.

The Smithmen were victorious in '55 when they hit 44 times from the foul line in an 88-64 win. Paone and Sarbaugh sparked the E-towners with 27 and 17 respectively in which was, as this year, the opener for both teams.

York Sports Night

Three days later the Blue and Gray will join in the Sertoma Sports Night affair at York when they take on Morgan State, a highly rated Negro five from the Baltimore area.

In the last three tilts before the Christmas layoff, the Blue Jays will face Wilkes, Dickinson and Millersville with the Wilkes fray as the home opener. A year ago the Smithmen were triumphant at Wilkes-Barre, 94-63, as Paone netted 24 points.

The Dickinson tilt, another home contest, will pit a vastly improved Red Devil troop against the locals, who were victorious twice last year with century toppling scores both times.

Millersville Again!

Millersville needs no introduction. The Marauders still have John Parker along with a host of other starters who helped haunt the Jays a season ago. This one, incidentally, will be the first of three played on the Donegal High School floor.

One Dollar Per Year

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Tuition Will Be Increased Next Year

The Board of Trustees asked its Executive Committee to make a careful study of the operating budget for next year.

The opening budget for the current year is based upon an anticipated income of approximately $500,000. If the expenditures for the year are to be held within this income the strictest economies need to be practiced.

The income is derived from student fees, appropriations from the Churches of Eastern and Southern Districts of Pennsylvania of the Church of the Brethren, from the Endowment Fund, from contributions from the Pennsylvania Foundation of Independent Colleges, from Alumni and other interested individuals.

Although Elizabethtown College has been able to win increased support from these several sources, the constantly rising costs for maintenance, labor, and supplies have made it difficult to balance the budget.

After a careful study of the various sources of support for the budget, the Executive Committee arrived at the inescapable fact that the income must be increased if the expenditures are to be held within the income. More support must be secured from the Church, interested and able individuals and industry. Student fees must of necessity also bear a proportionate increase.

Therefore the Executive Committee has voted to increase the tuition from $500 to $550, and the charges for board by approximately $1.00 per week; the total fee for resident students therefore will be from $1145 to $1195 and for non-resident students $600.

Even with these new rates, the overall cost at Elizabethtown College is from fifty to several hundred dollars lower than are similar charges in the colleges in our area.

A. C. BAUGHER, President.

Faculty to Study Reaccreditation

College faculty members will start a two-year preliminary self-evaluation period during the second semester in preparation for the 1959 reaccreditation of Elizabethtown College by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, according to Dr. A. C. Baugher.

This self-study is conducted every ten years throughout the 230 colleges and 450 secondary schools of the Middle States Association. Elizabethtown College was last accredited in 1948.

This study of the characteristics of excellence in higher education consists of five specific areas: purpose and objectives, organization, resources, program and outcomes.

After the faculty has completed its preliminary study and made a compiled report of its findings, a committee of visitors from the association will inspect and carry on the study.

The college has set up a rigid schedule for carrying out this study for the second semester.

Major Catalogue Changes for 1957-58 Term Announced by Miss Emma Engle, Registrar

Several major changes in the college catalogue for next year have been announced by Miss Emma Engle, registrar.

Included in the revisions are parking regulations, course changes, and rules governing transfer students.

These are the primary revisions:

1. All automobiles operated on campus by students must be registered at the business office. There will be a $2.00 registration fee.

2. All students will be required to pass a competency examination in English before they will be graduated. The examination will be given to juniors to allow students time to take the remedial course.

3. Transfer students must take a minimum of one-third of the total number of hours required in their major subject during their residence at Elizabethtown College. These students will be granted the maximum number of semester hours proportional to the amount of time spent at a previous institution.

4. A fee of $10 will be charged to any student failing to enroll at the specified time. Any appeal to this rule must be presented in writing to the Dean of Instruction. He, in turn, will present it to the Committee on Admission. Their ruling will be final.

5. Another change affects students enrolled in regular courses on campus and also enrolled in extension classes. These students will pay full-time fees if their total number of hours exceeds 10. Such students will be expected to abide by all regulations that affect regularly enrolled students.

6. Students who find it possible to substitute a campus course for an extension course will not be allowed to enroll in an extension course, without the permission of the Dean of Instruction and payment of an additional extension fee.

Course Changes

Material covered in The History of Modern Europe will be covered in four separate one-semester courses. A student will be permitted to substitute any two to fulfill the requirement. The four subjects affected will be: History of the Renaissance and Reformation; History of Europe during the 17th and 18th Centuries; Nineteenth Century Europe; or Europe during the 20th Century.

Several new courses have been added. They are Recent History of the United States and A Course Outline for Pre-medical Students.

Dramatic Production will be listed and World Literature will be entitled Continental Literature.

Music Students

Music students will be affected by several changes in their field. A music major will no longer be offered. Also, instead of permitting Liberal Arts students or Science majors to apply all credits earned in music to their degree, only 8 hours, 4 in applied and 4 in ensemble, will count toward the total number of hours required for graduation.

A few of these changes are pending and a few others are under consideration.

Complete Plans For Migration To New Dormitory

by Jessie Martin

Plans for the migration to the new women's residence hall are complete and have been approved. Details will be announced later.

Moving will begin on December 26 with the delivery and installation of dormitory furniture. By January 4 this operation will be complete.

Drapes and window blinds will be installed the week of January 7. Living room furniture is scheduled for installation the week of January 14.

On January 18 both students and faculty will have an opportunity to get a preview of the new dormitory.

Student tours will be conducted between 3 and 5 p.m.; faculty members will tour between 7 and 9 p.m.

Moving will take place on January 25 and 26 after final examinations have been completed.

The first residents of the new building will move in at 3 p.m. on January 25. These will be the women from Alpha and West halls. At the same time the off-campus students will make the trip.

Memorial hall will be vacated at 6 p.m. On Saturday, January 26, Fairview women will start moving at 8:30 a.m.

Male Students

By 1 p.m. on Saturday, Fairview will be vacant and men students will begin their occupation.

Early Saturday morning male students will move into Memorial and West halls. There will be 11 new residents in West and 10 in Memorial.

Moving Complete

By Sunday, January 27, the big switch will be complete. There will be no moving after Saturday.

The first meals to be served in the new dining hall will be lunch and dinner on January 28. Breakfast will be served in Alpha hall on that day.

Students are urged to take advantage of between semester vacation as soon as their moving is completed. This will enable the college to move dining hall and kitchen equipment with as few people to serve as possible.

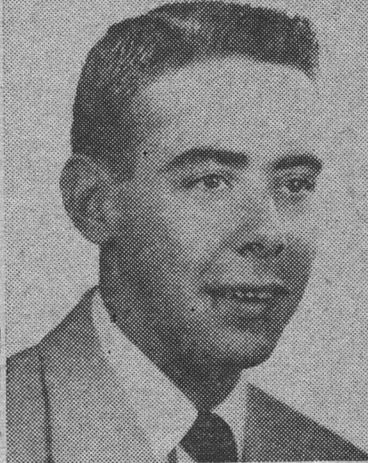

Students will return the evening of January 28 and on January 29 to complete second-semester registration.

Replogle Chosen to Head BSCM

Kent Replogle

The conference which meets each year on one of the campuses of the six Brethren colleges and features leaders from each, is held to discuss problems and subjects relevant to college and church life. This year's theme was "History of Faith."

To be elected president, Replogle had to compete against five other candidates who were elected by their respective colleges. Those who did not make the presidency formed a cabinet to serve for the next two years. Kenneth Miller was Elizabethtown's cabinet representative last term.

Announce Duties

Replogle's duties as president of BSCM will include planning for next year's conference as he will have to make contacts for the leadership of the meeting to be held at Juniata College in Huntingdon.

Local students attending were Pauline Wolfe, Esther Frantz, Delta Mae Detwiler, Donald Knaub, Dale Varner, Lois Hershberger, Esther Hershman, Wilbur Dourte, Allegra Hess, Audrey Killhefner, Marie Hoover, Morton Feder, John Hollinger, Robert Knappenberger, Kenneth Miller, Kenneth Martin, Kenneth Replogle and the faculty adviser, Prof. Robert Byerly.

Elizabethtown students joined Juniata and Bridgewater College students at Everett, Pa., making a bus load of 36 students and faculty on the trip to MacPherson campus.

Eighteen Attend

Among activities of the week end, local students provided two worship programs and Rev. Byerly gave two Bible lectures. Clyde E. Weaver, '50, now doing graduate work, spoke on the "Psychological Aspects of the Brethren Faith." Rev. Robert Faus, '56, represented Bethany Biblical Seminary.

The Elizabethtown group was entertained at tea on Saturday night at the home of the McPherson College president, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Bittinger.

Colleges represented were Elizabethtown, Juniata, Bridgewater, McPherson, Manchester, Bethany Seminary and LaVern.

Time to Think Of Candidates

Although student elections are still more than a month away, the time to start thinking about potential candidates is here and now.

There are several definite reasons for so doing.

First, the student body is enlarging and thereby throwing greater responsibility on its elected representatives. Next year the Student Senate will speak for about 600 students.

Second, the growing size of the student body is taking away the closeness that existed when the enrollment was less and everyone on campus knew virtually everyone else. A greater effort must be made to present a candidate's qualifications to the students.

Third, the student representatives of the next few years, as this year, must work closely and actively with the administration to smooth out the problems that go hand in hand with expansion.

The responsibilities that go with student offices are real and exacting.

The students who are elected to fill them should be sound academically and possess a sincere interest in the well-being of the students and the college in general. They should have an abundance of that indefinable something known as common sense.

They must be able to recognize how far student interests can be advanced within the limits of practicality. Finally, they should be able to cooperate with the administration without becoming a rubber stamp.

Anyone possessing these abilities should begin thinking about the student elections which take place early next year.

Needed: Active Students

It was during the ceremonies for installation of student officers last spring that Jay Lutz, president-elect of the Student Senate, called upon all students to take a more active role in student affairs.

"There's a lot of talent on this campus, and it isn't all on this stage," he said as he referred to the elected student officers seated behind him.

Lutz was right, of course. There is a great deal of talent in our student body. But, unfortunately, all of it isn't being used.

Too few students have too much of the load in extra curricular activities.

Maybe, it's because some students are a bit hesitant to come to the forefront of campus activities. It could be that students simply don't have the time or the inclination to use their abilities for the good of the college.

We were gratified with the performance of the newly-formed college orchestra in their chapel concert. Although they still lack personnel, particularly in the string section, they are a concrete example of the talent that is present on this campus.

There are many ways in which individual talents can be used for the common good here at Elizabethtown. The organized clubs such as Sock and Buskin, Political Science, Future Teachers of America, Student Christian Association, Phi Beta Chi, the various language groups, etc. can always use another active member.

Off The Beaten Track

with

Bob Balthaser

The field trip to the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia a few weeks ago left some money and banking students, notably "Whitey" Brownawell, in a stupor for several days. It's not every day a guy gets his grubby, little fists on a $100,000 bond, is it "Whitey"?

While Dr. Schlosser was conducting a question and answer session with a church group recently, an elderly man fell asleep. After one question the Doctor mistook a muffled snore from the back of the room for an answer and said, "A little louder, please" (Well, we can't stop any longer on that. We'll have to move along.)

Some new philosophy: "You end to the other while their keep fighting your way up that alarm clocks ring merrily away mountain," says Roger Forry. (How sleepy can you be?) "and who knows, maybe some Mr. Noah Klauss, the Lawrence Welk of Elizabethtown college, deserves the best of everything this Christmas from his uncle, Santa. Seriously, the entire performance of the college of cannibalism in one of her classes. A sentence by one of her English pupils read, "While day was mighty fine.

Mrs. Neumann reports a case of cannibalism in one of her classes. A sentence by one of her English pupils read, "While day was mighty fine. News leaked from the dormitories: Memorial Hall is described as the perfect place for anyone who likes music à la confusion.

Things seen and heard around campus: Dr. Stambaugh's hat with brim turned down Sherlock Holmes-style on a cold wintry eve and Al Roger's flaming red goatee. (They keep their heads warm from top to bottom, don't they?) Alarm clock fighters (as described by their roommates) who turn light switches off and on or dial their radios from one to the other. . . . Some students are eating other students are putting dishes in the corner." Gee, a comma would make a world of difference there. Here, against a background of "Mary Had a Little Lamb," as pecked out on a piano by a beginning student, is mixed a little bit of Elvis Presley's "Hound Dog," a portion of the record "Scheherazade," an organ rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," all topped off by the pep band down in the rec room playing, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

STUDENT OPINION

Campus Elections: Improvements Needed

Starting in February, the student body will begin voting for members of the Student Senate, Committees on Men's and Women's Affairs, and other student officers for the next school year.

In the belief that there are some aspects of the election procedure that could be improved, the ETOWNIAN polled a group of students, most of them upperclassmen, on what they thought of the campus campaigns.

All of them found something wrong or weak in the election procedure, either during the pre-election campaign or during the actual balloting. Their ideas on campaigning may well be heeded by potential candidates.

This is what they said:

Tolbert Prowell, junior—"I think more campaigning is needed because our enrollment is growing and everyone doesn't know everyone else. Further, I think a need exists for a more complete explanation of the preferential system used in our elections."

Ruth Ann Yeager, junior—"We definitely need more campaigning speeches to bring the candidates before the student body. More often than not students vote blindly because they aren't familiar with the people whose names are on the ballot. This doesn't guarantee good student government."

William Desch, senior—"Most people don't know whom they're voting for. Dormitory students aren't familiar with day students and vice versa. More attention must be paid to the problem of acquainting the student body with the candidates."

Mendel Sohn, senior—"The first year I came here campaigning was more intense and more colorful. Gradually it has died off and I don't think this is healthy for good government."

Barbara Zimmerman, freshman—"Being a freshman I'm not familiar with elections here on campus. However, I would expect enthusiastic campaigning, speeches, declarations of qualifications by candidates, signs, posters, leaflets, etc. I think candidates for office should be dependable, responsible, and have a solid scholastic ranking. He or she should possess leadership. Finally, he or she should make themselves known to the student body, particularly the freshmen."

Richard Markowitz, sophomore—"We need more publicity on campus election meetings. Candidates should make themselves known. Too often we pick up a ballot in the store and know only a few names on it."

Daneen Webb, sophomore—"Off-campus students aren't familiar with the candidates. More campaigning would help bridge the gap. Too often the elections boil down to popularity contests."

John Hollinger, junior—"Our election system seems fair, but it seems that the person with the most first place votes can lose the election if he doesn't have a majority under the preferential system we use. Of course, campaigns can be improved. Candidates should present a definite statement of platform and qualifications. They should speak in assembly programs."

Leroy Blackwell, junior—"Each candidate should make speeches to become known to the student body and to put across his platform. We haven't done enough of this type of campaigning. I don't like the preferential system. Further, I don't think it's fully understood by the student body."

Kent Reoplogle, sophomore—"More campaigning is needed to bring out the personalities of the candidates. The qualifications of candidates should be emphasized for the sake of good government. They should be sound academically and have a balanced personality. The Senate should be composed of outstanding students in all the various courses of study."

Yvonne Brubaker, junior—"The main purpose of the election is to get qualified people into office. This can best be done if the candidates, their platforms, and their qualifications are known to the entire student body. Campaigns should be more intense and should certainly include chapel speeches by the candidate. Student elections shouldn't be popularity contests."

Stanley Haimov, sophomore—"More efforts should be made to stir up interest in the student body. Candidates should do a better job in making themselves known to the electorate. Campaigning can certainly be improved. Let's have more speeches, more discussion of issues. Good student government is solely dependent on getting the best qualified people into office and this can only be done if enough students vote intelligently. To vote wisely, of course, they must be informed and interested."

Maynard Gunstra, sophomore—"Elections are weak in the first place because of the usually crowded store which doesn't make a ballot private. More campaigning is needed, especially if the freshmen are to get to know the candidate."

Mary Lou Armstrong, senior—"Academic standing should be made a qualification for student officers. I'd like to get to see the candidates and hear them speak on their platforms and qualifications. We need more time between elections, particularly during that period when petitions are circulated and campaigning takes place for individual Senate members. Why not allocate chapel periods for speeches by the candidates?"

Edward Shank, sophomore—"Campaigning seems to be limited to the area around Alpha Hall. It seems to me that a smaller percentage of the student body is voting than in other years. I know more voted when I was here in '52 before going into the service."

Louise Reed, junior—"Last-minute campaigning isn't good at all as far as I'm concerned. Since we use the preferential system, it is highly important that we know the views of all candidates in order to vote intelligently. Let's stretch the period of elections to help candidates present themselves."

Eldon Morehouse, junior—"I think mimeographed platform statements and pictures of candidates would help, but speeches in chapel seem to me to be the best way of getting to know the people running for office."

ACTING FOR STUDENTS

Role of Student Senate Involves Recommendation, Representation

by Robert Balthaser

The preamble to the constitution of the student association of Elizabethtown College states as its aim: "the formation of a more democratic and responsible student government to represent, lead and unify the student body, to decide and act upon any matter involving the students' interest, and to cooperate with the faculty and administration of this college."

As set forth in the constitution the purpose of the governing body, known as the Student Senate, is "to serve as the supreme student instrument for effecting the fulfillment of the objectives of the preamble, subject only to statutory regulation of the Board of Trustees of Elizabethtown College and of its Administration."

In actually carrying out its function of representing the student body, the Senate meets monthly with the advisers—Deans Vera Hackman and D. Paul Green—to make recommendations on certain actions.

The recommendations are typed and signed by the Senate president and the advisers and then forwarded to the Administrative Committee, which consists of the president of the college, business manager, academic dean, and treasurer.

If the recommended action falls within this committee's jurisdiction, they take action on the proposal and notify the Senate of the results. If the committee finds the recommendation needs further study, the proposal is handed to the Board of Trustees for action.

Proper liaison between the Senate and the Administration is maintained by Deans Hackman and Greene.

Jay Lutz, president of the Student Senate, when questioned about the functioning of the organization, stated: "As members of the Senate, our primary responsibility is the welfare of the student body. We are keenly aware of our obligations as senate members. The Senate should speak for the student body in all affairs which directly affect the welfare of the students. In doing this we seek a maximum degree of cooperation in our dealings with the administration."

"In connection with this," he continued, "I believe it might be a good idea if the officers of the Senate could have an opportunity to meet with President A. C. Baugher and the administrative committee within a week after every Senate meeting."

A writer for the Richmond Professional Institute's Postscript, Charles Thomas by name, doesn't like the usual theme assignments given to freshman English Composition students.

For example, he doesn't go for the old stuff like HOW I SPENT MY SUMMER VACATION or AN INTERESTING PLACE I VISITED THIS SUMMER or MY HAPPIEST DAY THIS SUMMER.

After considerable research and cogitation Thomas came up with the following list of theme assignments all of which are sure to produce highly readable results. His suggested subjects: HOW TO SPONGE OFF YOUR PARENTS FOR A SUMMER, HOW I RAMMED MY MOTORCYCLE THROUGH A POLICE ROADBLOCK and, finally, THAT BIG ALL-NIGHT BEACH PARTY.

This little gem came our way from the column of Bill Moore in the Ohio State Lantern. Moore tells of a psychology prof out that way who walks into class and says "Good morning, students. You're fine, how am I?"

Then there's this one from the pages of the University of Minnesota's Ivory Tower. A home economics major was asked on a test how she would solve the problem of making a small room appear larger. She answered: "To make small rooms appear larger use thinner wallpaper."

Check this parody on the Mickey Spillane-type of writing from the pages of the Ivory Tower. It's entitled QUENCH ME, DEADLY.

"It was a warm stagnant night . . . no breeze, no moon. And very late. Silently he moved along the sidewalk past blackened dormitories. The others were asleep . . .

"After a quick glance behind, he approached the half-open doorway of a darkened building. He paused, fumbling in his pocket. Then, making no sound, he entered the gloomy interior and was enveloped in shadows. A solitary click . . . then silence.

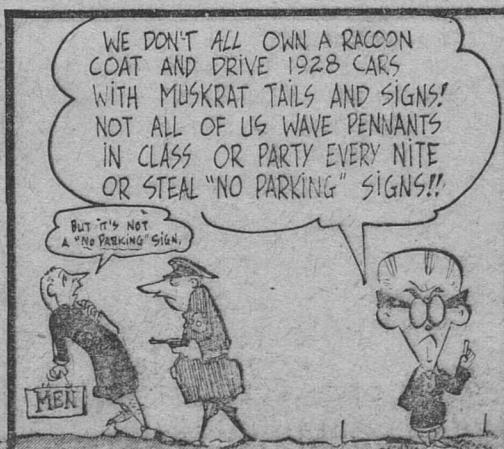

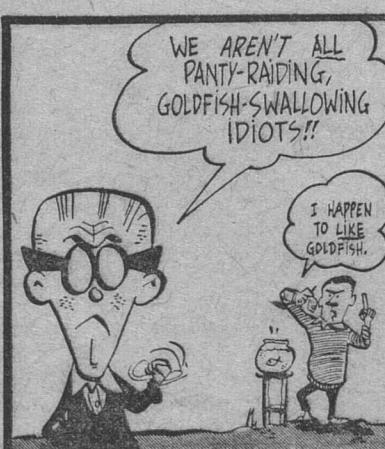

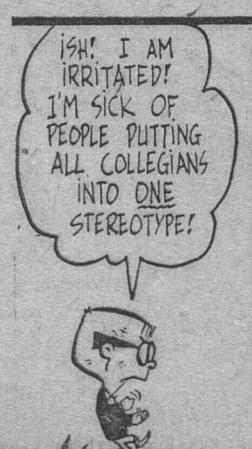

"Suddenly there were shouts from inside: 'Thief! Robber!' A fist slammed out in the darkness, connecting solidly, noisily with its target. A grunt, muffled groan. The pounding blows intensified. A foot stomped hard, driven by powerful leg muscles. There was a short, pleading cry. Then it was over.

"For a moment he lingered in the doorway, leaning on the frame for support. Then he shuffled unsteadily out into the street, his raw, skinned knuckles visible in the yellow illumination given off by the street light. Head hung low, shoulders slouched, he walked into the night.

"Later in the week, maintenance men arrived to adjust the faulty mechanism of the large red machine so that it would operate properly dispensing a bottle of coke whenever a dime was inserted in the coin slot."

Safer Driving Needed on Campus

Many Cars On Campus Make Precaution Mandatory

On this campus there are about 550 students plus a goodly number of faculty members, administrators, secretaries, and transients such as salesmen, prospective students, and others.

A majority of these people drive cars, and at times the road that circles the administration building looks like a slow-motion edition of the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day.

There are many points of danger for drivers on campus. The cartoons by Bruce Tingloff on this page point out several of them.

Fortunately, we have been spared any serious accidents on campus, but the law of averages is against us, and the odds mount higher with every example of carelessness, speeding, or violation of the one-way driving regulations.

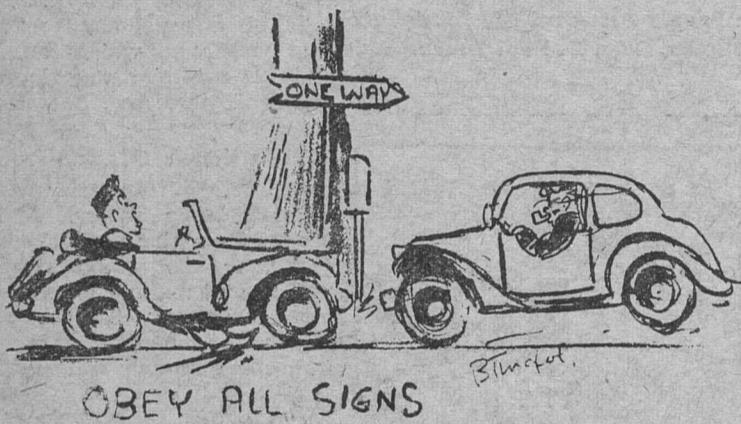

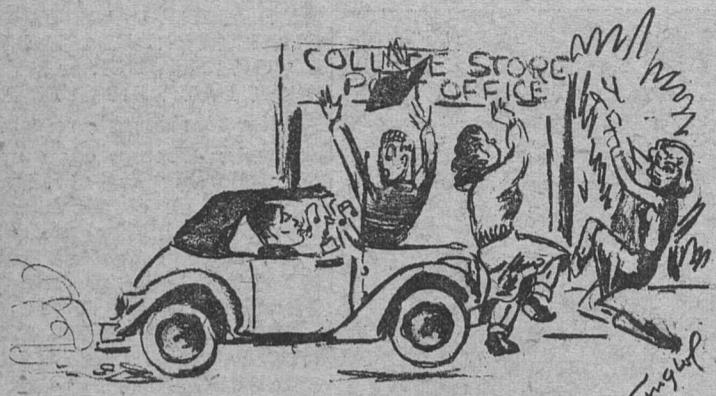

Leading the list of potential accident scenes is the area in front of the college store when classes change, particularly over the noon hour. To make matters worse, drivers have the habit of parking their cars in front of the store with motor idling while the driver checks his mailbox.

Another bad spot is the area directly in front of Alpha Hall where incoming and outgoing traffic come together at the top of the narrow road leading to College Ave.

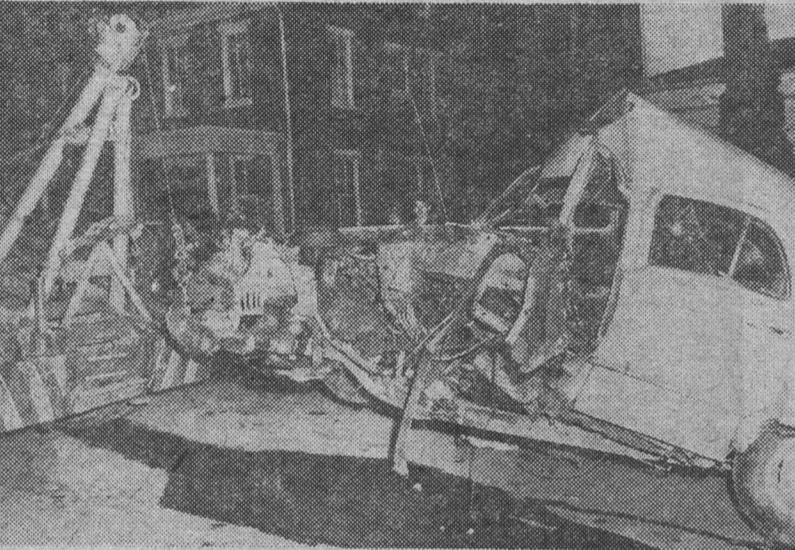

Then there's the area in front of Fairview Hall, the "Gym" road where residents of South Hall cross to get to class or the dining hall, and of course the parking lot behind the business building.

Safe driving practices can well begin right here on campus and then be carried over into our motoring habits on the open road.

The photographs at the right and below are mute evidence of the possible consequences for ignoring the commonly accepted rules for safety behind the steering wheel.

Your Choice: Holiday or Holocaust

The human body is a wonderful mechanism—strong, durable, and in some cases a thing of beauty.

But somehow after it has been twisted, shattered, or marred by the jagged steel frames of high-powered motor vehicles it loses all its pleasant characteristics and becomes a thing of revulsion.

Auto accidents are fearsome because in their more severe forms they can crush out a life in an instant or push victims to the edge of death where they may linger in unexplainably painful agony.

If the accident doesn't snuff out the victim's life, it may carve out lasting scars that stay with him for the remainder of his earthly days. Lifetime maiming is an awful price to pay for a few minutes in time gained by reckless speeding.

The scope of tragedy that accompanies highway deaths or injuries is not limited to those directly concerned.

It reaches out to touch friends, relatives, wives, or husbands of those killed or hurt. The scars of mental anguish caused these people can never be wiped away by damage claims or insurance checks.

The empty chair at the dinner table, the unopened gift under the Christmas tree, and the empty feeling of despair in their hearts will serve as constant reminders of the tragedy.

In a few days we at Elizabethtown will join with other college students in heading home for the holidays. Later we'll be on the road back to school after the new year arrives.

It is our fervent hope and prayer that those of you who drive will remember these words and the pictures on this page.

On your way home and back to school use the common sense and intelligence that you must possess as a college student. Arrive home safely to hear the laughter and carols that go with Christmas in your town.

Don't allow your holidays to be wiped out in a grinding, screeching collision, such as those pictured here.

Study of Career Opportunities For Students

(In cooperation with Dean Roy McAuley, the ETOWNIAN presents the following information on some of the scholarship and career opportunities available through the college placement program. More details on these and other opportunities may be had by contacting Dr. McAuley.)

Educational Opportunities

A full-tuition scholarship, including textbooks and supplies, in the Executive Secretarial Course for College Women is being offered by the Berkeley School of New York City. It is available to senior women upon recommendation of the faculty.

Law students may be interested in the three-year law school scholarships being offered at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at William and Mary College. Scholarships range in value from $2,000 to $3,000 and are available to college graduates primarily on the basis of ability and character.

The Atomic Energy Commission has announced that special fellowships for the next school year are available in radiological physics up to $2,500 for 12 months, plus tuition, fees and allowances. Studies may be taken at Vanderbilt University, Rochester University, Washington University and Kansas University.

Career Opportunities

The U. S. Civil Service Commission reports openings for internal revenue agents with salaries of $3,670 per year and opportunities for promotion after completion of a six-month training course to $4,525 yearly. Service area includes Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The Food and Drug Administration needs inspectors to carry out their work of protecting the public from harmful, contaminated, or improperly labeled foods. Promotion opportunities on a nation-wide scale are offered in addition to many "fringe" benefits.

Anyone interested in working at a YMCA camp this summer may earn between $125 and $300, depending upon age, education, and experience. Camp opens June 23 at Carlisle, Pa. Seven positions are available.

Two New Trustees Named; Raffensperger Re-elected to Board

by Malcolm Hershey

I. Wayne Keller

Martha Bucher

H. E. Raffensperger

Two alumni, I. Wayne Keller and Miss Martha Bucher, have been elected to the Board of Trustees of Elizabethtown College. In addition H. E. Raffensperger has been voted to his third three-year term and Joseph N. Cassel becomes a trustee "emeritus," according to an announcement by college Pres. A. C. Baugher.

Mr. Keller, controller of the Armstrong Cork Co., Lancaster, was nominated by the Alumni Association and elected by the Eastern and Southern State Districts of Pennsylvania of the Church of the Brethren to serve a three-year term as a trustee.

He received his B.S. degree in economics from Elizabethtown College in 1930 and the honorary degree, doctor of commercial science, in 1954. He served as president of the Alumni Association during the 1951-'52 year.

He has been engaged in industrial accounting and management since 1927. He was first employed by the Armstrong Cork Co. as an accounting trainee under a cooperative program between Elizabethtown College and local industries. From this start, he advanced through a series of assignments to his present position as controller.

His activities outside the field of accounting include: trustee, Lancaster Church of the Brethren; president, National Association of Cost Accountants; a member of the American Institute of Accountants and of the Penna. Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Fills Father's Term
Miss Martha Bucher, Quarryville, was selected to fill the unfinished term of her father, the late Rev. Dr. Rufus P. Bucher, a former board president. Her term is one year. She is the sister of Dr. Caleb Bucher, principal of the M. J. Brecht school in Lancaster.

Miss Bucher graduated from Elizabethtown College in 1942 with a B.S. degree in elementary education. She taught for 12 years in the East Drumore Turnpike school and in 1948 she went to James Buchanan Elementary School in Lancaster, where she is presently the principal. She served on the Alumni Council from 1951-1956 and has served as chairman of the Junior High Commission and as a camp director at Camp Swatara.

Graduated in '21

H. E. Raffensperger, after serving for two three-year terms as an alumni-elected trustee, was selected to his third three-year term by the Eastern and Southern state districts. Mr. Raffensperger was graduated from Elizabethtown College in 1921.

He is chairman of the planning and finance committee of the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren and president and general manager of the Continental Press Inc. He is a member of the Manufacturers Association and the honorary "Pi-Beta-Alpha" bookmen's association.

Senate Role

The Senate is responsible for the formulation of a code of student ethics and conduct, including jurisdiction over all disciplinary problems arising in the student body, and cooperating with the administration and faculty in the solution of such problems.

Other Duties

Other duties include providing for a social program, assisting in the organization of all-student elections on campus, receiving and reading petitions from individual students and groups of students, and the preparation of an annual budget covering its activities.

"I feel a verbal resume of each Senate meeting should be presented to the entire student body in chapel sessions," Lutz remarked.

"This would serve to create more student interest in their government."

Lutz noted that students had expressed their views in regard to what is needed or lacking at Elizabethtown College in an opinion column in a recent ETOWNIAN. "We on the Senate," said Lutz, "would appreciate if students would approach us with any constructive criticism pertaining to this matter."

Government All-inclusive

"The administration, faculty and students are all campus citizens," Miss Hackman explained. "Through a student government, college people can learn firsthand the functioning of practical government."

Speaking on the frame-work of the Student Senate type government, she stated, "The time is approaching when we must begin to re-think the make-up of our student government. A campus or community-type government in which all the students can take an active part might be more desirable."

"However," she quickly pointed out, speaking on the possible change in form of student government, "the system of preferential voting as used here now, is good."

Function Improvement

"Perhaps the mechanics of our student government could be improved," Greene said. "The group is doing well—considering that at present half of the resident students are living downtown."

"Although the results of work done by the Student Senate can not always be immediately seen and appreciated," concluded Dean Greene, "like the vanilla is essential in cake-making, so is the Senate to the over-all harmony and quality of the student body of Elizabethtown college."

Holiday Plans Vary As Students Look To Welcome Break

by John E. Way, Jr.

The changing of Christmas vacation to December 21 doesn't seem to have changed many plans of the students of Elizabethtown College to any great degree.

Of course the work plans of some students had to be changed but other than that there appears to be a general feeling of indifference concerning the date of vacation.

The main topics of interest that students plan to enjoy or rather make useful are work, study and sleep.

Christmas vacation allows the students to get a second wind for that final drive toward semester finals and they all seem ready to take advantage of the opportunity.

Christmas vacation also means a chance to earn some money, a problem of most college students about this time of the year.

We haven't decided what creates the lack of sleep that seems so apparent among the students.

Pians Made

Since Christmas vacation is drawing closer and we know many students have plans to work and study among other things we decided to do a little surveying and see what some of them are planning to absorb two weeks away from college.

Ken Miller is going to sell Sunbeam Shavers, eat well, sleep plenty and enjoy Christmas Eve tremendously.

Pete Thompson is going to "work in an ice plant, goof-off and spend some time in Collegeville, or something like that."

Robert Peterson, a sophomore, says: "I plan to work the three days before Christmas; I would like to work longer, but since our vacation has been cut shorter before Christmas, I will not be able. After Christmas I plan to use most of my time studying and catching up on my sleep."

While talking to two seniors we found that Jim Weaver plans to work, while John Shilcusky plans to visit New York City to see the Christmas decorations and also attend a stage show. He also plans on finding employment since he graduates in January.

Warren Bates will have a full vacation, being in charge of several services in his church on Christmas week. He will also attend a conference of ministerial students at Philadelphia. He plans to use the rest of his vacation for study.

These are only a few plans that students have for spending their Christmas two weeks. It should be gratifying to those instructors concerned that nearly all students will be studying.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPARTMENT . . .

After proving rather successful on the not-so-hard first five games on the basketball schedule, the ETOWNIAN's unpredictable predictors fearlessly forecast the first six that will be played after the Christmas and New Year layoff.

In need of space we'll not print reasons but will be willing to qualify these decisions if challenged.

Several students have aspired to surpass the talent of this staff with their own predictions. Any-one else possessing a crystal ball is welcome to do the same as any member of the sports staff will cheerfully accept predictions on the same set of games.

* Denotes marginal difference.

Denlinger—Four wins, two losses.

Price—Five wins, one loss.

Bowers—Six wins, no losses.

Looking back to last month's version of the CRYSTAL BALL DEPT., we find that the bold forecasters left something to be desired in accuracy.

Not one member of the ETOWNIAN sports staff (nor any other predictor for that matter) can brag of a perfect record even in decisions although no one had counted very heavily on correct point margins. Bowers' overall record for the first four games came out right at three wins and one loss, but he had predicted the loss to Gettysburg instead of Morgan State. Price and Denlinger along with several other students all surmised four wins without a loss in the set.

Morgan State proved to be the main downfall as everyone assumed that the Jays would win. In the following tilt, Denlinger had the only bull's-eye with his 18-point win over Wilkes coming true. Lorell Price missed the G-burg game by one point, but, then again, closeness only counts in quoits.

For the record, then, everybody is three and one in this little game and only after another set will anyone be qualified to claim superiority.

Three Jaygals, Coach Play at Philadelphia

Hockey, for Elizabethtown and most of the nation, was wrapped up over the Thanksgiving holidays when 18 teams met for all-American eliminations in Philadelphia.

Four E-towners including Coach Julia Risser, Fran Hoover, Janie MacNeal and Joan Reigler represented this area on the all-Mid East first and second teams, but none succeeded in gaining the highest honor of all-American.

In the games which were played at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, Miss Hoover scored four goals and Miss Risser netted one while playing on different teams against different competition.

Prof. Hoover to Head Local Borough Council

Prof. Elmer Hoover, director of student education at Elizabethtown College was chosen president of the Elizabethtown Borough Council at the December meeting of the council.

Prof. Hoover has completed the first year as a member of the council. He is active as a chaplain in the National Reserves.

Winter Intra-murals Under Way

The men's intra-mural basketball league saw action last week as it opened the league with two games in the gym on Monday night.

In the twin-bill, the Private Pistons led by Larry Brydia defeated the Center Hall Celtics of Carl Spease 31-26. The night-cap saw the South Hall Warriors romp over the North Hall Nationals 48-10. "Blossom" Blessing captains the Warriors and Curt Reiber the Nats. Carl Zeigler of the winning Warriors was high for the game with 14 points.

Three downtown and day student teams that haven't seen action as of yet include the Placida Lakers, the Hill Top Hawks and the Ridge Road Royals. The player-coaches of these quintets are John Fisher, Al Barrick and Hank Osborn in that order.

The league plans to play most of its games on Tuesday nights and any other nights that the gym is available. With double-headers planned for these evenings, the first game is to start at 8 p.m. and the second at 9 p.m.

Ping Pong Tournament

The women are currently in the middle of a ping pong tournament.

The winners elimination was completed when Nancy Kurtz defeated Kitty Weaver for the title after trimming Helen Louise Bucher to enter the finals. Miss Weaver had beaten Mary Langdon in the semi-finals.

As each participant lost, she became eligible to compete again against previous losers for a secondary title. A final champion will be declared when the two winners play-off sometime this week.

Not yet organized but tentatively arranged is an intra-mural bowling league for the women. This league will not begin, however, until the termination of gym class bowling.

TIME OUT

with
Carl Denlinger

The latest word from Coach Herr's office is that we have been changed to the Northern division of the Middle Atlantic States set-up. As I explained before, this puts us in a much more favorable position as far as winning a play-off berth. Coach Herr says that this will be a favorable set-up for soccer, baseball and basketball.

This is the first report on the standings of my "Little Ten" league. Although not many games have been played, the league is beginning to take the shape which it will probably have at the end.

Total games as of December 10:

Lycoming	2	0
F. & M.	2	0
Lebanon Valley	4	1
Juniata	2	1
E-town	2	1
Susquehanna	1	1
Dickinson	1	1
Millersville	2	3
Albright	2	3
Gettysburg	0	4
League games of December 10:
W	L
F. & M.	1	0
Dickinson	1	1
Albright	1	1
Millersville	0	1
Juniata	0	1
Susquehanna	0	1

Ah-Hem! Note the Wilkes final score and then check last month's Crystal Ball Dept. Need I say more???

Boy, was that Morgan State game a heart-breaker!! Wonder what the reason was? Could it have been that our first team was too tired after playing nearly the whole game? Just a thought.

Coach Smith's boys face some tough games after the vacation. Look for Lebanon Valley to win or make it very close on their home floor via the charity stripe. I predict we outscore them from the field and hope we can break their home court winning streak.

Was glad to see Jim Sarbaugh as team captain. He deserves this reward for his steady floor game. If you want to know his real value to the team, count the number of times that his accurate passes led directly to E-town scores. Also watch him during the tense part of the game and the effect he has on the team as a whole.

TIME OUT for a Merry Christmas.

Sal Paone in 4th Year with Varsity

by Ken Bowers

When the Blue Jay cagers took the floor of the Eddie Plank Memorial Gymnasium at Gettysburg on December 3, Sal Paone began his fourth season as playmaker, high scorer, and all-around mainstay of the Elizabethtown College basketball five.

The speedster from Philadelphia went out and collected 19 points on 7 field goals and 5 fouls that night as a sample of the feats he has been performing ever since he donned a Blue and Gray uniform back in 1953.

This was far from his best game as a Blue Jay, but it demonstrated his consistency as a perennial main cog in the E-town wheel. During the three and one-half years that he's played, the "big" little man of Elizabethtown has compiled quite a record, and it is not complete yet.

Along with several teammates six feet tall or more, the five feet eight and one-half inch guard ranked as one of the top scorers in the area as well as being tabbed "E-town's new weapon" in his freshman year. Two years ago he paced his team in scoring average with 15.3 points per game on 337 counters. His 117 foul goals that year topped all area college players. In seven contests that year, the diminutive hustler scored 20 points or more with 28 against Drexel his highest.

Last year he ran second in the former department to teammate Bill Pensyl, but his 124 fouls again gave him the area title. He totaled 386 points in 24 games for a 16.1 norm. To top that off, he grabbed 80 rebounds which is quite above average for a player of his length in today's giant-dominated basketball. All this—and he still has the majority of a season to go.

Sal got his high school diploma at the South Philadelphia High School for Boys where he naturally won a varsity letter in basketball. Here at E-town he is enrolled in secondary education and upon graduation plans to teach and coach.

Concentrating on only one varsity sport, he is by no means limited in all-around athletic ability. His past play in intra-murals in touch football, softball and tennis illustrate his versatility.

As for opponents, Sal picked Lebanon Valley as the team he likes to beat most. With numerous great games under his belt, he couldn't recall one game that thrilled him most, but who'll ever forget the time three years ago when he scored 26 points as the Jays trimmed Howie Landa and his gang in the last game the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley ever played on the local floor.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

Well, we've all had a good look at the 1956-57 rendition of Elizabethtown College basketball. Most of us are proud and most are pleased, and among them is this writer, but these eyes see plenty of room for improvement.

The dribblers performed well at Gettysburg considering the fact that it was the first outing of the young season, but we feel that the Bullets' inexperience hurt them more than our quality of play.

At York the Blue and Gray left something to be desired in the second half—not to mention the first. Morgan State was big and fast; however, in our estimation, the best team lost and not because the Marylanders played above their heads.

The Jays settled down against Wilkes and Dickinson to a degree as was expected and should continue to improve as this team has more depth than any other quintet in the Southern division of the Middle Atlantic Basketball Association.

Evident to most fans by now is the fact that Jim Sarbaugh is captaining this year's outfit. He was selected by the players who voted several days prior to the first game. The cagey Columbian proved his worth as team leader last year when he served in the same role the last half of the season.

While E-town can't brag of an extremely young team this year like several other institutions, there is youth in good quantities on the squad. When Coach Smith substituted in the last quarter of the Wilkes contest, he fielded an all-sophomore team in Pensyl, Dent, Repleglo, Geiger and Hedrick.

The junior varsity under the direction of Pat Rafter, a senior and ex-Blue Jay basketballer, just got started Thursday evening with Dickinson. Coach Smith sent several varsity players down from part-time duty and they are serving with nine freshmen, a sophomore, and a junior who have been working out full time for the junior Jays.

Miss Risser, meanwhile, has held several practices for the women's basketball team. The five starters that are back from last year's six plus a host of newcomers will give the Jaygals another winning season. They don't begin the season, though, till February 7.

Coach Byerly's grapplers had a hard time of it the other week when Millersville moved in for the preliminary event to the cage contest with Wilkes.

Blue Jay Matmen To Face Temple

The first two wrestling meets of the new year will pit Coach Byerly's matmen against Temple at Philadelphia on January 10 and Western Maryland at Elizabethtown on January 17.

This home meet starts at eight p.m.

With a larger and more experienced squad the locals should improve over last year's 28-10 loss to Temple, but the Owls will be tough to beat, especially at home.

The Jays slipped by Western Maryland last season 15-14 when Dave Anwyll pinned his opponent with his team trailing by 4 going into his match. The bout sawed the whole way with the Jays winning it on two falls and three decisions.

Arcuri Hits 30 Against Dickinson As Jay Cagers Win 3 of First 4

Tony Arcuri pumped through 13 field goals and 4 fouls for a grand total of 30 points Thursday night as the Blue Jay cagers made it three out of four with an 88-74 victory over Dickinson in the Alumni Gym.

After trouncing Gettysburg in the opener and then losing a close one to Morgan State at York, the Smithmen trimmed Wilkes and the Red Devils in succession on the home floor.

Jays Face Lycoming In First of 8 Cage Tilts in January

With the first lap of the current basketball season completed before the holidays, Coach Smith's cagers will begin the long haul being slated for eight games in January.

The Blue Jays will play at Lycoming on Tuesday, here against Lincoln on Thursday, and Lebanon Valley at Annville on Saturday immediately after returning from the Christmas layoff.

Then it's Albright at Donegal H. S. and Susquehanna at Selinsgrove on successive nights followed with a tilt at West Chester on Saturday evening of the following week.

The locals trimmed Lycoming twice last year winning 96-56 here and squeezing by 75-72 on the losers' floor. Bill Pensyl had 19 points and 19 rebounds in the fray on the E-town floor.

They took a pair from Lincoln, racking up 107 points both times to the Chesterites' 74 and 62 at home and away respectively. Sal Paone paced the Blue Jays in the home contest with 26 tallies, and Tony Arcuri led the locals at Lincoln with 27.

When Lebanon Valley, a perennial rival, hosts the Jays two nights later, anything may happen and usually does. The Dutchmen have three lettermen back in Bob Nelson, Dick Shover, and Don Reinhard. Nelson scored 28 against the Smithmen at Hershey a year ago.

E-town lost at Annville last season 80-69, but gained revenge with a 74-56 maul job over the Dutchmen before 2000 fans at the Hershey Arena.

Albright, Susquehanna and West Chester all fell victim to the Blue and Gray a year ago. The Jay dribblers trounced Albright 110-91 and West Chester 106-92 and Susquehanna twice, 110-66 and 78-72. The latter team will be strengthened with the return of Frank Romano who accounted for 32 of the Crusaders' points at Selinsgrove last year.

Grapplers Lose First Meet, 32-0

A powerful Millersville wrestling squad making the most of a supposedly green team, shut out Coach Byerly's under-studies 32-0 in the first meet of the season for both teams recently held in the local gym.

E-town's matmen, despite the whitewash, showed definite signs of promise in losing on four pins and four falls. John Hollinger, Dave Anwyll, Larry Seiders and Ralph Baker fought to close decisions with Baker and Seiders losing by only one point.

The Blue Jays need not be ashamed as the Marauders are annually one of the most powerful teams in the State Teachers Conference. The Jays, who meet Lycoming next on December 15 at home, still have a good chance to better last year's record and barring too many powerhouses like Millersville, they probably will.

Arcuri, who sat out most of the last quarter, scored 18 of his 30 counters in the first half while the Jays picked up a 52-37 half-time lead. Bob Wert also had a hot hand, especially on set shots, and he netted 22, 17 of which were in the initial half.

The Blue Jays, starting with a fast-switching man-to-man defense, got an early lead in the first period and never lost it. Wert, Arcuri and Sal Paone, who had 18 for the evening, ruined the Red Devil zone defense with all kinds of shots from the outside.

JV's Lose Opener

The junior varsity basketball team had its opening night marred by a 74-67 loss to the Dickinson JV's.

The Thursday evening preliminary tilt saw the junior jays leading by one point with six minutes left, but that was only temporary as the Red Devils spurred ahead to stay.

Ed Geiger dumped in 28 points for the losers.

The dribblers from Carlisle outscored the locals 37-36 in a wild second half, but they never managed to come to within more than 9 points of the hustling Blue and Gray.

WILKES WHITEWASHED

In the initial home tilt of the campaign, the Jay dribblers made it two wins and one loss on the season with a decisive 86-68 win over Wilkes.

Arcuri poured in 24 points including 10 for 10 from the foul line. He piled up 18 in the first half in leading the Smithmen to a 47-28 half-time advantage.

Bob Wert hit for 16 on eight field goals and Jim Chase for 13 on six fielders and a foul.

Smith cleared the bench in the last half as all 12 varsity members saw action.

LOSE AT YORK

Two nights earlier the locals bowed to Morgan State 75-70 in the night cap of a Sertoma-sponsored twin-bill at York Junior College.

Capitalizing on their height and pin-point accuracy in the last half the Staters overcame a 13-point half-time deficit to overtake the Jays with 40 seconds left.

Arcuri, with nine buckets from the field and three at the charity stripe finished with 21 as Paone, Sarbaugh and Chase netted 15, 15 and 13, in that order.

Lebanon Valley won out over Millersville by two points in the first half of the double-header.

BULLETS BLASTED

In the opener at Gettysburg, five men hit double figures in trimming the Bullets of Bob Davies 84-75.

The fray was close all the way with the Jays trailing by one at half-time and by three midway through the last canto. The teams were even in fielders at 33 apiece, but the hard-driving Jays picked up the victory margin at the foul line, connecting for 18 points there to the Bullets' nine. Sarbaugh paced the pack with 21 counters as Paone, Pensyl, Arcuri and Chase scored 19, 16, 14 and 10 respectively.

CAMPUS SET FOR ELECTION CAMPAIGNS

President's Column

Miss Norma Modesti of Hershey, Pa., has been appointed as College Dietitian. She has already entered upon her duties and is laying out her program in connection with the dining room and kitchen in the new dormitory, which will go into operation January 28, 1957.

Miss Modesti is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State University in the course in Home Economics. The entire food service program for the second semester will be under the general direction of a committee of which Miss Modesti is a member. Other members on the committee are K. Ezra Bucher, W. E. Weaver, Miss Vera R. Hackman and Mrs. Grace Allan.

May Queen Election Set for February 6

Launching the round of student elections that will continue through March 22 will be the balloting for campus May Queen scheduled for February 6.

Members of the senior class are scheduled to meet February 1 to nominate four candidates, one of whom will be chosen queen in the all-campus voting in the college store. The runner-up will be maid-of-honor, and the other two will be senior attendants.

Each of the other three classes will meet in the chapel February 8 to select two representatives as members of the queen's court.

The Committee on Women's Affairs, with the approval of the Student Senate, has compiled the following list of qualifications which should be considered in choosing the queen and her court: leadership, service, scholarship, beauty, personality, integrity and citizenship.

Six Seniors Complete Courses

With the end of the first semester, six seniors have completed their college requirements and will graduate in June with the class of 1957. In addition, one Elizabethtown College graduate has completed certification requirements for teaching.

The six seniors are: Jessie Martin, Elizabethtown; Jean (Fretz) Shelling, Emmaus; John Shilcusky, Minersville; James Weaver, Lancaster; Barbara (Loban) Witman, Harrisburg, and Franklin Eichler, Mt. Joy. Harold Wilson, Chicago, has finished his requirements for teaching.

Jessie Martin graduated from Elizabethtown High School in 1952. Miss Martin came directly to college from high school and will receive her A.B. degree in Liberal Arts in June. She plans to teach English and history in the secondary grades.

Jean Shelling, Emmaus, graduated from Emmaus High School in 1952. She will receive a B.S. degree in elementary education. Mrs. Shelling has accepted a position as a kindergarten teacher in the Lancaster city school system.

John Shilcusky, Minersville, will receive a B.S. degree in business administration. A 1948 graduate of Minersville High School, he served for four years in the U. S. Air Force. Shilcusky

Progress Noted On Junior Class Variety Program

Juniors working on the class variety show, "Fabulous Flickers," have moved beyond the initial planning stage and have begun whipping the production into shape. The show is scheduled for March 22 and 23 in the college gymnasium auditorium.

Gerald Wolff, a junior, was selected master of ceremonies for the show at an audition held by the committee last week. A skeleton outline of the show has also been drawn up. Script writing and auditions for certain numbers will be accomplished in the near future.

A publicity committee consisting of Jim Pannebaker, Malcolm Hershey, Peggy Mills, Pat Shope and Paul Hagenberger has mapped out a program that includes letters of invitation to the parents of each student, posters, and articles in the local newspapers to widely advertise the talent show.

In addition to Mrs. Clarence Enterline, faculty adviser in charge of production, Professor Raymond Franke has consented to serve as an adviser to oversee all creative writing.

College Choir Readies For Concert Schedule

Professor Nevin Fisher reports that the college choir will present the majority of their off-campus concerts during the second semester. The next one to be given will be Sunday morning, February 3, at the Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren.

On February 17, they will present their annual concert at the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren in the morning and in the evening will sing at the Church of God in Elizabethtown.

CONCERT DATE CHANGED

Presently on tour in the Orient under the sponsorship of the U. S. State Department, the Westminster Choir has been forced to change its concert here from February 23 to March 14.

Student Senate Announces Schedule; Petitioning for President Begins Feb. 5

ELECTION COMMITTEE . . . Several members of the election committee meet in the Student Activities Office to coordinate procedures to be used during the coming campaign. From left they are: Inna Daniloff, Theodore Yohe, Ruthanne Butterbaugh, Mendel Sohn, Shirley Heller. The committee will supervise all phases of the student elections, which begin February 5 when petitions will be circulated by candidates for Senate president.

Education Majors Top Enrollment; Science, Pre-Engineering Gaining

More students are enrolled in education courses here than in any other fields, but the number of science and pre-engineering majors is increasing at a faster rate than majors in other courses.

Those two facts highlighted a survey of course enrollments over the past few years by Miss Emma Engle, registrar.

The breakdown reveals that 129 students are majoring either in elementary or secondary education. Business administration is a close second with 118. Liberal arts majors rank third with 111.

In the science field the number of majors has jumped from 48 last year to 67 for the current semester. This year there are 39 taking pre-engineering courses compared to 20 during the 1955-'56 school year.

Ezra Bucher Resigns To Accept New Post

K. Ezra Bucher, college treasurer and director of the Development Program, has submitted his resignation to become effective June 1, or as soon as a successor is appointed, according to Dr. A. C. Baugher, president.

Mr. Bucher has accepted a position with the Continental Press, Elizabethtown. Dr. Baugher expects to announce the appointment of Mr. Bucher's successor in the near future."

A 1932 graduate of Elizabethtown, Mr. Bucher came to the college in 1945 to fill the position of business manager-treasurer. He has directed the Development Program since its inception. In addition, he promoted an adult education class for retail grocers and restaurateurs.

Prior to returning to Elizabethtown, he was employed by the Wilcox Manufacturing Company, Mechanicsburg, and taught for a number of years in several Pennsylvania high schools.

Semester Registration In Gymnasium, Jan. 29

Final registration for the second semester will be held on Tuesday, January 29, between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. in the gymnasium, according to Miss Emma R. Engle registrar.

A student who has not completed his pre-registration will not be permitted to register before 3 p. m. All students will register according to the following schedule: commuting students, 7-10:30 a. m.; men boarding students, 10:30 to 12 noon and 1 to 2:30 p. m.; women boarding students, 2:30-4 p. m.

Elections for student governmental positions will begin February 5, with a campaign for the presidency of the Student Association and Senate, and continue to March 22. The complete election schedule appears on page 2.

A responsible student government is required to cope with the needs of an increasing body and its problems. To insure the electorate is kept well informed, a thorough indoctrination in election procedures is planned for the student body by an election committee which will supervise all election activities.

The election committee, appointed by the Student Senate and composed of seniors, is headed by co-chairmen James Yeinst and Pauline Wolfe. Other members are Mendel Sohn, Peter Thompson, Theodore Yohe, Verna Weaver, Barbara Theel, Inna Daniloff, Ruthanne Butterbaugh and Shirley Heller.

The present president of the Senate is an impartial director of the entire election program.

Student Assembly

On Friday morning, February 15, election procedures for the forthcoming student elections will be explained in a student assembly. Candidates seeking the presidency of the Student Association and Senate will present their platforms and qualifications to the student body at this time.

The bulletin board outside Alpha Hall will be used exclusively by the election committee for posting information pertinent to the election as well as personal data on all the candidates. For this reason each candidate for an office will be required to hand in with a signed petition: (1) a wallet size picture; (2) a statement of his or her platform, and (3) a list of qualifications.

"We wish to create an interest among students in student government," said Yeinst, "so that all, including freshmen and off-campus students are acquainted with the candidates and their qualifications."

New Placement Plan Initiated to Help Students Find Jobs

A new service, designed to assist students in gaining employment in their chosen fields, has been instituted by the college committee on placement, according to an announcement by Dean Roy McAuley.

Basically, the service involves the compilation of information on individual students in folder form for confidential study by prospective employers.

A charge of $1.00 will be made to each student using the service. Receipts will be used to cover the costs of printing, postage and secretarial work involved. Use of the service is strictly voluntary.

Faculty members on the placement committee include: Dean McAuley, Dr. Charles S. Apgar, Eby C. Espenshade, Prof. Elmer Hoover and Prof. Albert Gray.

Midyear: Time of Prospect And Retrospect

This is the time in the school year when most of us are bound up by the grind of final examinations for first semester and the press of registration that launches the second half of the term.

To all of us the end of first semester marks one of the eight milestones we pass on the way to graduation.

To freshmen the examinations signify the end of that first lap in their college career. They've had a taste of college life now and should know whether or not they want a full dose.

To seniors the end of the semester may bring the sobering thought that the end of their work here at Elizabethtown is now in sight. In about five months they'll be putting what they've learned here to work in carving out a place in society.

We'll all probably make those resolutions to finish the year in a blaze of glory, but when warm weather arrives our good intentions will, whether in the sun as have those of other students in years past.

We'll move into the second half of the school year with a clean slate, a full measure of allowable class cuts, and an expectation of campus life in the spring.

We hope that the freshmen profit from the experience gained since September, that the sophomores and juniors better their individual records, and that the seniors are able to fully savor these final few weeks on campus.

Britain: Empire Fading

The facts of life are coming hard to the proud people of Great Britain.

They have at last begun to realize that their days of glory, far-flung empire, power and prestige are fading. The sun has begun to set on the vast empire that at one time always felt its warm glow in some portion of the globe.

India and Egypt have shaken free of England's grasp. The dominions have moved further away from the mother country as exemplified by Canada's refusal to support British action in Suez. Cyprus and Singapore are alive with gestures of revolt.

Britain today is coming to realize that she is something of a junior partner in the Western Alliance. Even more disheartening to Englishmen is the stark realization that their lot is not likely to change for the better in the near future.

That final desperate lunge at greatness and recovery ended in utter failure and humiliation when the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt backfired.

One English statesman wryly commented that there are bigger animals than the British lion roaming the earth today.

Looking to the future, British policy makers have apparently decided to move closer to the protective shield of American economic and military might.

That, basically, is the reported reason for the resignation of Anthony Eden and the appointment of Harold Macmillan as prime minister.

Off The Beaten Track

Vacations are wonderful! Getting away from the school, professors and books for a few weeks affords the chance to view school life from a distance, in perspective, and to unwind some of the tension built up by studying. There's truth in the song, "There's No Place Like Home for the Holidays."

Well, a new year is here and so is Elvis Presley. It will be interesting to see what army barbers do with him. To cut or not to cut, that's going to be the question.

Christmas cards were still arriving on campus a week ago. The ponies are slow this year, aren't they?

It looks like winter is here to stay. We're getting lots of cold weather, snow and snowmen. That 10-foot giant in front of the library the other week was a dandy. Boy, wouldn't Coach Smith like to find the boy who modeled for it?

During one of Prof. Beck's "smashing" true-false tests, he announced to the class, "All these are found in the text," to which Betty Landes cutely piped up, "Is that a question?"

Student reaction to Prof. Gray's talk in chapel several weeks ago indicated that all felt nobody "goofed" in making the assignment. Dark suit or not!

We liked the display on the library bulletin board during December. The question: "Are you a hunter?" was timely and the reply: "There's always open season on books!" was novel. The paper deer head probably brought back memories to some of our nimrods. Only heard of one deer bagged by a campus hunter, and that was a 4-pointer brought down by Jonathan Smith. There were, however, reports from other campus gunners about "the one that got away."

Weddings are bigger and better than ever and to prove it, Amos Cunningham arrived at the church three days early to see one over the holidays. Three days later George Gerlach was left holding the bridal bouquet.

A sequel to the "Quench Me Deadly" story in the December ETOWNIAN took place in the boys' dorm prior to the holidays. The nickle-stealing soda machine was literally strangled to death one night. The following morning its life's blood (mixed orange, lime, cherry and root beer), was found spilled on the floor.

The girls in Fairview, Memorial and West halls could well be "Singing the Blues" about the new gals' dorm "Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine."

West Hall girls will long remember the excitement of those nights before a big dance. The place would look as though a baby hurricane had passed through after all the hustle and bustle.

In Fairview, which is noted for its third floor birthday parties, there is a poster of Adlai Stevenson displayed on one room door—just eyes, ears and nose . . . no face.

After she moves, Bonnie Gibble will have to find a new place to sleepwalk. They claim that in Memorial Hall she stumbles over the ironing boards during her nocturnal strolls.

The girls in Alpha Hall can continue their athletic program in the second semester since they aren't moving. Their activities include bowling—with potatoes—tennis and rope jumping (all in the dorm).

Something that seems to be common to all the girls' dorms is report of sneaky mice and the resultant shrieks and screaming of the girls. Evidently "Beetlebum" and the other pet cats aren't doing such a good job at catching mice.

Until next time: "You Take the High Road, We'll Take the Low Road. And We'll Be Off the Beaten Track Before You."

HERE AND THERE

Those of us who lead what might be called relatively routine lives after leaving college may well consider the conditions under which Christine and Zig Heilman, '52 and '50 respectively, are living in Cartagena, Colombia.

According to a letter received recently, the Heilmans are helping to develop an English-speaking school in that South American city.

However, life there isn't what it is here. For example, they are out of constant touch with world affairs because of a shortage of newspapers. In addition, the Colombian government maintains strict censorship and has clamped down on TIME magazine, a prime news source for the Heilmans, because of recent critical statements made by the publication.

To guard against robberies, the Heilmans have a large police dog to supplement the regular hired watchmen who guard their home. All they've lost so far are garbage cans.

Another Elizabethtown graduate, Lida Anne Swope, '48, has been named "coordinator" of the business department in Hanover Park High School, Hanover, N. J., a school with a campus-like atmosphere. There are reportedly only two others like it in the nation.

According to a recent letter, the school is still suffering growing pains since it was only ready for occupancy after Thanksgiving. The unique institution has a fairly young faculty and has promising potential.

With a growing enrollment, two more teachers are to be hired next year. Anyone interested?

Fred R. Korman, Fallen Timber, Pa. and Harry K. Gerlach, Quarryville, Pa., attended the Philadelphia Teachers Annual Conference in December. Both are graduates of Elizabethtown College in 1933, and both serve as president of their respective convention districts.

TROUBLE AT HOME AND ABROAD

Our Biggest Problem: What Is It?

With today's top news breaking so swiftly and bearing such significance for all of us, individually and collectively, the ETOWNIAN asked members of the student body for their opinions on the most serious problem confronting the American people, either domestically or in foreign affairs.

Their responses ran the gamut from the question of juvenile delinquency and lack of adequate spiritual life to America's role as leader of the Free World and our policy for the Middle East.

This is what they said:

Bruce Wohnsiedler, junior

"Our biggest problem is finding a proper approach to peace. As leaders of the Free World we have a responsibility to provide adequate guidance. So far we've made some progress, but eventually we're going to have to get away from the 'armed to the teeth' concept of keeping the peace."

Gene Bucher, junior — "In my opinion, juvenile delinquency is our most serious problem. I understand there's a serious increase in juvenile crimes, particularly vice, as evidenced by the recent scandal in Philadelphia. We should provide more activities for young people in church work and through social agencies."

Valerie Watkins, sophomore

"Our obligation to the oppressed people in the Communist satellites is our most serious problem. We must be careful in how we handle our activities in their behalf because the Communists are ready to take advantage of any mistake we make, no matter how slight. We must prove that Democracy can work."

James Schell, junior

"I think the American people in general can develop a deeper cultivation of spiritual life in their approach to the problems of the day. We can at least start to accomplish this by launching a vigorous program of evangelism to bring people closer to God in their everyday life."

John Shilcusky, senior

"Right now our biggest problem is foreign affairs. How, in particular, is the American government going to deal with the situation in Hungary? What action is the United States going to take in regard to counteracting the policies of the Soviet Union? Are we going to let the Communists go ahead with their plans, or are we going to take a firm stand against them? I'm in favor of such measures as the Eisenhower Doctrine, even though it does mean I might be recalled for future military service."

Glen Snelbecker, senior

"The biggest problem is the determination of the values of life. For example, we'll be better prepared to work for world peace when we have peace within ourselves and have a clear idea of where we're going and what we're trying to do. Too often we are subject to a dual code of ethics. We don't practice what we preach."

Esther Frantz, sophomore

"I think our greatest challenge is the fulfillment of our role as world leaders. I don't see how we can be the leaders in the quest for world peace if we don't have order in our own house. Segregation in this country is an example. Also the problem of social classes here is hampering our concerted action. Before we start preaching to the rest of the world we should first become a living example in America."

Paul Grau, sophomore

"I'd say the fear of a third world war and the possibility of Communist encroachment are our biggest problems. I think the Eisenhower Doctrine is a big step in the right direction. Let's back Ike."

Robert Knappenberger, senior

"I don't think that we've properly applied Christian principles vigorously enough in facing everyday problems, either in our own community or in the world. This is because of the facts that (1) we ignore our responsibility to the rest of the world and (2) we have been unable to take a first century Christianity and adapt it to a 20th century situation."

Richard Hartman, junior

"I'd say our role in the Middle East is our most serious problem. It's the most explosive situation in the world, and what we say and do will have a great deal to do in determining the ultimate outcome. We must keep the Communists away from the vital oil in the area."

Helen Louise Bucher, sophomore

"Our biggest problem and greatest challenge is finding a method to provide education for our younger generation. It now appears that the educational needs of the American people are far outstripping the facilities to provide that education. As a start we could tighten up college admission requirements. Next we could better the quality of college faculties by getting rid of weak professors."

Layton Fireng, senior

"The most serious problem facing the people of the United States today is materialism. The average American is interested only in the tangibles. The preservation of learning and appreciation of the classics has been delegated to a few people known popularly as 'squares' or 'longhairs' or persons who are completely out of it. This is best exemplified by the fact that a person with a Ph.D. may earn $10,000 while an illiterate with a high degree of coordination may earn many times this amount as an athlete."

Margaret Brown, sophomore

"I think the most serious problem confronting the Americans today is integration in the South. If the problem isn't solved soon it will be detrimental to American prestige in world affairs. How can we help others solve their problems if we're doing such a lousy job solving our own?"

Bette Jane Holman, freshman

"I think segregation is the most important problem of the United States at present because we must be able to associate peacefully with the people in our own country before we can expect to have good relations with other nations. There are many countries that are looking to the United States for guidance and answers to their problems, but if we cannot solve issues, such as racial dissension within our own borders, they do not regard our opinions as highly."

Conestogian Travels Long, Hard Road Prior to Final Delivery

To most college students a yearbook is one of those things matter-of-factly received toward the end of the school year along with final grades and best wishes for a happy vacation.

But to the small group of people who comprise the staff of a yearbook—in the case of Elizabethtown, the CONESTOGAN—the end result is but the culmination of a tedious process of planning and ironing out of details that they have lived with since the first day of school.

The CONESTOGAN staff, all volunteers, have been working quietly for several months on the initial stages of the '57 edition.

Bit by bit, the skeleton of the book is taking shape under the editorship of Wanda Sprow, who has the responsibility of putting the CONESTOGAN together and turning out a top-notch edition in time for graduation.

Aiding her with advice and suggestions is Prof. Clarence Enterline, yearbook adviser.

Planning is First

The actual process of turning out a really good yearbook consists primarily of sound planning followed by careful and deliberate construction.

First steps are the choice of a central theme and the means to be used in developing that theme throughout the book.

Next comes the "dummying" process, the act of deciding what goes on each and every page.

After the initial phases have been completed, the staff begins turning out the written copy that will be used to supplement and explain the many pictures to be included. The staff attempts to give pictorial coverage to every person and activity connected with the college during the school year.

When the copy comes back from the printers it must be carefully screened and checked for any errors that may have crept in.

Time Consuming

As may have been gathered, all this takes time, not only in the actual writing and checking of material, but in the setting up of pictures, making arrangements for interviews, and other seemingly endless details.

The CONESTOGAN editor and her staff can only breathe easy after the final book has been distributed.

If present plans materialize, about one-third of the book will be in the hands of the printer by the end of January.

May Delivery

The final portion is scheduled to be turned over to the printer by mid-March. Final delivery of the finished product is set for sometime in May, before summer vacation begins.

This year's edition will reportedly be bigger than any that have gone before. The editor and her staff are hoping to emulate the All-American rating received by the 1956 version.

Members of the yearbook staff in addition to the editor and adviser include:

Layton Fireng and Albert Rogers, photography in conjunction with Vere Bishop, local commercial photographer; Jean Rigler and Shirley Heller, make-up staff; Kenneth Bowers, Carl Denlinger and Jeanne Risser, sports staff; and James Risser, sports staff; Pauline Wolfe, Verna Weaver and Audrey Sprengle, index staff; Yvonne Brubaker, Gloria Keller, Dorothy Spotts and Jim Yeingst, literary staff; Glenn Bixler, business manager; Joyce Schaffer, assistant, and Barbara Theel and Dorothy Mudrinich, typists.

News and Nonsense

from

Other Campuses

With final examinations just getting under way here on campus we thought this little item from the University of Chicago was especially well timed. It's entitled AMERICAN TRAGEDY:

He read the textbook.
He studied the notes.
He outlined both.
Then he summarized his outline.

Then he outlined his summary on 3 x 5 cards.
Then reduced the card outline to one single card.
Boiled the card down to one sentence.

Boiled the sentence down to a phrase.
Entered the exam.
Analyzed the question.
And then,
Forgot
The Word.

Check this caricature of a coed—

"Between the innocence of bobby sox and the sophistication of mink there lies a curious, care-free creature called a coed."

"Coeds come equipped with assorted pedal pushers and hairdos, but they all uphold the same creed; to enjoy every minute of every hour of every college day."

"Teachers fluster them, mothers protect them, little sisters idolize them, and boys worship them."

"They can be found in all places; lounging OR, draping around, leaning against, busting to, and traipsing from. She is pride with a pony tail, non-chalance with a notebook, optimism with an overcoat, and the prettiest of womanhood in wool."

"A coed is a curious mixture. She has the eating habits of a canary and displays the energy of a mountain trout. To her admirers she has the mind of Einstein, the looks of Kim, the personality of Grace, and the figure of Marilyn. To other coeds, she has the form of a beer bottle, the personality of a wet mackerel and the mind of a beetle."

"She leads a martyr's life. No one else could stand time limits on telephone calls, the frustration of stolen bobbypins and the pain of waiting for a date."

"The coed loves weekends, formal dances, cashmere sweaters, red convertibles and men."

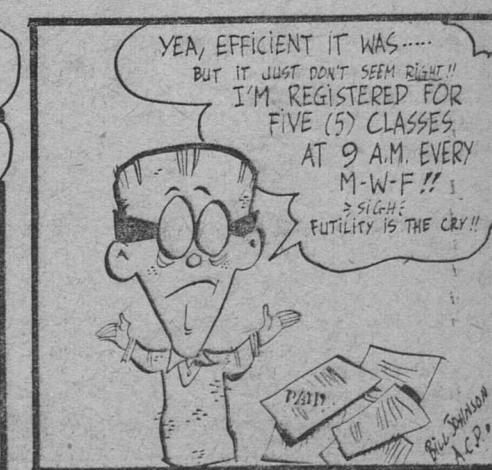

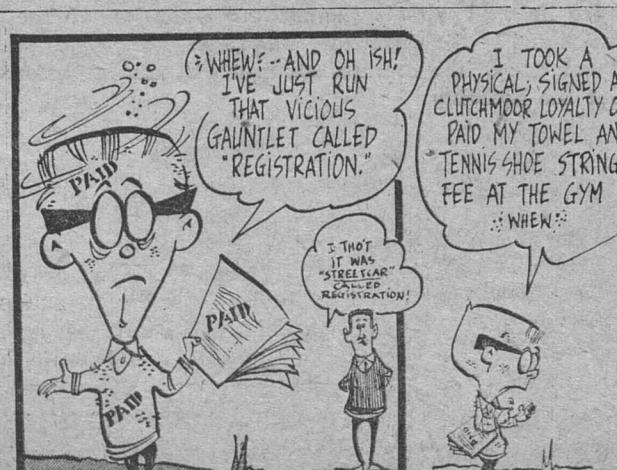

"The coed is here to stay with all her curiosities. She may remain a bobby soxer or attain the dignity of mink, but in between she is still that curious phenomenon . . . a coed."

A columnist for the Long Beach College Forty-Niner has a few words on school spirit worth thinking about. Here they are:

"One of my more intellectual friends brought up a point that stimulates some serious thinking. He asked why the spirit of a college must always be connected with its sports program."

"Citing a definite lack of pride in intellectual conquests, he added that he would like to put on a pair of Bermudas, stand in the middle of the campus, and lead a few yells for the Philosophy department."

We have a clear picture of Dave "Legs" Anwyll standing under the Elms in front of Alpha Hall and lustily bellowing "Three cheers for Prof. Custer."

Study of Career Opportunities For Students

(In cooperation with Dean Roy McAuley, the ETOWNIAN presents the following information on some of the scholarship and career opportunities available through the college placement program. More details on these and other opportunities may be had by contacting Dr. McAuley.)

Educational Opportunities

The Temple University College of Liberal Arts is offering graduate assistantships under which nine semester hours of work per semester may be had. The school offers $1,400 per academic year plus free tuition and covers the following fields: Biology, Chemistry, English, Physics, Psychology and Speech. Deadline for application is March 15.

Cornell University in cooperation with Bache and Company is offering a $2,500 Fellowship open to a Master of Business Administration Candidate majoring in Finance and indicating interest in a career in the securities industry.

The University of Illinois has opportunities for graduate study in psychology. The offers include fellowships, teaching assistantships, research assistantships, and traineeships in clinical and counseling psychology.

The Institute of International Education is offering fellowships for study in 19 foreign countries, including Austria, England, France, Germany, Israel, Italy, Spain, Brazil and Switzerland.

Job or Career Opportunities

Armstrong Cork Company has openings for male college graduates in the following fields: advertising, promotion, public relations, chemistry, chemical engineering, engineers, production planning, sales (technical and non-technical), and physics.

February 4 has been designated as Civil Service Night here on campus. Dr. O. F. Group of the Mechanicsburg Naval Supply Depot will present the total picture of civil service opportunities to all interested students, freshman through senior standing. The time and place: 7:30 p. m. in the Rider Chapel.

The Washington County Council of Girl Scouts is looking for mid-term graduates for professional work in Hagerstown, Md. Starting salary: $3,600 to $4,300 based on academic and experience qualifications.

The Jamestown, N. Y., area Girl Scout Council needs workers for their camp this summer.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPARTMENT . . .

With almost half of the current basketball season completed and the sports staff holding its own in forecasting the results, we publish a new set of games and predictions hoping for a little improvement.

On the last group, we received numerous predictions from feminine members of the student body as well as some ardent fans among the men students. Should any of these aspirants prove to possess a better crystal ball or a less complicated and more efficient formula, we will proudly publish their names along with their accomplishments.

As few fans know relatively little about the Jays' opposition, a glance at the standings of the Southern division of the Middle Atlantic Basketball Association in the local daily newspapers or the Little Ten League in Denlinger's column may aid in this game as well as add interest to the contests with the league opponents.

* Played at Donegal H. S.

† Denotes marginal difference.

Denlinger — four wins, one loss.

Price — four wins, one loss.

Bowers — four wins, one loss.

Now that we have a larger crew of crystal ball owners in our little club, there is a better chance for correct predicting more frequently. With a growing number of women in the membership, we received quite a cross section of forecasts on the last set of games.

First of all, the ETOWNIAN sports staff fared no better than anyone else in the final outcomes. Denlinger and Bowers had three of the four correct while Price was two and two. That puts Denlinger ahead on the season with seven right and two wrong. Price and Bowers each have five and four. Denlinger, incidentally, hit the Susquehanna game on the nose.

No one else had all the decisions correct, but some of the point margins were foreseen accurately. Don Slonaker had a bull's eye in the Lycoming scrap with a 12-point win as Bruce Wohnsiedler missed by one. The 53-point win over Lincoln was a little too steep for anyone. Bowers was closest at 38.

Only Gene Bucher was exact in the 7-point win at Lebanon Valley. Wohnsiedler was close again with 8 and Helen Louise Bucher also missed by one with 6. Besides Denlinger, Phil Seese and Bob Blessing foresaw the 5-point loss at Susquehanna.

Well, that's it for this time, and be careful on the next set. There are a few sneaky ones in there.

The Women's Athletic Association announced last week that an eight-team bowling league will begin on January 30.

The league which is in charge of Lois Tingle and under the supervision of Miss Risser will see action every Monday from 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. after Wednesday's official opening. All women playing on that date are to report to the front of the new women's dorm at 3:45 p. m.

Forty co-eds signed up for participation and have been divided into eight teams of five. The captains of those teams are: (1) Margaret Brown; (2) Jean Maybe; (3) Barbara Smith; (4) Margie Dum; (5) Betsy Lohr; (6) Audrey Sprinkle; (7) Esther Frantz; (8) Liga Grinbergs. These teams will oppose each other in the following order in the first round: (1) vs. (2), (3) vs. (4), (5) vs. (6), and (7) vs. (8).

of the Student Association and Senate will have to be a senior next year and must present a petition with the signatures of 20 per cent. of the full-time student body.

Students who will be either juniors or seniors next year can be nominated for vice-president whereas members of any of this year's lower three classes may be nominated for secretary and treasurer of the Student Association and Senate. For each of these offices, the signatures of 20 per cent. of the full-time student body are necessary for nomination.

The editor of the ETOWNIAN will be nominated by the Student Senate while the editor and business manager of the CONESTOGAN will be nominated by an editorial committee.

Any full-time student presenting a petition with signatures of 10 per cent. of the full-time student body may be nominated for a Senate seat.

Women resident students and day students will meet separately as will men resident and day students to nominate in each case more than four resident students and more than two day students for the committees on Women's and Men's Affairs.

The nomination of class officers will be arranged at the discretion of the individual classes and their advisers.

Further Information

The Student Activities Office is headquarters and dissemination center of all election material such as petition sheets. Signatures for a petition can be gotten by the office seeker himself or herself or by another student. A student may sign any number of petitions.

All voting will take place in the college store during store hours until 4:30 p. m. Ballots will be counted by members of the election committee in the Student Activities Office in the presence of one adviser.

In regard to campaigning, Yeingst stated, "We encourage a lot of campaign posters and speech making. Whenever possible time will be set aside in assembly programs to permit candidates to speak."

No posters or any campaign material shall be posted in the Chapel, on the first floor of Alpha Hall except on the bulletin boards, or on the steps to and in all buildings. All posters shall be removed at the end of each campaign.

Jay Muslemen Win Two Straight; Trim W. Md. and Upset Temple

E-town's muslemen evened their season's log at two wins and two losses on Thursday night when they won their second straight by downing Western Maryland 20-15 on the home mats.

The grapplers' home victory followed an upset a week earlier at Temple after they had lost to Lycoming in another home match.

Dave Anwyll was the deciding factor in the most recent win when he pinned his opponent at 3:20 after going into the bout with his team tied at 15-15. His brother, John, and Larry Seiders also registered falls for the Jays. John Hollinger contributed three points and Ralph Baker, two with a decision and draw respectively.

The Blue Jay bouncers won their first meet of the season on January 10 when they dumped Temple 20-14 in Philadelphia. Jay Greider's pin at 26 seconds sparked the team to victory. Hollinger pinned his man and Bill Kendig won by forfeit, but again it was Dave Anwyll who came through with a fall to ice the outcome when the locals had a slim 15-14 lead.

On December 15, the matmen lost their second straight—this one to Lycoming 19-9. Besides two draws, Hollinger was the Jays' only scorer with a fall.

Matmen vs. Albright; Six Meets Remain

The next outing for Coach Byerly's grapplers will pit them against a brand new opponent, Albright.

The meet is slated for January 26 on the Lions' mats and will see the Jay matmen facing a newly organized outfit, as this is Albright's first year of intercollegiate wrestling.

Soon after the matmen will be at East Stroudsburg opposing a strong Teacher team. Stroudsburg won handily last year 28-6, here at E-town, and have five returning lettermen who will be out to do the same this year. Captain John Hollinger picked up three of the Jays' points a year ago with a decision.

Next the bouncers will host P.M.C., whom they tied 16-16 at Chester in 1956. Behind 16-3 at one point, the winners came back on the strength of decisions by Hollinger and Larry Seiders plus falls by Ralph Baker and Dave Anwyll. The Cadets have four lettermen back.

Byerly's boys hit the road again after that for a tilt at Ursinus to whom they lost a year ago. This team is bolstered by the return of Dick Padula, who wrestles in the 137-pound weight class. He has piled up a string of over 20 straight victories in the last several years.

Then it's Gettysburg who took the Blue Jays 30-7 last year on the G-burg mats. This home fray will see the Bullets on hand with four lettermen including their ace, Bob Walnsley, another 137-pounder.

The Jay muslemen will wrap it up for the season at Oxford on February 26 when they tangle with Lincoln. Hollinger's fall along with Seiders' and Baker's decisions helped the locals to a 16-14 victory last year at home. Lincoln also has four returning lettermen.

JV's Win Three Of First 5 Games

Coach Pat Rafter's junior varsity basketball quintet came out of their first five games above the .500 mark with three wins and two losses.

The Junior Jays lost the opener to Dickinson on the home court and then won three straight before losing to Lebanon Valley last Saturday evening. Millersville, Hershey Junior College and Lincoln are the trio that fell to the Jays.

Prior to the varsity's initial win on the Valley boards, the Junior Jays lost an 87-75 affair to the young Dutchmen. The E-towners were in front 47-44 at the midway point, but a big third quarter enabled the winners to salt it away. Jack Hedrick scored 14 and Ed Geiger 13 for the losing locals.

Kent Replogle's 20 counters led the Jay upstarts to a 78-42 shellacking over Lincoln in the Alumni Gym 48 hours earlier. The visitors scored only 19 to the Blue Jays' 37 in the second half.

Before that they trimmed Hershey Junior College 60-55 on the latter's court. Bob Miller, Replogle, Hedrick and Sheldon Dent all scored frequently, racking up 16, 12, 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The JV's copped their first win of the season on the Donegal floor when they outscored Millersville 65-61. Geiger's 20 points coupled with Shelly Dent's 18 points and 19 rebounds spelled the difference in the victory. The locals were trailing 32-27 at intermission.

Geiger poured in 28 counters and Hedrick added 19 against Dickinson, but the Red Devils' first stringers all hit double figures to win 74-68 in the initial JV outing of the season. The high-scoring Harrisburger got 18 of his points in a row in the last half to pull the Raftermen to within four points of the winners, but that was as close as they came.

TIME OUT

with Carl Denlinger

Because of the fact that the ECAC league finally materialized in time for this basketball season, I am planning to substitute it in place of my "Little Ten" set-up. They are much the same as far as most of our opponents are concerned. I decided to make this change because of the statement that the winner of this league would appear in the NCAA post-season play-offs for small colleges.

There are the Northern and Southern divisions, and E-town is currently leading the Northern race with a 5-0 record. In the Southern bracket, F. and M. is showing its strength by taking a commanding lead over the other teams as they have a current 8-0 record. ECAC judges will pick the one of the two top teams which they think is the better to enter the tournament.

Standings in the Northern Division to date are:

	W.	L.
E-town	5	0
Susquehanna	4	0
Hofstra	2	0
Lycoming	3	1
Albright	1	1
G-burg	3	3
Wilkes	2	2
Juniata	2	2
LVC	3	3
Moravian	1	2
Stevens	0	0
Dickinson	0	7

That sure was a sweet victory on LVC's floor last Saturday. Possession ball played brilliantly could be called the straw that broke the Dutchmen's backs. After all, how can you score when you don't have the ball? I also wonder why they persisted on using a zone defense, especially a 1-2-2 while we froze the ball?

Be sure to see the game next Tuesday night at Donegal against the University of Scranton. It is time to break the Donegal jinx and win. The man to watch for the visitors will be Ed Karakovich who throws them in with either hand from any spot on the floor.

Bob Goudie Playing Third Year With Blue Jay Basketball Five

by Ken Bowers

Another member of the senior class who has displayed his talents on the basketball court and athletic field is the president of that class, Bob Goudie.

The 6' 1", 180-pound business administration student has accomplished quite a bit around here in the last three and one-half years, athletically and academically.

In basketball, he has played on Coach Don Smith's varsity team the last three seasons after pacifying the junior varsity team in scoring his freshman year. The following year as a sophomore, he played in 20 games, racked up 54 field goals and 78 fouls for a total of 186 points, and averaged 9.3 points per game. His best performance was a 23-point effort against P.M.C.

Not confined to one sport, Bob has played on Coach Herr's baseball nine and has lettered in it every year he's been here. He plays first base.

The class president who is also a member of the Varsity 'E' Club, is a native of Downingtown, Pa. At Downingtown High School, he played three years of varsity basketball, was his team's high scorer in his junior and senior years, and was named on the All-Ches-Mont League team his final year after gaining honorable mention recognition on the same team the previous year.

Besides that he won three varsity letters in baseball in high school and played for the Downingtown-Coatesville Legion team.

Bob is one of two married Blue Jay players and lives in Elizabethtown as his wife, Jo, is employed by the college. Majoring in business, he will be certified to teach secondary education, also, and hopes to coach his favorite sport, basketball.

When he picks up the sheepskin, E-town will miss him—not only as an athlete, but as a good student and friend.

Jays Play L.V.C. at Hershey, Feb. 8; St. Joe, Juniata Games Also Loom Big

Following the tests and semester break, the basketballers of Coach Smith will see action on five different courts in the first five contests of the second half of the season.

The local cagers will play at Oxford, at home, at Philadelphia, at home, and at Donegal H. S. in frays with Lincoln, Scranton, St. Joseph, Lebanon Valley and Juniata, in that order.

On Saturday evening they will be on the road to play Lincoln for the second time in the current campaign. Earlier the Jays swamped them 103-50 on the local floor.

On the following Tuesday, the Smithmen will play host to the University of Scranton, a new and somewhat strange team on the schedule. From all reports, the northerners are relatively strong; however, Lebanon Valley trimmed them in their home opener at Annville.

Three nights later the Blue Jays will be in the City of Brothersly Love for a tilt with St. Joseph. The Hawks are very strong, if not the strongest on our slate. With such stars as all-American candidate Kurt Engleburt, Al Julian and Jim Dougherty, the Philadelphians will be tough—especially on their own floor. Last year the Jays absorbed their worst beating from the Hawks, 98-65.

The Hershey twin bill on February 5 will pit the local cagers against a recent victim, Lebanon Valley, after Gettysburg and Lehigh clash in the opener. The Blue Jays won by 7 recently at Annville with the hope of gaining a two-game sweep over the Flying Dutchmen for the season. Last year in the same game, the Blue and Gray won decisively, 74-56. Big guns for the Dutchmen at the Arena will probably be Bob Nelson and Dick Shover, who were held to 21 points between them in their first outing against the Jays. Other probable starters are Don Reinhard, Don Grider and Denny Dinerman.

Following the tilt at the Chocolate town, Coach Smith's dribblers will run the boards at Donegal High School for the second time this year. This time Juniata will be on hand. The Indians have their share of stars including Chet White, Barney McGlaughlin, Bill Burchfield and Mike Armstrong. White and McGlaughlin are both averaging better than 18 points per game with White hitting for 33 against a common opponent, Susquehanna. The Jays won the home tilt with the Indians a year ago, 84-69.

Three of these opponents are in the Northern division of the MABA along with the Blue Jays. As of January 14, Juniata and Lebanon Valley were playing .500 ball with 2-2 and 3-3 records respectively.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

Speaking of good basketball games the thriller at Lebanon Valley recently left nothing to be desired. After confidently journeying to Annville year after year only to come back disappointed and full of ill feeling toward the officials, the courtmen of Coach Smith finally broke the ice.

The stunning struggle had a little bit of everything including a small second-half flare-up which proved nothing more than the fact that the stakes were high and the pressure was on.

The tilt at Hershey should be another hotly contested affair, so don't take that one lightly. Incidentally, the Dutchmen dumped Millersville, and we haven't proved their equal on that count as yet.

Individually, Jim Chase has been the most pleasant surprise of the campaign thus far. The solidly-built junior from Chambersburg has shown his worth in rebounding as well as in point getting. He was averaging 14.3 p.p.g. as of the Valley game including a 25-point spree at Lycoming.

Sheldon Dent has discarded his crutches but is still hobbling around on his unmended ankle. The red-headed sophomore tore a ligament in a practice session about two weeks ago. According to late sources, he hopes to be in uniform when his mates play at Lincoln Saturday.

It's too bad the grapplers' win over Temple couldn't have come before a home gathering. The Byerlymen really must have been up for that one. Captain John Hollinger was as pleased as anyone and claims that the Blue Jays usually wrestle better away from home.

The highlight of the whole works was Jay Greider's 26-second pin in the 130-pound class. Whether it set any Temple record or not, we're not sure, but it certainly was the best effort ever that a Jay matman put forth.

Noise in Library Studied by Senate

Excessive noise in the library was the subject of an investigation by a Student Senate committee recently.

The survey conducted by the committee in cooperation with Mrs. Alice Heilman, librarian, revealed that most noise problems are centered in disturbances caused by group studying and classes changing.

Other noise sources include students who loiter in the library entrance, and those who come to the library with idle time on their hands.

Mrs. Heilman related that her prime concern is the provision of a proper study environment, not the enforcement of disciplinary measures.

However, the Senate committee warned that unless conditions improve, noise rule violators will be referred to either the committee on men's or women's affairs.

Smithmen Trip LVC at Annville; Lose Wild Scrap at Susquehanna

Susquehanna University prevented the Blue Jay cagers from gaining undisputed possession of first place in the Northern Division of the MABA when they foul-shot their way to a 79-72 win at Selinsgrove on Thursday night.

The Smithmen had been 5 and 0 in the league after trimming Lebanon Valley, Lincoln and Lycoming the week before.

Kitty Swigart

Miss Swigart Paces Jaygals at Forward

by Don Price

Since Kitty Swigart enrolled at Elizabethtown College the women's basketball team has never been in need of a high scoring forward. The diminutive Bluebird has, for the last two years, been the nucleus of the scoring punch and from all indications, will be the same this year.

Unfortunately for Coach Julia Risser, she will finish her studies here in three years and will not be on campus in 1958. The blonde, five foot forward led the Jaygals a year ago with an average of 18.8 points per game and some all-around fine ball handling.

Including four years in high school, Kitty has been playing for seven years, and, if she has her way, it will not stop there. She would like to teach elementary education in her home town, McVeytown, Pa., and, in her spare time, perhaps coach and play in a local girls' league. If these plans do not develop, her next stop will be California, where she once lived.

AS ELECTIONS NEAR

Open Letter to Campus Voters

Dear Voter:

The election campaign that began here on campus earlier this month comes to its ultimate climax Wednesday as you and other members of the student body go to the polls to choose the president of the Student Association and Senate for next year.

Wednesday's election is but the first of a full round of voting that will select officers and members of the Student Senate, the representatives of the Committee of Men's and Women's Affairs, editors of the ETOWNIAN and CONESTOGAN, and class officers.

At the risk of being called repetitious, the ETOWNIAN urges you to cast an intelligent ballot in the interest of good student government. After all, the people who win these elections will be your representatives. They will air your gripes, promote your ideas, and take actions that will affect your life here on campus.

If student government is to function smoothly and progressively, the best qualified people must be placed in office. Otherwise your government can stagnate.

It is not the ETOWNIAN's intention to suggest any individual candidates for any of the offices to be filled. However, the paper submits the following questions you can ask yourself and your friends about the people who are seeking your vote:

1. Why is the candidate seeking office?
2. How will he act if he wins the office he seeks?
3. Will he exercise sound judgment in representing your interests?
4. What IS his platform?
5. Do you think he's familiar with the issues and can deal with them realistically and practically?
6. In dealing with the administration will he stagnate the student government by being either a retiring, unassuming rubber stamp or one who tries to "bully" his way?
7. Is he capable of cooperation with other members of the student government?
8. Is he sound academically?
9. Do you think he's the best available man for the job?

The members of the Senate election committee are well aware of the fact that members of the freshman class and commuting students are, for the most part, not too familiar with the candidates. To correct this they have set up a centralized bulletin board containing information and pictures of all candidates in addition to making time available for candidates to address the student body.

Take time to check on the candidates and the issues.

Then vote as you see fit.

Audrey Sprenkle Elected Campus Queen of May

Audrey Sprenkle, who has been named to three May courts during her college life here, was elected Queen of May in an all-campus election held recently.

Pauline Wolfe was named maid-of-honor, and Wanda Sprow and Barbara Theel were chosen to be the senior attendants.

Miss Sprenkle, an elementary education major from North East, Md., is presently the treasurer of the Student Senate and an assistant to the head of the new women's dormitory. During her junior year she served on the committee of women's affairs and was chairman of the RUDDER committee.

A member of the women's basketball team, she belongs to the Varsity "E" Club.

Miss Wolfe, from Myerstown, is also an elementary education major. She is serving as secretary for both the Student Senate and the Senior Class in addition to working on the college yearbook, CONESTOGAN.

Miss Theel is a business education major from Glassboro, N. J., and Miss Sprow, who is editor of the CONESTOGAN, is a secondary education major from Penbrook.

Underclassmen Vote

The junior class elected Esther Hershman and Rachel Keller as their representatives on the court. Miss Reese, Wilmington, Del., is an elementary education major, and Miss Santee, Northampton, is following the medical secretarial course.

Hollinger and Reiber in Race for Presidency; Election Wed.; Big Vote Turnout Expected

by Carl Denlinger

TWO BOARDING STUDENT MEN, John Hollinger from Manheim, Pa., and Curtis Reiber from Woodstown, N. J., were the two juniors who filled out petitions and presented their qualifications and platforms as candidates for president of the Student Association by noon Feb. 8.

John Hollinger

Curtis Reiber

For John Hollinger, it is his first venture into campus politics on the top level. John was an honor graduate from Manheim High School in 1954 and is now enrolled in the Liberal Arts course here at Elizabethtown. He is majoring in history and has continued as a superior student by making the dean's list each semester since entering college.

John is presently serving as president of the Class of '58 and vice-president of the Future Teachers of America. His interests also spread into sports where he ranks as one of the veterans of the wrestling team. He also takes an active part in intramurals. He is a member of the Student Christian Association.

Some of his background of campus work includes one year as the Etownian circulation manager. In his freshman year he won the mathematics award given to the student with the highest average for that year.

Ambition-wise, this five-foot, eight-inch junior with the blonde-haired crew cut, hopes to teach history on the secondary school level and coach wrestling after leaving Elizabethtown college.

Stresses Cooperation

Kent Reagle is serving as John's campaign manager and is displaying a platform which has "Accomplishment Through Cooperation" as its slogan. John had this to say about his attempt to gain the highest office on campus, "I want only to serve the student body in the best way possible and to provide a smooth-working Senate, which, by working with administration, can provide those things which are needed to keep Elizabethtown growing upward."

Curtis Reiber, from Woodstown High School in New Jersey, is a veteran of campus politics. Curt is presently serving as vice-president of the Student Senate and is chairman of the social committee. He is active in the planning of campus social activities in general and has a special interest in the Hershey dance society.

Active Politically

This six-foot, two-inch junior is working towards a B.S. in Business Administration. He spends much of his extra time by taking an active interest in the Political Science club, where he is the current ICG chairman for Elizabethtown college.

Sports have also entered into Curt's life in the form of one year on the college junior varsity basketball team and plenty of action in the intra-mural program. He is also a member of the Student Christian Association and is presently serving on the junior class banquet committee.

James Pannebaker is working as Curt's campaign manager. Curt issued the following statement in connection with his campaign, "I am interested in activating my platform which I consider to contain the inclusive needs of a growing student body."

Growing With Our College

The great common denominator that welds all the students of this college together is the pride we share in the school's past accomplishments and future promise.

All of us cannot truthfully say that we are in complete accord with all of the administration's policies. There are few of us who will not admit to having aired a few pet gripes about some aspects of life here on campus. For example, the ban on campus dances, the "regimentation" in the new dorm, and the mandatory chapel services have come in for more than their share of verbal abuse.

However, over and above these things there exists a common feeling of school spirit that reaches out to touch everyone connected with Elizabethtown College.

We feel satisfaction when one of our athletic teams wins, regardless of whether we saw the game first-hand or read about it in a newspaper. All of us feel good when we hear of the success of an Elizabethtown graduate somewhere. And there's no one here who isn't touched with pride when looking over the imposing new women's dormitory that now dominates the western end of the campus.

The new dorm, with its modern, comfortable living quarters, is all any college student could reasonably ask for. It has all the facilities needed to make life on campus extremely pleasant and livable.

As yet unnamed, the new women's residence is a steel and brick reality that richly exemplifies the growth and progress of our college.

All of us, whether we live in it or simply eat in it, can be justly proud of it.

Nor does our pride have to stop there.

We can point out that an addition to the Science Building is coming soon, and after that a new men's dormitory will materialize in the general area where South Hall now stands.

Our college is growing. We can be glad and proud to be a part of that growth.

From the Horse's Mouth

The following item appeared in a recent issue of TIME magazine. We offer it as a brief, but significant and amusing explanation of what Communism really is and how it functions.

"Just a year ago, in a speech to the 20th Communist congress in Moscow, First Party Secretary Nikita Kruschev had this to say about a man he had spent most of his life servilely trying to please:

"Stalin practiced brutal violence towards everything that opposed him . . . was capricious and despotic in character . . . (ordered) mass arrests and deportations of many thousands of people, execution without trial and without normal investigation . . . sanctioned torture and oppression which led to the slandering and self-accusation of innocent people. Whoever opposed Stalin was doomed to . . . moral and physical annihilation."

"Last week, between swigs of a potent Chinese drink called mou-tai at a Moscow party for Red China's Chou En-lai, Kruschev summed it all up: 'As a Communist fighting for the interests of the working class, Stalin was a model Communist'"

Thoughts On Brotherhood

by P. L. Pratis
Executive Editor, Pittsburgh Courier

(This is published in the interest of Brotherhood Week, February 17-24, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.)

The concept of God the Father makes all men brothers. If you accept that concept and reject any man, of whatever race or color, you betray the concept and belief.

Brotherhood is a bond with God. It is a bond of concern, of love and respect, and of righteousness. It is the bond of togetherness.

When we speak of Americanism and democracy, we are thinking of brotherhood. We are trying to conceive of a political community, a nation or a state, in which all men are brothers.

We ought to seek brotherhood because we want the "peace that passeth all understanding."

Understanding is of the mind, but brotherhood is of the heart. The heart prevails where the mind fails.

From the brain come atom bombs and other weapons of destruction. From the heart come love and the feeling of brotherhood.

Peace is a simple goal because it is but the reverse side of the symbol of brotherhood. If there is peace, there must be brotherhood. If there is brotherhood there must be peace.

The way to brotherhood is as clear as belief in God. If such belief were held firmly by all men, the bond of brotherhood throughout the world would be established and peace would come like the bright sun that follows a summer shower.

WHEN, WHAT, WHO, HOW

Eisenhower's Doctrine: Good or Bad?

The proposed Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine is making big news in virtually every corner of the globe. To counteract it, the Communists have proposed a "hands off" approach to the Middle East.

Briefly, President Eisenhower is asking Congress for authority to grant military and/or economic aid to any Middle Eastern country which, in fear of Communist aggression asks the United States for assistance.

Within our own country the majority of opinions appear to favor the plan because it would provide us with a clear and decisive policy for that troubled area of the world. There are those who have expressed their fears that such a plan could easily involve this country in more "police actions" such as Korea.

The ETOWNIAN polled a group of students for their views. This is what they said:

Ruth Varner, sophomore—The Middle East is the 'hot spot' of the world. I believe the President's policy for those countries is a wise one. It shows that the United States is interested in the welfare of the Middle East. The threat of Communism should be extinguished. This policy of President Eisenhower is a big step in that direction. As long as the United States can give advice and aid to these small countries, the survival of Communism will be limited."

James Sarbaugh, junior—"I think that the Eisenhower Doctrine is good because it does help us keep a check on Communist aggression in the Middle East. In giving aid to foreign countries, however, we should be as cautious as possible because we don't want anything on our hands like the Korean issue. If we must give military aid, let's restrict it to supplies, not manpower."

Dorothy Hyde, freshman—"The generalities of the doctrine are sound, but I would say that when it comes to giving any of these countries aid it would run into a huge sum of money, way over our proposed foreign aid budget. Providing that the aid is sent discriminantly and to only those countries which promise to use it as the United States directs, the doctrine will correctly serve its purpose. We must guard against having more nations depend on us by planning on continued aid and political support in the future such as Yugoslavia and many of the South American countries do today."

Larry H. Reber, sophomore—"We should be very cautious in giving arms to any Middle East country. I don't want to see us involved in another military crisis such as the one in Korea. Let's be reluctant in this business of involvement. Let's, if we must give aid, limit it to military supplies and not include our own troops. We should not have a 'go it alone' policy and should coordinate our views with those of the other Western powers."

Theodore Yohe, senior—"I think the Eisenhower Doctrine is good because it supplies the means for checking Communist aggression in the Middle East. However, since overt Communist aggression does not seem to be as great a threat as subversive infiltration, there should be something added to it to check this type of activity also."

Gerald Dost, sophomore—"I believe it's okay if we limit the giving of aid only to cases of open military action on the part of the Communist. And if we've called upon to aid anyone, let's restrict it to military supplies only, not manpower. If we have to furnish economic aid, let's give them our surplus machinery and food rather than capital alone."

President's ColumnFuture Teachers Head Dean's List

by Jonathan Smith

Eleven seniors who made the dean's list at the end of the first semester are prospective teachers.

They are: Gloria Keller, J. Lorraine Price, Harry Graham, Wanda Sprow, Kathryn Swigart, Ruth Ann L. Ebersole, J. Lloyd Swope, J. Barbara Theel, Verna L. Weaver, Clara Lou Hildebrand and Marie Hoover.

Other seniors making the honor list are: Glen Furman and Theodore Yohe, both pre-ministerial students; Nancy Swanson a chemistry major; Emma Hackman a liberal arts student and John D. Witmer, Jr. a business administration major.

Six juniors also made the list. They are: Faye Glover, Audrey Kilhefner, Ray Royer, Esther Hershman, John Hollinger and John Ranck.

The sophomores have the second largest number with ten: Helen Marguerite Dum, Millie Clay, Jane Moseman, Catherine Weaver, Donald Monn, Yvonne Mowery, Ruth Varner, Larry Reber, Clair Shaffer and Emma L. Hoffman.

The freshmen were last with four: William Adams, Richard Falstick, Barbara Ulmer and Robert Yohn.

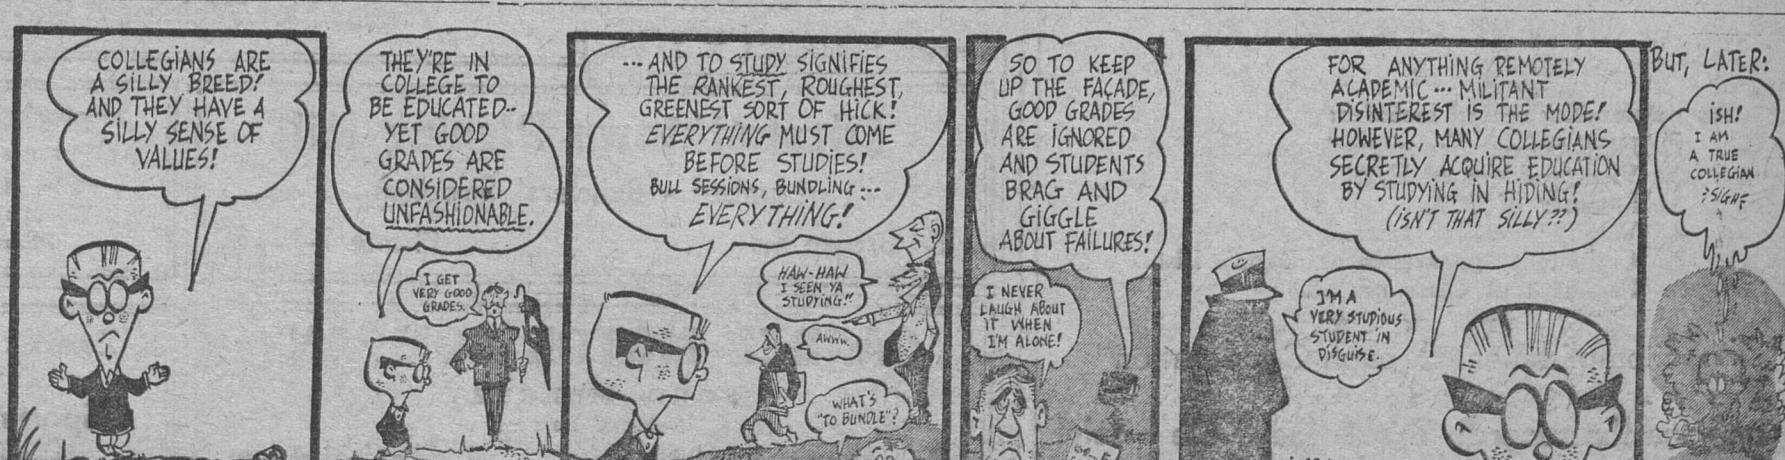

Moving into the new women's dormitory and inaugurating a new food service at the middle of the college year and doing all of this with so little disturbance of our daily routine has been a worthy achievement.

The one hundred thirty women moved from four different dormitories on the campus and from a number of private homes in town so expeditiously, that it was scarcely observable that they were changing their place of residence.

The new facilities provide for both cafeteria and regular sitting meal service and have presented a normal amount of problems of adjustment.

There will of necessity be some time needed before all the problems pertaining to the new facilities including both the dormitory and the food service will be solved. The Food Service Committee is sparing no efforts to discover the best methods for serving approximately 1000 meals each day.

I bespeak the sincere and patient collaboration of both students and staff.

ARNOLDCampus Chest Drive Student to College To Bring Hungarian

Taking hold of a problem created by the Communists' suppression of the Hungarians, the Student Christian Association, in cooperation with the Student Senate, is planning to bring a Hungarian student to Elizabethtown College through funds raised in the annual Campus Chest drive.

While concrete details remained to be worked out, the committee in charge of the project has announced that in all probability the student will be a junior who has had a taste of college life. He is scheduled to enroll in the fall.

Housing for the student will be provided by Prof. Robert A. Byrley, director of religious activities. The college has waived tuition.

All money raised by the chest drive will be used to defray board and incidental expenses for the student.

A Formal Statement

Prof. Byrley stated that the project is primarily one for the students, who are asked to support the Campus Chest activities to as great a degree as possible. He also asked the support of the faculty.

The committee in charge of the project is composed of the following: Gloria Keller, Robert Knappenberger, Esther Frantz, David Borse, Kenneth Martin and Marlin Reed.

The committee emphasized that this is a project worthy of sacrifice in the spirit of brotherhood. The results will be evident for all to see here on campus, they said in a formal statement.

Chapel Speakers Named

On February 22, Martina Martin, a member of the college faculty will speak, and then, on March 1, there will be all musical presentation by the college choir.

March 8 will bring to the college Dr. J. A. Robinson pastor of the Ephrata Church of the Brethren.

On March 15 Dr. R. W. Schlosser of the college faculty will be the speaker.

Mrs. Grace Allan 'Returns Home' As Head of New Women's Dormitory

by Bette Jane Holman

Returning to the Elizabethtown College campus to become head of the new residence hall for women was a homecoming for Mrs. Grace Allan. Always interested in young people, she had been head of Alpha Hall during the school terms of 1953-54 and 1954-55.

During her year and a half absence, Mrs. Allan spent a summer in Europe, visiting many countries on a planned tour. Sailing on the Queen Elizabeth, she visited England, the Netherlands, Belgium, Western Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France, Monte Carlo and a few other countries.

The making of perfume and leather in France and Italy respectively were two of the many sights enjoyed by Mrs. Allan. She brought back several wood and glass figurines made in Germany and other countries. The return trip was made on the Queen Mary.

Mrs. Allan spends the summer months at her vacation home on Crystal Lake, near Carbondale, Pa. Her home is in Jermyn, above Scranton, and previous to her position at the college she was a housewife there. She was also active in the women's work of the Episcopal Church.

After graduation from Bloomsburg State Teachers' College, Mrs. Allan taught in the elementary grades for nine years prior to her marriage.

She has two daughters and five grandchildren, living in Scranton and New Holland. She first came here as Alpha Hall's residence head because it is close to New Holland.

Collecting old glass and arranging flowers are hobbies which Mrs. Allan enjoys during her leisure hours.

After three weeks of residence, the large dormitory is becoming home to the 130 students and to their head of residence, Mrs. Allan.

Women's Dorm Elects Corridor Presidents

Upon becoming settled in their new surroundings, the 130 women students in the women's dormitory have elected four corridor presidents under the supervision of the Committee on Women's affairs.

The committee grouped the 130 residents in four sections of thirty to thirty-five each. This was done in order to provide better organization, cooperation, and activities.

The four chosen as corridor presidents are: second floor east, Lois Hershberger; second floor west, Hazel Yoder; third floor east, Jane MacNeal; third floor west, Deloris Bolze.

Deloris Bolze was selected all over chairman.

Each group of residents with its president will plan its own activities in addition to coordinated house activities.

Enrollment at 527 For This Semester

Enrollment for the second semester of the current school year has dropped to 527 full-time students, according to Miss Emma Engle, registrar.

The decrease came despite the fact that 18 new students entered college last month.

Miss Engle reported that some students left school upon completion of their work while others dropped out because of academic deficiencies or other reasons.

Appoint New Proctors In Men's Residences

Three new protectors and four assistants have been appointed to be in charge of the boys in their new campus quarters, according to an announcement by D. Paul Greene, Dean of men.

The new protectors and their assistants are as follows: West Hall, Maynard Gunstra, assisted by Harold Pomroy; Fairview, Eldon Morehouse, assisted by Carl Spease and Ed Muller; Rider Memorial, Bob Blessing, assisted by Ralph Baker; North Hall, Robert Knappenberger; Center Hall, Gene Bucher; South Hall, Carl Denlinger.

News and Nonsense

from

Other Campuses

Coeds are noted for the goofy things they do and the unique scrapes in which they sometimes find themselves. For example, here's a story about a female member of the student body at the University of Texas.

It seems this little girl has scared away most of her dates because of a simple little mistake she made while undergoing the rigors of registration.

She wasn't sure of her new phone number and rather than hold up the line of students, she listed it on all her cards as she remembered it.

And so, in the course of human events the male members of the student body started dialing that number. However, they hung up quickly when a gruff voice on the other end informed them that they were talking to the Austin chief of police.

His number was mistakenly listed by the coed. *

From the Capital University Chimes, Columbus, Ohio, we picked up this set of definitions:

A—a rare feat.

B—grade given student doing 'A' work.

C—grade given when professor loses grade book.

Coed—candidate for Mrs. degree.

Frosh—a fellow who buys his books before the first exam.

Cramming—intellectual overeating after a long period of starvation.

God made the world, then rested.

God made man, then rested.

God made women, then no one rested.

The University of Minnesota Statesman presented us with this little gem:

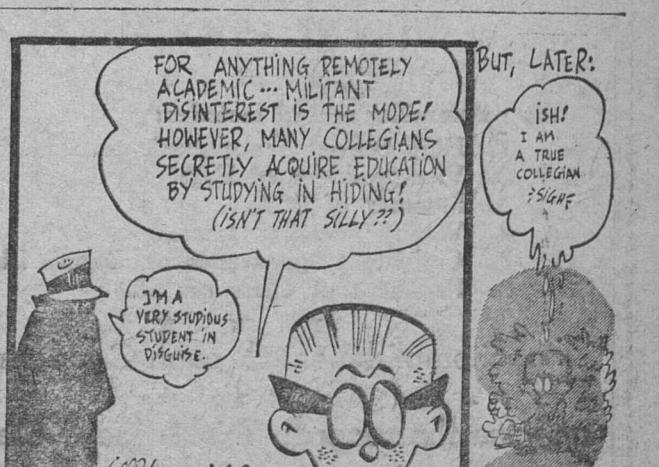

Adam was the first electronic engineer, mainly because he furnished spare parts for the world's first loud speaker.

And then there's this little piece of down-to-earth reasoning from the University of Oregon's Daily Emerald:

"What able-bodied, red-blooded, reasonably nice-looking fellow will yell his lungs out (at a sports event) when he's sitting right next to an equally able-bodied, equally red-blooded and equally nice-looking young lady? He won't be yelling. He'll probably be making time: probably setting up a coffee date for right after the game. And what fellow is going to yell when to do so would brand him as a gung-ho lunkhead in the eyes of the petite little coed sitting next to him? Conversely, what petite little coed is going to yell when to do so would destroy the fellow's impression of her as a tender, soft-spoken, dainty little miss?"

College Choir Prepares For New Concert Tour

Concerts will be given at churches of the Brethren in York and Codorus on March 3, followed by one at Lebanon on Sunday evening, March 10. On Sunday afternoon and evening, March 17, the choir will present concerts at the Paradise Union Lutheran and Reformed Church and at the first Church of the Brethren in York.

Fabulous Flickers Moves Into Final Preparation Stages

The junior class variety show, "Fabulous Flickers," forges into the final five weeks of preparation prior to presentation in the college gymnasium - auditorium, March 22 and 23.

The talent show musically ranges from calypso to dixieland. A square dance, a selection by a male chorus, tap and interpretive dances, are other specialties lined up by the planning committee.

The talents of the college choir, under the direction of Prof. Nevin Fisher, and the college orchestra, conducted by Mr. Noah Klauss, will be joined in several production numbers.

A satirical skit on college classroom characters has been created by George Gerlach. Another act depicting the light side of college life is being prepared by Jack Way.

Master of ceremonies Gerry Wolff and announcers will handle the between-acts comedy and provide continuity for the show.

Modern stage settings are presently being readied by Kay Barron, stage manager, and George Gerlach, set designer, in conjunction with Mrs. Clarence Enterline, faculty adviser in charge of staging and production.

John Hollinger, head of the ticket committee, has formed subcommittees of class members to assist in the sale of tickets.

In addition to advertising in the newspaper, the publicity committee has arranged for time on nearby radio and television stations to disseminate news of the show.

Second Restaurant School Opens Wed.

by Daniel Peterman

The Elizabethtown College School of Modern Restaurant Management will open here Wednesday, February 20 and continue with weekly sessions until May 15, according to K. Ezra Bucher, school director.

The school is sponsored by the Restaurant Association of Central Pennsylvania in cooperation with the college, with instructors coming from Pennsylvania, New York and the District of Columbia.

Arnold A. Brown, who spoke here at schools of this type in the past, will deliver the opening and closing addresses, entitled "Today's Restaurant Business," and "The Key to the Future."

Other classes will feature panel discussions, a symposium of three speakers and a moderator, and distinguished restaurant chefs, owners and managers.

Forty-five restaurant business men will attend the classes which will concern such varied topics as: Purchasing and Processing for Profit; Restaurant Personnel; Kitchen Service and Efficiency, and Attracting Customers.

Keller's Text Used In Business Course

It pays to be careful about poking fun at some one; he may get the last laugh. Somebody asked I. Wayne Keller, "Why don't you write a book about it?" He did! And now Elizabethtown College students have a new text.

Dr. Keller will meet with the cost accounting class at 8:35 a. m. Thursday.

Keller hopes the book "Management Accounting for Profit Control," will result in a new emphasis on management accounting for profit control in colleges training accountants. He believes that the book can have an important effect upon the teaching of accounting and also upon general business thinking.

He graduated from Elizabethtown College in 1930 and has been granted an honorary degree of Doctor of Commercial Science. Keller is controller of Armstrong Cork Company.

Its performance was worthy of its high reputation, revealing the greatest expertness of ensemble work, as well as the conductor's wisdom and resource in the building of the program. Variety was the watchword, but with no loss of dignity."

Dr. Williamson has received numerous honorary degrees. To hundreds of thousands of concert-goers, he is known for the warmth, enthusiasm and personal vigor which he projects across the footlights into the very hearts of his audience. His informal, spoken program notes are a trademark; they are both informative and endearing. He is a showman par excellence but never an exhibitionist.

Record Enrollment Near; Applications Up by 230 Percent

Showing no signs of abating, the rash of enrollment applications has already reached record proportions here, according to Eby Espenshade, dean of admissions.

Already 55 percent of next fall's freshman class has been accepted, and the application forms are pouring in daily. Latest figures indicate that the number of prospective enrollees has topped the number received last year at this time by 230 percent.

Mr. Espenshade reported that the freshman class next year will number about 200 with an additional 25 transfer students. The total enrollment is almost certain to top 600 for the first time in the school's history.

Dr. A. C. Baugher, president, has indicated on several occasions that the enrollment by 1960 will reach 750, the school's planned maximum.

Upon reviewing his list of applicants, Mr. Espenshade reported that more than 40 percent of those seeking admission are planning to follow a business administration course. Elementary education and liberal arts are next in popularity, each claiming 20 percent of the applicants.

"I've noticed so far that the number of engineering students is off somewhat while those interested in liberal arts, particularly the men, have increased substantially," Mr. Espenshade related.

Requirements Raised

He went on to say that the standards for admission have been raised. Only those students in the top 40 percent of their graduating class are being considered for admission without an examination.

Applications so far have been received from students in the District of Columbia and six states: Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, New York, Maryland and Florida. In addition, there are prospective enrollees from China, Korea and Germany.

"Like any other college," Mr. Espenshade said, "We've been confronted with the problem of multiple applications, that is students who apply to more than one school."

To solve this dilemma, the admissions office will probably over-subscribe the freshman class by about 50 percent in order to take care of those students who decide to attend other schools after being admitted here.

Camp Counseling Course Initiated

Seventeen students will be enrolled this semester in a course in camp counseling, the first of its kind. Miss Julia Riser who is teaching it, states that the instruction will cover three areas: camp activities and program; duties and responsibilities of counselor, and background practice in camping skills.

There is no requirement for previous camping experience, but there is a need for interest in all phases of organized group camping.

PRACTICING BROTHERHOOD

Two Former Students Enter Brethren Service Work in Germany and Austria

Combining long-working hours and adverse living conditions with a desire to promote peace and brotherhood in the world, two former Elizabethtown College students are now spending their time in alternative service in Germany and Austria.

Paul Grubb, an Elizabethtown resident and 1955 graduate of this college, and Donald Willoughby, Harrisburg, a former pre-ministerial student, are working with the Brethren Service Commission in these European countries, along with other American volunteers as well as young people from many other nations.

Paul entered the alternative service program in June 1956, and after a two-month training program in New Windsor, Maryland, was assigned to Europe. Part of the orientation program which he underwent in Germany was his adoption into a German family, with whom he lived for two months. During this time he attended language and culture study classes at Kassel House, the Brethren Service Commission headquarters in Europe.

Dawn to Dark

In late November, Paul was assigned to the Hess Seicheinhause, a home for people with incurable ailments, located about ten miles from Kassel House. Here he works as an orderly and devotes about 80 hours a week to his job. He lives in a room heated with only a small stove and is at work from before dawn to after dark each day.

In March, Paul will go to a young people's conference in Switzerland for one week. After returning, he will again work at the home for the remainder of his two years of service.

Willoughby in Germany

Don Willoughby entered the Volunteer Service program of the Brethren Church in March of 1956 with the approval of the Selective Service and immediately began his training program at New Windsor.

He qualified for work with the European program in June of the same year and arrived at Kassel House, where he then participated in the two-month orientation program of language and culture study as well as the experience of living in a German family.

That summer he spent in an international work camp after which he was assigned to the Austrian program. His assignment was to work on the "Karlschule" project, which is the rebuilding of a burned-out Lutheran school in Vienna. The work on this building, which was ruined by retreating Germans in World War II, has been conducted in a joint program of alternative service volunteers from the Brethren Service Commission and the Mennonite Church, with material given by the Evangelical Church of Austria.

Helped Hungarians

Soon after the flood of Hungarian refugees, Don spent several days with the World Council of Churches organization in Eisen-stadt, close to the Hungarian border, where he helped in material aid distribution.

Don was recently selected to be among five Brethren Service volunteers who would visit churches of the Society of Friends in England, after which he will return to his work in Vienna for the remainder of his service.

Faculty Women to Meet

The new women's dormitory will be the meeting place for the Faculty Women's Club tomorrow evening. Previous meetings have been held in the Church of the Brethren parlor.

Drama, presented by Mrs. Clarence Enterline, will be the theme of the program. Mrs. Frederick Neumann is in charge of the program. Mrs. Eby Espenshade has charge of refreshments.

The club, which meets every other month, has had travel and music as its program themes in the two meetings it has had thus far this school year. Faculty women and wives of faculty men are invited to join.

The new women's residence hall will be dedicated at 3 p.m., May 11, at the Church of the Brethren. Details are being worked out by a committee composed of President A. C. Baugher, K. Ezra Bucher, S. Clyde Weaver of East Petersburgh, J. L. Miller of York and Eli Stoltzfus of Phoenixville.

LOW MAN OUTPreferential Voting System Offers Majority Rule, Voice for Minority

(Editor's Note—In all student elections involving the selection of two or more candidates here on campus, the preferential voting system is used. The following is a brief explanation of the system's advantages and operation.)

The preferential system of proportional representation is designed to assure effective voting, minority representation, and majority rule. It eliminates the necessity of run-off elections and actually, through the preferential ballot, becomes a set of instructions from the voter to the tally clerk.

CLUB BEATEta Gamma Kappa

Rev. Philip E. Saylor, pastor of the Elizabethtown Evangelical and Reformed Church, will speak to the club on Wednesday. The subject of his talk will be "The Minister and His Ethics." All new members of the club will be installed at this meeting.

FTA

The FTA Club has planned several special events for the spring semester. They include: An educational trip to the Harrisburg State Hospital; a dessert meeting to be held before Easter; a skit entitled "The NEA in Review," and a textbook review and evaluation. The annual election will be held in April.

SCA

The Lutheran campus pastor of Penn State University, Rev. Arthur Ruths, will speak at the February 27 meeting of the SCA. His topic will be "Christian Vocations," and a discussion period will be held after the meeting for all those interested in learning more about how to serve in such work.

Varsity E

President Robert E. Wert reports that approximately 25 members recently purchased the new gray "Varsity E Club" jackets. These members paid for their own jackets, but it is planned that the cost next year will be completely covered by the club treasury.

Political Science

In preparation for the regional meeting to be held at Hershey Junior College on March 9 and the state convention in Harrisburg on April 11, 12 and 13, the ICG committee of the Political Science Club has been working on model bills to be considered. These pertain to such government departments as judiciary, education, health and welfare, taxation and finance, and labor and industry.

Sock and Buskin

Just a look at the titles of the six one-act plays to be presented on the evenings of April 5 and 6 should make everyone want to attend. Such comedies as "The Boor" and "A Man and His Wife," and such serious drama as "John H. Doe" will be presented under Sock and Buskin sponsorship, with directorship by the Dramatics Production class and Mrs. Mildred Enterline.

The plays will be staged on Friday and Saturday evenings and admission will be free.

There are three prime features of the preferential system which should be understood by the voter if he is to vote intelligently. They are:

(1) The preferential ballot on which the voter ranks his choices numerically.

(2) The single transferable vote, which enables a voter to voice an influence even though his first choice may have been defeated.

(3) The electoral quota, or the number of votes needed by a candidate to be elected. Briefly, the quota is derived from a mathematical formula by which the total number of votes cast is divided by the number of offices to be filled plus one. This figure, plus one, is the quota needed for election.

Counting Process

The first step in the counting process consists of sorting the ballots according to the indicated first-place choices. If, when these are counted, a candidate receives the required quota, he is declared elected.

However, if a sufficient number of candidates (in the case of the Student Senate, seven) have not been chosen, the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes is dropped, and his second-place votes are then distributed among the remaining candidates as first-place choices.

If, after this step, the sufficient number of candidates still have not been elected, the lowest candidate is again dropped, and his second-place votes are distributed among the candidates still in the race.

Process Continues

This process of re-distributing the second-place choices of the lowest candidate continues until the desired number of candidates gain the required quota of votes.

The third or subsequent choices may be used in the same manner if a redistribution of second-place choices does not designate the winners. Hence, the individual ballot remains in effect so long as the election is undecided.

If a voter indicates only one or two choices when more are on the ballot, his vote is said to be "exhausted" after his designated choices have been counted.

Study of Career Opportunities For Students

(In cooperation with Dean Roy McAuley, the ETOWNIAN presents the following information on some of the scholarship and career opportunities available through the college placement program. More details on these and other opportunities may be had by contacting Dr. McAuley.)

Educational Opportunities

The State University of Iowa has announced the availability of assistantships in counseling, personnel work, human relations, and related behavioral science field for graduate students in psychology, education, child welfare and sociology.

Degrees of Master of Education, Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy are available through fellowships, scholarships and assistantships for full-time students at Johns Hopkins University. Applications must be submitted by March 1.

Texas A. and M. College is offering fellowships and assistantships for oceanography and meteorology.

Job or Career Opportunities

The Board of Education at Livingston, N. J., will need high school teachers in the following fields beginning this fall: mathematics, social studies, English, history, science, stenography and typing, music, industrial arts, French and elementary music. Salary range: $3,900 to $7,400.

The Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation is looking for college graduates for work in sales, production and quality control, research and engineering. Incentives include job security, advancement, salary, retirement and insurance.

The YWCA, of York, Pa., is in need of college people for positions at a summer camp, 12 miles north of York. The following positions must be filled: waterfront director, dramatics director, music director, craft director, sports director, nature director, dance director, riding director and dietitian.

Openings for general counselors, group leaders and specialists are also available at a children's summer camp in the Poconos.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPARTMENT . . .

WE'RE NOW DOWN TO THE HOME-STRETCH of the current basketball season, and here's the last set of predictions. This is the largest group yet, as well as one of the trickiest.

To those who have been graciously bestowing their predictions upon us, watch out for Susquehanna, Millersville and Albright especially. The tilt with the Teachers should be a corker as the Jays are out for revenge, but they'll have to gain it in Brooks Hall, Millersville. We won at Lebanon Valley and Albright lost there; however, the Lions trimmed a strong F. & M. team and the locals must face them at Reading, so that should be another close one.

At the termination of the season, everybody's predictions will be tallied and a grand champion declared complete with a token of our appreciation for the interest they showed.

SOME CRYSTAL BALL OWNERS must have been working overtime recently, for there were a whole host of surmisers who had bull's eyes on the last set of tilts.

The sports staff were all five and one on decisions when West Chester pulled a switch and nosed out the Jays by five after the three writers had foretold victory. Individually, Denlinger was exact in the 9-point victory over Scranton and Price was perfect with a spread of 10 in the recent Juniata win. Bowers, who has yet to hit one square, came close again when his 14-point deficit and 11-point surplus each missed by one in the St. Joe and Juniata frays respectively.

As of 15 games, then, Denlinger is out in front with 11 correct and three incorrect. Price and Bowers are both at ten and five.

The rest of the brave Blue Jay enthusiasts surpassed the staff quite frequently. No less than three — John Hollinger, Ace Baugher and Gene Bucher hit the nail on the head with a 5 for the scrap with West Chester. Helen Louise Bucher and Dan Spicer were exact with 20-point Slaughterers over Lincoln as Lorell Price and Carl Zeigler each missed by one. Lois Tinile missed that one by two. The latter Price had a ringer with a 9-point bulge against Scranton. Six forecasters meanwhile, in Carolyn Schneider, Mary Jean Esbenhade, Carl Ziegler, Jerry Garland, Terry Bush and Jim Schell narrowly missed by one.

John Hollinger hit the St. Joe game square, but no one bull's eyed the Hershey win over Lebanon Valley. Miss Schneider was close with a 20-point prediction. Joan Birdsall proved her ability in the Juniata game as did Ace Baugher when both foresaw the 10-point edge on the Indians at Donegal.

The Blue Jays are still leading the Southern Division with an 8-2 record; but their chances of playing in the NCAA playoffs seem to be very slim at the moment. The unblemished record of Drexel, 8-0, and the 9-2 record of F. & M. both rank above ours, and although they are in the Northern Division, they would represent the ECAC as a whole. Also a factor which dims our hopes is that we schedule neither of these teams.

The standings to date are:
E-town ----- 8 2 .800
Susquehanna ----- 6 3 .667
Hofstra ----- 2 1 .667
Wagner ----- 2 1 .667
Lycoming ----- 4 3 .571

Talking to Sal Paone the other day, I found that his biggest thrill, as well as that of the whole team, was defeating Lebanon Valley on their own court. Next came the fact that we beat them twice in one year and three times in a row. He should feel a sense of satisfaction in his own play as well, because he ridded the Flying Dutchmen defense for 42 points this season, 28 of them at Hershey where he reached a season's peak.

I noticed the fans on the other side of the arena were riding Sal; but remember the slogan of Del Ennis and Ted Williams, "No one boos a poor player." Maybe they remember Sal's freshman year when he single-handedly beat Landa's gang in our gym 77-74, 26 of those winning points coming from South Phila.

Winning two games in two nights sure can boost the morale of a team that was beaten by a strong St. Joe team. Both nights saw the Blue Jays fly away at the end after having a rough time taking off. They certainly can put on an effective full-court press!

Next year's varsity will be another above-average squad as things look now. Geiger, Hedrick, Repleglo and Dent have the ability to step in and assist Pensyl, Sarbaugh and Chase win quite a few games.

* * *

One personal observation: "When our team works as a unit instead of individuals, they are extremely hard to beat!" (Sometimes this seems to be overlooked.)

Kay Barron, Versatile Jaygal, Stars in Hockey and Basketball

by Lorell Price

Versatility plus—that's Kay Barron, high-scoring forward of the Elizabethtown Jaygas.

Ever since her transfer from Mansfield State Teachers College in her home town, Kay has been thrilling E-town fans with her athletic exploits.

With two years of hockey under her belt, Miss Barron is now starting her second season with Coach Julia Risser's basketeers. Last year, Kay finished third in scoring behind Kitty Swigart and Rachel Keller with 145 points and a 12.2 average in helping the team compile a seven and four record.

The hustling junior garnered her highest point total in a victory over Lebanon Valley when she hit for 28 markers. She picks the locals' 87-50 win over Millersville as the Jaygals' best all-around team effort. In Hockey, she lists E-town's conquest of Lock Haven as her outstanding and most memorable performance.

Her performances are all the more remarkable considering the fact that she never competed in varsity athletics until her arrival at Elizabethtown. She learned all she knows about hockey and basketball from her coach here, Miss Risser.

Sports always came easy for the sandy-haired lass. Besides varsity competition, she likes diving, skiing, tennis, volleyball and golf where she shoots in the low nineties. She also led the intra-mural bowling league last year and won a badminton tournament at Mansfield her freshman year.

E-town fans will say good-bye to Kay after this year, for she will complete her laboratory technology course at Lourdes Hospital in Binghamton, New York. Following the completion of her studies, Miss Barron plans to work in a laboratory and hopes to play club hockey and basketball.

Kay predicts an improvement in the Jaygals' record over last year because of added experience for herself and the whole team. Evidently this year's first scheduled game read, BARRON'S 31 PACE ELIZABETHTOWN TO A 79-38 WIN.

Kay Barron

Gals Have 7 Left; Play at LVC Tues.

With seven games remaining for Coach Julia Risser and her Jaygal basketballers, chances of bettering last year's respectable 7-4 record seem bright.

The Bluebirds looked good in the first two games and have been using their experience to great advantage. They will be in Annville for a tilt with Lebanon Valley on Tuesday evening, and hopes are high since the locals dumped the feminine Flying Dutchmen twice a year ago.

Following that, Bridgewater will be at E-town for a go at the Blue and Gray, and that one should be a thriller as the Jaygals will be out to avenge last year's 59-39 defeat.

Two state teachers colleges are next in line in Millersville, a two-time victim last year, and East Stroudsburg, an outfit who annually makes it tough for the locals in all sports. Last season the Northerners bounced the E-towners 74-43 at Stroudsburg, so this one will be at home. The Millersville contest is slated for the Marauders' court as they have already played here.

Then on March 5, Gettysburg journeys here to try their hand at avenging this year's season-opener defeat; and on March 9 LVC will be in town for a second shot at Miss Risser's lasses.

The Bluebirds close out the season on March 12 when they will be in Reading in an attempt to duplicate last year's 71-21 maul job over Albright.

ATTENTION!

BASEBALL PLAYERS

According to Coach Ira Herr, all candidates for this year's baseball team should report to him on or before February 21. The first practice will be announced later.

Blue Birds Remain Undefeated; Win 3

Coach Julia Risser's high-flying Bluebirds remained undefeated Thursday night when they shelled Millersville in the local gym for their third win in as many games.

In the two previous tilts they topped Shippensburg here and Gettysburg on their own floor.

Millersville was in the game only in the first quarter as the Jaygals took a lead they never relinquished early in the second frame.

Jump-shooting Kay Barron led the way for the local lasses with 14 field goals and 3 fouls for a grand total of 31 points. Rachel Keller chipped in with 16 counters and along with Kitty Swigart, displayed a fine floor game that was instrumental in the one-sided victory.

The Gals picked up their second win last Tuesday when they slammed Shippensburg 49-30 in their home opener.

Miss Barron's 17 was tops for the winners, but she received plenty of help from misses Swigart and Keller and non-starters, Deloris Bolze and Barb Darling-ton.

In the season opener, the E-towners scored a 79-37 route over Gettysburg that was never close. The Jaygals were off at the start and never let up, enabling Coach Risser to substitute freely. Kay Barron's 31 and Rachel Keller's 21 were high for the Birds.

The Junior varsity, meanwhile, is currently at one win and two losses. Their victory was a 55-40 affair over Millersville and they lost 79-41 to Shippensburg and 51-44 to Gettysburg. Mary Bovaird had done the bulk of the scoring for the junior birds with 18 in the Shippensburg tilt and 25 against Millersville.

South Hall Warriors Undefeated; Women's Bowling League Under Way

Interest in the Men's Intramural Basketball Association reached its peak last week as the two league leaders met head-on in a battle of undefeated teams.

When the smoke had cleared, the South Hall Warriors had moved into undisputed possession of first place by virtue of a 38-23 decision over the Private Pistons. The Pistons spurted to a 5-0 lead only to have the Warriors deadlock the game at the end of the first quarter.

The Warriors prevailed the rest of the way led by Bob Blessing's 12 points. Center Shorty Keller was high for the Pistons with 7.

The same night saw the Center Hall Celtics lead all the way to

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

With E-town's double win over Lebanon Valley this year, the aspirations of many Blue Jay fans have been fulfilled. What's more, the dribblers have won three in a row from the Dutchmen.

Not easily visible but quite important was the defensive job that Jim Sarbaugh did on LVC's Shover in the recent game at Hershey. The high-scoring Dutchmen had averaged 26.3 ppg. in the three games prior to the bout with the Jays and is noted for his sharp eye on the court at the Chocolate Town. He mustered only 12 off Sarboski, though, and three of those were scored when the Jays were still in a zone.

We saw the Jaygal basketballers in a pre-season warm-up against the Hanover Wildcats of a nearby club league; and although they dropped a 59-51 decision, they profited by it since there's no better way to learn than from a more experienced team. The Gals needn't be ashamed, either, for the Wildcats were sporting a 10-1 record at the time.

Two newcomers to the varsity sextet have played commendable ball in the first several games. Dee Bolze who returned to this school after a year's leave, is currently playing fourth behind the big three (Swigart, Keller and Barron) on offense, and Phyllis Moser broke into the starting defensive trio after spending last season with the junior varsity.

Grappler John Hollinger took on three Lebanon Valley hopefuls last week in a scrimmage with the Dutchmen, who are in the process of picking up the sport on an intercollegiate basis. The Blue Jay captain pinned all three, and one of them, three times.

Heavyweight Terry Bush meanwhile, had a different fate. Terry found himself facing a 320-pounder and just couldn't get out from under when the latter fell on top of him. We're happy to report, though, that Terry was back in action Saturday afternoon.

A game fought evenly for three quarters saw the North Hall Nationals spurt to a fourth-period victory over the Hill Top Hawks. Pat Rafter's 21 led the victors while Dan Spicer's eight was tops for the losers.

The previous week, Earl Melott's 18 markers led the Pistons to a hard-fought 36-32 victory over the Nationals. Rafter collected 19 for North Hall. Coach Bob Goudie's Warriors led all the way to crush the Placida Lakers 49-24. Blessing's 16 points paced South Hall while Fred Leppo's 11 was high for the losing Lakers.

The eight-team bowling league of the Women's Athletic Association has completed three weeks of competition.

The well-balanced league standings show teams 2, 4, 6 and 8 tied for first place with identical 2 and 1 records while the remaining four teams are deadlocked at 1 and 2.

Individual game highs are held by Dee Bolze, 141; Kay Barron, 136; Rachel Keller, 134; Betsy Lohr, 132, and Mary Ann Gettle, 132. The three week averages show Dee Bolze's 122 topping the list followed by Betsy Lohr's 120 and Rachel Keller's 112. Lois Tintle and Joan Rigler are tied with averages of 109.

Blue Jay Cagers at Dickinson Tonight; Face Teachers at M-ville Next Tuesday

TONIGHT our high-flying Blue Jays head west to Carlisle where they will invade the territory of the Dickinson Red Devils. This will be the second meeting of the two teams this year, the other being an 88-74 E-town victory on the local court.

Ray Weaver will lead the Red Devils in their attempt to avenge that defeat in which Tony Arcuri scored 30 points and Bob Wert 22 to lead the Blue Jays. This will not be an easy game because the boys from D-son, especially on their home court, have shown erratic signs of brilliance. They began the season by beating Susquehanna and later lost by one point to Lebanon Valley.

Probable starting line-ups for tonight's game are:

E-town	Pcs.	Dickinson
B. Wert	f.	D. Tafel
T. Arcuri	f.	I. Glick
J. Chase	c.	R. Chase
J. Sarbaugh	g.	R. Weaver
S. Paone	g.	J. Wiley

ROMANO RETURNS

Friday, Frank Romano and the rest of the Susquehanna U. team will arrive on campus to try to make it two in a row over the Smithmen. Winning 79-72 in their first meeting at Selinsgrove, led by the 33 points of Romano, they will be no easy task for the local lads.

Captain Jim Sarbaugh will lead his men onto the floor with two specific orders—Stop Romano and don't foul! Both of these factors were the ones that beat us the last time as we made nine more field goals but were outscored 33 to 10 from the charity stripe. Bill Pensyl, with 18 points, led the Blue Jays in the losing cause.

MILLERSVILLE AGAIN!

Then comes the game for which the boys have been waiting. Next Tuesday they will pack their bags and head across Lancaster County to Brooks Hall on the campus of Millersville State Teachers College with fire in their eyes and determination in their hearts. Losing 53-50 at Donegal earlier this campaign and twice in a row at the end of last season, Coach Smith and his charges are in no mood to give the Marauders any chance to extend their streak any farther.

Naturally Chase, Pensyl and Wert will be trying to stop Big John Parker who scored 23 points in the second half of the last game, but the rest of the men must also watch a young newcomer, Reggie Rife, who also has been scoring quite regularly.

The Blue Jays finish out the schedule with two home games against Lycoming and P.M.C. in that order. The Jays defeated Lycoming earlier this year on the loser's court 94-82 when Chase, Arcuri and Wert all broke the 20-point barrier with 25, 21 and 20 points respectively. The Jays haven't faced P.M.C. yet this year but defeated them 87-83 at the close of last season.

BASKETBALL MANAGER NEEDED

Coach Don Smith recently issued the call for a basketball manager and timer. Anyone interested in either of these positions should contact him in the gym or his North Hall office TODAY or as soon thereafter as possible.

Smithmen Conquer LVC, Juniata; Raise Season Log to 10 and 5

Coach Don Smith's cagers won their second game in two nights and upped their season's log to ten wins and five losses last week when they toppled Juniata before a large crowd in the Donegal High School gym.

On Feb. 8, 48 hours earlier, they knocked off Lebanon Valley at Hershey after splitting even in the four previous tilts with West Chester, Lincoln, Scranton and St. Joseph's in that order.

Juniata, with freshman Chet White showing a hot hand, jumped to an early 20-14 lead, and they held an edge the rest of the half to lead at intermission 38-25.

With a full-court press, however, the Jays capitalized on the Indians' erratic floor play at the start of the second half and were never in trouble thereafter.

Tony Arcuri, who picked up 15 points in the last half, paced the locals with 21, Sal Paone, who was hitting throughout the contest accumulated 20. Jim Sarbaugh collected 11 counters, all in the first half, and Bob Wert added 10.

Lace Lebanon Valley

One night earlier the courtmen of Coach Smith drubbed LVC for the second time in three weeks—this time it was 79-60 before 2,500 at the Hershey Sports Arena.

The Dutchmen took a 6-2 lead and stretched it to 26-17 early in the contest with the Blue Jays anchored in a 3-2 zone. When the Jays switched to a pressing man-to-man defense, though, E-town closed the gap and took a 40-36 halftime lead.

The second half was all E-town as Paone, Sarbaugh and Wert consistently prevented the Valley from setting up a workable offense by pressing the backcourt men. Paone took scoring honors with 12 fielders and four fouls, good for 28 points. Wert's 14 along with 12 each by Sarbaugh, Chase and Arcuri completed the well-rounded attack.

Lose to Hawks

Prior to that the Jays met St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, a perennial powerhouse, and lost 69-56 on the winners' court.

Height was the big factor in favor of the Hawks, but the locals' faulty foul shooting contributed also. Chase had 11 while Arcuri and Wert threw in 10.

Scrape Scranton

A week before that, the Jay Dribblers defeated a strong Scranton quintet on the Donegal floor 82-73.

The tilt was close the whole way with the Blue and Gray leading by one at halftime and stretching it to 9 only late in the fray. Three 20-point men proved the difference for the birds as Wert, Arcuri and Paone netted 24, 21 and 20 in that order. Chase added 15.

Split Even

Back on January 26 the E-towners ran over Lincoln 84-64 after losing their fourth of the season and second in the league—this time to West Chester. Paone and Arcuri scored 21 and 20 in the Lincoln affair, and Chase poured in 21 at West Chester.

TRIED TOP COMMUNISTS

Judge Harold R. Medina Named Speaker For 55th Annual Commencement Program

Judge Harold R. Medina, who gained fame while presiding over the trial of 11 top U. S. Communists in 1949, has been named as speaker for the 55th Commencement program here, June 3, according to an announcement by President A. C. Baugher.

"Judge Medina's appearance will certainly add dignity and prestige to our Commencement," President Baugher related. "We have sought his services for some time."

Reportedly a frank and open speaker, Judge Medina will use as his topic the adequate development of the whole individual. A graduate of Princeton and Columbia universities, he has played a prominent role in several important judicial cases.

He was counsel for Herbert Singer, the only defendant to be acquitted in a criminal prosecution of officers of the Bank of the United States. He successfully defended Anthony Cramer in the first case of treason to be decided by the U. S. Supreme Court.

President Harry Truman appointed him judge of the U. S. District Court, Southern District of New York, in 1947. It was in this capacity that he presided over the bitter ten-month conspiracy trial of 11 upper echelon American Communists. During the trial, Judge Medina was subjected to various pressures by the Reds, including threats of violence.

As an author, he has written a number of books, most of which deal with the practice of law in New York. He has taken part in many legal reforms affecting court procedures, including the ban on the use of microphones, sound movies, and other photographic apparatus in court rooms.

ON TO HARRISBURG

Political Science Club to Enter ICG

Members of the political science club are preparing for the 21st annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government to be held in Harrisburg, April 11 to 13.

The meeting this year will be in the form of a Model State Legislature. Students will present bills in mock committee meetings and thereby gain practical experience in the workings of government.

There will be committees on labor and industry, agriculture, local and state governments, taxation and finance, education, judiciary, health and welfare, natural resources and transportation, commerce and public utilities.

William Bechtel, a graduate of the class of '56, will serve as temporary chairman at the opening sessions of the convention in Harrisburg. Bechtel was elected permanent speaker at the 1956 ICG meeting by a majority of students representing over 40 Pennsylvania colleges and universities.

Preparations Made

In preparation for the Harrisburg convention, members of the local club attended a meeting of students from the central regional colleges of Pennsylvania at Hershey Junior College.

Curtis Reiber, chairman of the campus ICG delegation, was unanimously elected speaker of central regional colleges at the Hershey meeting, March 9.

Elizabethtown students who will probably go to Harrisburg are: Robert Blessing, James Bortzfield, Sara Cooper, Inna Daniloff, Dorothy Hyde, Orwin Keeney, Russell LeFevre, Lee Miller, James Pannebaker, Jonathan Smith, Jere Frey, Lloyd Shim, Jay Greider, Marshall Pomroy, Joyce Schaffner, Robert Balthaser and Curtis Reiber.

Dr. Wilhelm Reuning, adviser to the club, accompanied the group to Hershey and will oversee activities at the Harrisburg meeting.

Community Program To Present Story Of Abraham Lincoln

Impersonations of Abraham Lincoln and a talk on the life of our Civil War president by George J. Lehrer will be presented in the auditorium-gymnasium here April 25 as the Community Program series concludes. The Community Program Series has been presented as a cooperative effort by the college and the Patton School for Boys.

Lehrer reportedly has spent 30 years in gathering material on Lincoln for inclusion in his performance, which includes a biographical sketch and little known facts in Lincoln's life.

Climaxing his program, Lehrer dons make-up before the audience and offers several monologues, including a rendition of the Gettysburg Address that has been called "the finest ever heard" by one group who witnessed it.

A California high school principal, expressing his opinion of the Lincoln presentation, said that at his school "students felt they had had an immediate contact with the historic feeling of the nation at a very critical time."

Lehrer explains that his prime purpose in his presentation is to make Lincoln "come to life before the eyes of the audience."

As an author, he has written a number of books, most of which deal with the practice of law in New York. He has taken part in many legal reforms affecting court procedures, including the ban on the use of microphones, sound movies, and other photographic apparatus in court rooms.

Dramatic Productions Class to Stage Six Plays With Sock and Buskin Club

Cross Section of Dramatic Types To Be Offered On Successive Evenings Under Student Direction

Classroom study will be combined with extra curricular activities April 5 and 6 as members of Sock and Buskin join with the personnel of the dramatic productions class to present six one-act plays in the college auditorium.

Three of the productions will be staged the first night with the remainder scheduled to be given the following evening.

The plays will represent a cross-section of dramatic types, with special emphasis on lighting, staging and production techniques.

The first, entitled THE MAN AND HIS WIFE, will feature Japanese methods of staging, lighting and make-up. The cast includes Edwin Ankeny, Jane MacNeal and George Smith. Mrs. Mildred Enterline, instructor for the dramatics class, will direct the performance.

THE GREAT CHOICE, a serious drama, will feature a cast headed by Bette Jane Holman, Robert Yohn and Ruthanne Butterbaugh. Also featured will be Ellen Gaines, George Smith, Karl Kettering and Edwin Ankeny.

Arthur Lawton will direct the play, assisted by Ruthanne Butterbaugh.

Ankeny will direct JOHN DOE, which has a cast consisting of Donald Knaub, Arthur Lawton, Juniors Make Final Preparations For 'Fabulous Flickers' Fri., Sat.

by Robert Balthaser

The junior class will present "Fabulous Flickers," a musical variety show, at 8 p. m., Friday and Saturday in the college auditorium.

The show format was originated and staged by personnel of the class under the supervision of Mrs. Mildred Enterline, adviser. Prof. Raymond Franke assisted in the script writing.

Gerald Wolff, as master of ceremonies, will introduce the acts, provide comic relief, and handle the continuity of the show.

The college orchestra conducted by Mr. Noah Klauss will play an overture and provide accompaniment for different selections.

The college choir will appear in modern compositions. Prof. Nevin Fisher will direct the choir as well as the men's chorus.

A short skit created by George Gerlach will satirize classroom characters. Taking part in the act will be Dorothy Mudrinich, Bruce Tinglof, Pat Rafter, Jack Way and walk-ons.

Solo Acts

Solo acts will include a tap dance by Larry Turbett; novel recitations by Ken Miller; folk song by Bill Greene and guitar; and a harmonica solo by Lloyd Shim.

The pep band, composed of Fred Zimmerman, Glenn Snelbecker, Mort Feder, Bill Stoneback, Carl Spease and John Ranck, will be featured in a new situation.

Another skit will depict an evening at the Market Basket. The male quartet, Pete Thompson, Ken Miller, Bill Stoneback and John Ranck, and assorted "characters" who patronize the counter will be pictured. The sketch was written by Jack Way.

A pantomime number by Bill Elston and Jack Devereux and numerous other comic bits are to be interjected throughout the program.

Other specialties include a cha-cha by Judy Easter and Milt Smith, and a vocal solo by Deloris Turner featuring Bill Stoneback with trumpet accompaniment.

Dixieland, Too

Dixieland music a la gashouse style will be provided by a combo made up of John Rebert, Lauren Wagner, George Gerlach, Bill Hoar, Mary Langdon and Bob Balthaser.

Elizabethtown's own Four Freshmen — Jack Devereux, Bill Elston, Jim Picking and Bob Chamberlain will do a calypso number accompanied by Bill Greene.

A square dance is being readied for the show by Lois Tintle, Carole Bossinger, Margarete Geissler, Ethel Webber, Claire Boyd, Dick Dennis, Jack Reed, Ralph Baker, Lee Miller and Will Dourte. Music will be provided by Bob Hesser, Stan Miller and friends.

The final number will feature students on stage, in a setting modeled after Lake Placida, plus the choir and orchestra.

Planning the show were: Robert Balthaser, chairman; James Pannebaker, Kay Barron, John Ranck, John Hollinger, Jane MacNeal, George Gerlach, Rachel Keller, Audrey Kilhefner and John Way.

Second Salk Shots Set for Wednesday

Free Salk polio inoculations for freshmen, sophomores, pre-school children and expectant mothers, will be offered in the gymnasium Wednesday, March 20. The shots are available to juniors and seniors for a small charge, according to dean of men, D. Paul Greene.

The complete series of inoculations consists of three shots. Either shot one or two will be administered Wednesday, Dean Green stated.

Campus Chest Drive Reaches $125 Mark

The Campus Chest has to date received $125 toward their minimum goal of $300. A collection was taken in chapel and a box is now located in the college store to receive donations. This total does not include the money taken in by donations at the benefit basketball in our gym last Tuesday.

This money is needed to pay for the daily living expenses of a Hungarian refugee student on our campus. Gloria Keller, chairman of the Campus Chest drive, announced that another Pennsylvania school is sponsoring ten of these students, and she feels that we should easily be able to give one refugee the chance of a lifetime.

Lions Music Festival Uses Community Groups

An Elizabethtown Community Music Festival, the first of its kind in this area, will be presented Friday evening, March 29, in the Elizabethtown College auditorium - gymnasium. Sponsored by the local Lions Club, it will begin at 8:15.

Participating from the college will be the choir under Prof. Nevin Fisher and accompanied by Mrs. E. G. Meyer, and the orchestra under Mr. Noah Klauss. The college will be combined with the local high school orchestra, which Mr. Klauss also directs.

Besides the orchestra, Elizabethtown High School will also be represented by the mixed chorus and the male quartet.

The Patton Trade School chorus, Elizabethtown Tonettes (women's quartet), and the Lions Club male chorus will also participate.

And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre...
He is not here, but risen.

In the Election's Wake

Candidates, both successful and unsuccessful, in the recent campus elections are to be congratulated for their interest in student government here at Elizabethtown.

To those who won the approval of the student body in their quest for office we say well done and best of luck in carrying out the challenges and responsibilities that go with the offices to which they were elected.

A sincere vote of thanks is due all those who waged unsuccessful campaigns. Unfortunately, everyone can't win, but the fact that these people had the interest and the desire to serve the student body and the college deserves our gratitude.

May we add that the types of campaigns waged this year reflected an increased interest in student government that is a healthy sign. It is our hope that this same interest can be sustained in the elections still to come next year and in future years.

Nehru: Skirting Hypocrisy

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India is a man of complex political ideas which often border on hypocrisy.

This man, who purports to speak for the so-called "Third Force" in world affairs, is perhaps the strongest advocate of semi-neutrality in the world. His is not the pacifistic neutrality of Switzerland or Burma, but the kind that Nehru likes to refer to as a "dynamic approach" to world problems.

He has never hesitated to speak out against the evils of Western colonialism. He was among the first to condemn the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt. Yet, when it came to making a statement on the Russian suppression of the Hungarian revolt, Nehru dragged his feet and finally released an announcement that was little more than a slap on the wrist for the Communists.

Jawaharlal Nehru has repeatedly spoken out in favor of self-determination for people everywhere. However, he has ignored five United Nations' demands for a plebiscite in Kashmir, the princely state on India's northern border which has been sought by both India and Pakistan.

Knowing that in a free election the people of Kashmir, 77 percent of whom are Moslem, would vote to become annexed to Pakistan, Nehru's India launched a 14-month war in the late forties. By the time the U.N. arranged a cease-fire, India held two-thirds of Kashmir. Since that time, Nehru steadily tightened India's hold on the illegally seized state.

And finally, a few weeks ago, the puppet premier of Kashmir formally proclaimed adoption of a constitution joining Kashmir to India.

Nehru, it appears, has lost some of his lustre as a leader of moral forces in the world. He's guilty of that old and very common malady of not practicing what he preaches.

Speak Up in the Classroom

(The following article appeared in TECHNOLOGY NEWS, Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago.)

WHY? When was the last time you challenged a statement your instructor professor made? Last week, last month or last year? If it is the latter, you are probably one of the easiest students to teach the instructor has. If you sit in your oaken chair absorbing the instructors words and drawings like a sponge as the gospel truth, you probably will lose the knowledge just as fast when the pressure is put on you. Everyone will agree that no human is perfect. Deductive reasoning from that point leaves us that teachers are human, therefore, they must be wrong once in a while. When the student lets some ideas or statements go by him without question, he is leaving himself open to accepting false and prejudice material.

Carl Sandberg, whose poetry is considered to have contained some wisdom, stated recently, "Much of the history of the world could be written in a book titled, 'Challengers of Axioms'."

Many times the small three-letter word, WHY has caused spectacular events; Einstein, Columbus and Galileo are just a few of the great people who asked themselves why and delved further to investigate.

You may say to yourself you are not out to discover new worlds, One can find though a richer, fuller life with a complete and better understanding of the things in our environment.

Off The Beaten Track

by Carl Denlinger

It seems as though Baldy was not able to get off of the beaten track this month, so he handed me his hip boots, supersonic hearing aid and the key hole magnifying glass. Now I know why he has had that satisfied look on his face all year. He probably knows things about people that they don't even know themselves.

My nose for news took me to the girls' basketball game in our gym against Millersville. There I saw a superbly coordinated trio of cheerleaders leading the enthusiastic fans in the famous alphabet cheer. "Legs" Wert, "Knees" Rafter and "Twinklettes" Gerlach had the crowd in hysterics as they cheered the Jay-gals to victory. Dean McAuley enjoyed it so much I thought he might be tempted to join them, but no such luck.

The usual quiet study-conducive atmosphere of the boys' dorm was broken the other day as two obvious tenderfeet advertised vocally for boy scout knives. Fearing the worst, I trailed them to their destination. Arriving at the business building I saw, amongst a group of otherwise normal students, what looked like a medieval crusade. Armed with a pennant, some knives, plenty of rope, and following the directions of compass drawn on the macadam road, this group headed north across campus. It seems as though I was alarmed without cause, because this was just the camp counseling class in action.

My keyhole magnifier was not needed in Alpha Hall where a door seemingly took a walk one afternoon to the ex-kitchen to watch wrestling practice and was not discovered until about 10:30 p. m. Even window shades seemed to want privacy and disappeared. Maybe we need a detective for the women!

Prof. Beck's attempt to dare a student to bring a musical instrument to class backfired the other day when "Spike" Gerlach, appeared in harmony with his bass fiddle. My hearing aid conked out when the door slammed and

Prof. Franke was locked out of his contemporary novel class the other day until he issued the pass words "No test today." Just a hint to those who have classes in the business building. (You know that I could get my nose revoked for this.)

The Reunion Plan

The so-called "Dartmouth Reunion Plan" has been adopted by the Alumni Association and has been in effect here for several years. However, a large percentage of Elizabethtown graduates are not familiar with its provisions.

According to Eby Espenshade, alumni secretary, the plan is based on the idea of having graduates meet more of the people they knew during their days on campus instead of merely those in their own class.

Prof. Robin Robinson, of Dartmouth, who designed the plan, was of the belief that members of any one class come to know people from six other classes (three ahead and three behind his own) while on campus.

The Dartmouth plan therefore attempts to combine reunions of these various classes to a great degree as possible. The schedule for the next few years is here outlined.

AS GRADUATION APPROACHES

After College: What and Why

In slightly over two months the members of Elizabethtown's Class of '57 will be taking that "singing stride through the portals of maturity" as they reach the end of their college life here.

As they step down from the stage of the auditorium with degree in hand June 3, they will be faced with the stern realization that campus life here is over, and the realities of earning a living have begun.

The members of the Class of '57 have had four years of academic preparation for the position they will occupy in society. A large percentage will become teachers, others will go into business, still others will enter the ministry, science, journalism, medicine, or other fields. Some hope to go on for study in post graduate schools.

What are the reasons that prompted the members of the class to choose their respective occupations? Was it financial reward, a sense of mission, a desire to serve, job security, or the influence of other people in the field?

The ETOWNIAN questioned some members of the Senior Class and received the following replies:

Gloria Keller, education—"My reasons for obtaining a degree in education go back through my school years with teachers I admired and idolized. I find working with children enjoyable, stimulating, and challenging. I felt this field was basic to my other interests, particularly music, social work and homemaking."

Lorell Price, education—"I expect to teach on the college level eventually, but I'm going to begin as a high school instructor. I'm going to teach history because I don't believe history is as appreciated as it should be in our society. Teaching offers a feeling of security, and education is obviously a progressive field with a great deal of opportunity."

Audrey Sprenkle, education—"Children are America's greatest resource. For maximum development of this resource it is necessary to have teachers who have a love for children and who are willing to accept the challenge of developing the whole child to better live in our society. I have accepted this challenge. It is for this reason that I have entered the teaching profession."

Robert Goudie, business—"I hope to combine my love for teaching and coaching with my business training by becoming a teacher of social studies and business. I hope to enter teaching mainly because I'm interested in coaching. The fact that my father is a teacher has influenced my decision to some degree. However, while teaching and coaching are my first loves, I certainly would not turn down a good business opportunity. All things considered, my primary choice is teaching primarily because of the coaching aspect and my enjoyment of working with young people."

Verna Weaver, education—"My main reason for entering the teaching profession is that I love children and enjoy working with them. My grade school experiences were happy and enjoyable, and I hope to make school an exciting and happy time for the children whom I will have the opportunity to teach. The opportunity to help shape the lives of children, who will be tomorrow's citizens, is a challenge I am happy to accept."

Carl Denlinger, education—"I'm still undecided as to whether I'll be entering the teaching profession or journalism. I like to write, and perhaps I can find a position where I can teach journalism or college English and still do my share of writing. Teaching is attractive because of the opportunities for advancement coupled with the inherent feeling of security it provides."

Sandra Hart, laboratory technician—"As I have always been fascinated by the atmosphere of a hospital, I decided upon a career in the field of medicine. Rather than having to actually care for the patients, I think that I will receive much more satisfaction as a laboratory technician. The actual diagnosing of a case depends entirely upon the findings of this person."

Marianne Eicholtz, medical secretary—"I have always liked being with and helping people. Then, too, I have liked the atmosphere of an office, so I decided to combine the two and become a medical secretary. Everyone, after choosing a vocation, wonders if this is really what he wants. But since I've been working at the Masonic Hospital I know that this chance to work with people and to enjoy the systematic atmosphere of an office is my job in life."

William Stoneback, ministry—"I feel that as a Christian who thinks he has the capacities to enter full-time service for Christ I have an obligation to share my beliefs and faith with others. I think I can do this best in the ministry."

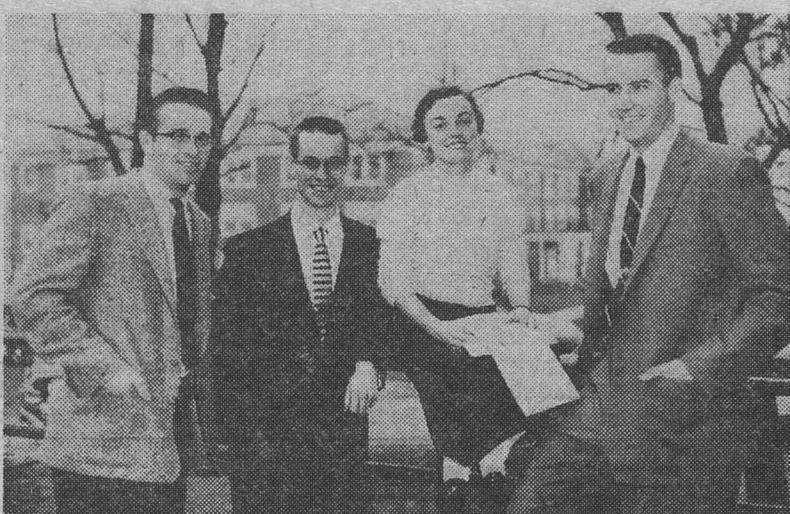

Shirley Heller, education—"The children of today are the leaders of tomorrow. They need to be guided safely through the maze our complex society has created. Anyone who has seen the expression of wonder on a child's face at some new problem, has watched and guided him in successfully solving it, can't help but have a feeling of deep satisfaction in knowing he has been of service as a teacher."

Tolbert Powell, engineering—"I've always been interested in engineering and electricity. All of my hobbies have been centered around that field. Of course, there's money in it at present, but that's a secondary consideration to me. Frankly, I've never given serious thought to any other field."

Pauline Wolfe, education—"The teaching profession has always been a goal in my life. As a second-grader I was deeply impressed by a teacher who made school life one of the most pleasant experiences I ever had. I wanted to make other people as happy as she had made me. And now with a more mature outlook on teaching I feel that children, in order to become good citizens, must have a desire to learn early in life. This desire, I believe, can only be fulfilled when the proper atmosphere is present. It is with this in mind that I look forward to having a part in molding the lives of a future generation."

NEW EDITORS—Yvonne Brubaker and Robert Balthaser will bear the responsibility of turning out the student publications next year. Miss Brubaker was named editor of the yearbook, CONESTOGAN, and Balthaser was chosen to head the staff of the ETOWNIAN.

NEXT YEAR'S LEADERS—Newly-elected officers of the Student Senate get together for their first discussion of policy to be used in meeting the problems they will encounter next year. From left, they are: Ralph Baker, treasurer; Harold Pomroy, vice-president; Jane MacNeal, secretary, and Curtis Reiber, president.

Seven Men Chosen
For 1957-58 Senate

A near-record total of 18 candidates battled for the seven senatorial positions. The victors were: Marlin Brownawell, James Chase, Maynard Grunstra, John Hollinger, Eldon Morehouse, James Pannebaker and Bary Stevenson.

The committees of men's and women's affairs will be elected today.

Members of the election committee expressed satisfaction at the interest shown in the campaigns. Posters, banners and platform statements were prominently displayed in all parts of the campus.

One member of the administration called the campaigns "the most spirited" in a number of years.

Medical Shorthand Class
Getting On-Job Training

Members of the medical shorthand class are taking part in an experiment designed to give them practical experience in their field while providing a service at the local Masonic Hospital.

Under the direction of Miss Eleanor Eastlack, instructor in secretarial science, seven members of the class are taking dictation, operating transcribing machines and working in the laboratory doing analyses.

Each of the class members works at the hospital four hours per week. Taking part in the project are: Marianne Eicholtz, Marjorie Dum, Barbara Darlington, Carole Bossinger, Jane MacNeal, Frances Hoover and Sylvia Shaffer.

President Baugher
Completes Study Of Trustee Board

by Malcolm Hershey

Dr. A. C. Baugher has completed an analysis of the membership of the board of trustees of Elizabethtown College in terms of their major areas of training and experience.

Presently the board of trustees is composed of 22 board members and one trustee emeritus. Eight people represent the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and four Southern. The alumni association elects three members while the remaining seven are board elected trustees.

The analysis reveals that of the 22 board members 18 are alumni of Elizabethtown College. It further shows that the business profession is the most popular vocation among the members. Six trustees are engaged in private business while seven are working in corporations.

The ministry has attracted 11 board members. Of the 11, only three are in full time ministry. The remaining 8 hold regular positions as bankers (2), farmer (1), education (1), business (4) in addition to their position as ministers.

Public education has attracted three board members. The two women board members are active in the teaching profession. Accounting, law, and banking have each claimed two members. One member is working in the field of engineering.

News and Nonsense
from
Other Campuses

This will hardly go down too well with the Class of '57, but the freshmen will be happy. And we try to please everyone.

The quote in question was lifted from the DAILY REVEILLE of Louisiana State University. It reads: "Universities are full of knowledge; the freshmen bring a little in and the seniors take none away, and knowledge accumulates."

The OKLAHOMA DAILY at the University of Oklahoma recently aired a discussion on whether men should wear engagement rings.

"Too expensive," said one coed. "The girl and her family have to pay for the wedding. That's enough."

There were others who remarked, "Men are too conservative to wear them."

"Buying an engagement ring would hurt women's femininity."

"Men don't want people to know they're engaged. It would inhibit them."

We read this little quip from the Associated Collegiate Press Service, and it suddenly struck us that the "he and she" involved could very well be a popular couple here on campus. It goes like this:

Pete (at the movies): "Can you see alright?"

Emma: "Yes."

Pete: "Is there a draft on you?"

Emma: "No."

Pete: "Seat comfortable?"

Emma: "Yes."

Pete: "Mind changing places."

That one came from the paper at the University of Idaho.

If you think you have a problem, check the situation at Texas A. and M. That school doesn't have any coeds and the men claim it's not unusual to drive 200 miles for a date. But don't feel sorry for them. The boys voted and decided it's best not to mix education with women.

Now the question arises, how many of them are married or engaged?

And then there's this little thing from the United Press via the DAILY KANSAN. It all happened in Batavia, New York, where a drum major flipped his baton high into the air during a parade and was startled when it didn't come down. He stared into the wild blue up yonder and discovered that his metal baton was fused to a 5,000-volt power line. Result: a 90-minute power failure.

And finally this piece from the DAILY TEXAN:

Him: "I hope you'll dance with me tonight."

Her: "Certainly. I hope you don't think I came down here merely for pleasure."

"Thanks"

We wish to express our gratitude to everyone who helped us with the production of "Fabulous Flickers."

Since it is impossible to list the names of all who have assisted us in many ways with their time, efforts and suggestions, we desire to express our appreciation in this way to the other members of the junior class, to members of other classes, personnel of the administration and faculty, and all other friends.

Signed,
Planning Committee.

WATCH THAT POISON IVY

Members of New Camp Counseling Class Fight Briars, Build Fires, Dig Pits

In most college courses the student may get blisters on his seat, but for the first time in the history of Elizabethtown College students are coming up with blisters of the hands and mild cases of poison ivy.

At last report there were 17 hardy souls who donned old clothes each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and "roughed it" in the wilds of the woods on the eastern end of the campus.

All are members of the newly-initiated Camp Counseling Class, and their chief tools for the course are pocket knives, hatchets, axes and a rugged constitution.

Under the direction of Miss Julia Risser, instructor in physical education for women, the group is learning the basic fundamentals in how to conduct a summer camp.

Included in the course are studies of wood chopping methods, outdoor cooking, methods of sanitation, and general safety in the woods. They are building bridges, making fires, digging garbage pits and in general learning to live a fairly comfortable life in the outdoors.

Miss Risser explained that the course is being offered for the benefit of those students who are going into social work which might involve counseling at summer camps for young people.

"Our emphasis in the course is on practical experience rather than classroom study," she related. "We go outside as often as the weather permits."

At present the group is primarily concerned with clearing the camp site for later cookouts and an overnight camping trip, which will serve as a climax for the group prior to the final examination.

Members of the class have shown an avid interest in their work. They've brushed aside the minor inconveniences that go with outdoor life, such as poison ivy and briar scratches, and gone about their various tasks with determination and with a growing degree of efficiency.

MANY IN GRADUATE WORK

Business Department Completes Study Of Students' Post-Graduate Pursuits

by John E. Way, Jr.

Prof. Albert L. Gray, Jr., head of the department of business at Elizabethtown College has conducted a survey to find the answers to some frequent questions of the undergraduate.

Nancy Swanson to Wed

A June wedding is planned for Nancy C. Swanson, Mt. Joy, and Dr. James Roy King, Haddonfield, N. J. Their engagement was announced recently by her mother.

Some of the most repeated questions are: What kind of jobs do our college graduates get? How many go on to graduate schools? Is there any follow-up of the alumni? Does our undergraduate teaching program meet some of the needs of the men and women in industry?

In order to answer some of these questions Prof. Gray sent a postal card data form to all the graduates since 1952. He came up with some statistics which may be of interest.

The five-year total for business graduates is 91. Of these, 19 are doing or have completed graduate work. This would mean that 21 per cent. have done graduate work upon leaving college with a B.S. degree in Business Administration or Business Education.

According to Prof. Gray, 23 of these graduates were veterans before they graduated and since graduation 14 have completed their military obligation. There are 12 graduates who are currently in military service and 33 who have yet to serve in the army.

Many Become Teachers

Oddly enough, the greatest number of business graduates have gone into the teaching field. There are 18 in all.

Industrial or private accounting has claimed ten, and sales also claimed ten. Public Accounting and Secretarial work have each absorbed four. graduates with Banking and Production each taking five graduates. One graduate is self-employed and one has become a housewife. This seems to give a fair picture of the many facets of endeavor awaiting college graduates in the future.

CLUB BEAT

LSA

Six students made the trip to Buckhill Falls, Pa., on March 1 to represent our college at a three-day regional conference of the Lutheran Student Association of America.

Claire Boyd, Pat Nace, Marguerite Dum, Bruce Slaybaugh, Paul Shelley and Glenn Snelbecker were among 400 students attending the conference, representing 72 colleges.

Chief speaker at the conference was the Rev. Krister Stendahl, Ph.D., of Harvard Divinity School, formerly of the University of Upsala, Sweden. The theme was "A Straw in the Wind."

Sock and Buskin

The formal initiation ceremonies for this year's new members will be held in the Alpha Hall living room on March 25.

Initiates are Ruthanne Butterbaugh, Ruthanne Yeager, Arthur Lawton, Donald Knaub and Jere Wolf.

Phi Beta Chi

Speaker at the March 4 meeting was Dr. Hunter, an orthopedic surgeon at the Elizabethtown Crippled Children's Hospital. His talk included information on different branches of surgery, with special attention to the work of the orthopaediatrician.

On March 21 a field trip will be made by club members to the RCA laboratories in Lancaster.

What's New at the Library

Enlightenment or entertainment? Regardless of his purpose, each student should be able to find something here which he will enjoy reading.

PASTIMES FOR TWO by Albert Ostrow, a book containing suggestions on just what the title infers, is one that should interest all E-C young married students.

Many veterans will enjoy reading DON'T GO NEAR THE WATER, a humorous narrative by William Brinkley telling about the amusing experiences of navy men who took desk jobs after the war.

For those interested in a scientific expose, the library has THE PILTDOWN FORGERY by Joseph Weiner. HALLOWED GROUND by Bruce Canton is a book that those who like history will enjoy.

The literary-minded of our campus will be interested in some of the new novels. THE FOUNTAIN OVERFLOWS by Rebecca West, TWILIGHT FOR THE GODS by Ernest Gann, and A SINGLE PEBBLE by John Hersey are almost certain to please. Guy Endore has written a book about Alexander Dumas entitled KING OF PARIS and THE UNICORN, a novel around which much controversy centers, has been written by Anne Lindberg. Both are now in the stacks.

Pre-ministerial students will want to read THE WORLD'S GREAT RELIGIONS which is illustrated magnificently in brilliant colors.

So Long, Tom

GOODBYE TO UNCLE TOM is a critical appraisal of UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. All sociologists note that this book by Joseph Furness is classified under race relations. Those interested in psychology will be pleased to hear that the library has a number of new books on mental hospitals and mental care.

One of the newest and most intriguing books is COMPULSION by Meyer Levin. This is a psychological novel based on the facts of the Leopold-Loeb murder trial. Leopold and Loeb were two brilliant young men who thought themselves to be supermen. They planned to commit the 'perfect murder,' believing they would not be caught and if they would be apprehended by some unforeseen event, they could not be punished because since they were supermen they were not governed by ordinary law. This book tells about the many worthy things done by these men after their trial.

Field Trip Planned

Fifteen members of the classes of marketing and salesmanship will take a field trip to the Masland Rug Company, Carlisle, March 25. The group will be given a practical demonstration of processes used in the rug industry. Mrs. Irene Simsack is the instructor in charge.

May Day Program Taking Shape as Committee Plans

While the final details for this year's May Day celebration are still to be ironed out, the broad outline of the day's activities has taken shape, according to Kathryn Swigart, May Day committee chairman.

Scheduled for May 11, the day's program will feature the crowning of the queen in the dell early in the afternoon.

The new dormitory will be formally dedicated in the Church of the Brethren after the ceremony. The dedication ceremonies will in turn be followed by the Queen's Tea in the new women's residence.

Climaxing the day's agenda will be a performance of the operetta, "The Fortune Teller," in the auditorium-gymnasium in the evening.

In addition to Miss Swigart, the following are members of the planning committee: Deloris Bolze, Lenora Shenk, M. Louise Reed, Jean Ann Rogers, Audrey Kilhefner, Verna Weaver, John Ranck, Ronald Varner, Kenneth Miller and Carl Spease.

Traveling Choir Begins New Tour

Members of the traveling choir have begun packing their bags for a concert tour beginning next week that will take them to several cities in eastern and western Pennsylvania.

Churches of the Brethren in Greencastle and Waynesboro will be presented sacred concerts by the college traveling choir on March 24, followed by a presentation on March 31 at the Church of the Brethren in Midway.

On Friday, April 12, the choir will begin a Western Penna. tour, singing at Hollidaysburg that evening and New Enterprise on Saturday evening, followed by concerts at Woodbury and Everett on Sunday. The Martinsburg Church of the Brethren will be host to the choir Monday, April 15, and the tour will close on Tuesday evening when a concert will be given at Spring Run, McVeytown.

Soloists in the concerts are Romaine Dusman, Ruthanne Butterbaugh, Kenneth Miller and Deloris Turner. The men's and women's quartets also present selections.

VISION OF MAY DAY . . . Members of the student committee planning this year's May Day program meet in the Student Activities Office to outline their scheduled activities. They are, from left: (seated) Deloris Bolze, Verna Weaver and Jean Ann Rogers; (standing) Audrey Kilhefner, Ronald Varner, Lenora Shenk, Kathryn Swigart, chairman, and Philip Seese.

'Fortune Teller' Will Be Staged

Several college groups will join together to present "The Fortune Teller," an operetta by Victor Herbert, May 10 and 11 in the college auditorium-gymnasium.

May 11 is the annual May Day.

Professor Nevin Fisher will direct the musical production. The college choir will be the operetta chorus.

Dramatic production will be directed by Mrs. Clarence Enterline. Her play production class will help in the staging of the operetta.

Mrs. Helen J. Sheely, college art instructor, and her art class will create the scenery.

Orchestral accompaniment will be furnished by the college orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Noah Klauss.

Tryouts for the musical drama, which are open to everyone, will be held in the near future.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Our Campus: What It Was, Is, Will Be

It is frequently heard that Elizabethtown College has one of the most beautiful campuses among colleges of Pennsylvania. My acquaintance with a rather large number of colleges in Pennsylvania and in other states prompts me to agree.

In the summer of 1899 the founders of Elizabethtown College walked over the farm, then owned by Benjamin Groff, to decide upon the location for the first building. They walked through a wheat field and agreed upon the spot where Alpha Hall is now located. They certainly chose a most beautiful place for the first building. Additional tracts were secured from time to time. In 1920 the Alumni Association purchased the tract east of the Gymnasium road. During the past year the Board of Trustees acquired an additional tract of approximately ten acres. The total campus is now about sixty acres.

It is within the memory of several of us when the areas where Fairview Hall, the Library, the Gymnasium, North and South Halls, now stand, were farmed as a cornfield and a potato patch.

Only two years ago the old apple orchard had to be uprooted to make room for the new Women's Dormitory.

The tract between the Women's Dormitory and the sanctuary of the Church of the Brethren is to be developed into a campus. The tract east of the Gymnasium road and south of the men's dormitory will continue another year to be used for a potato field.

The Senior Class of 1957 is now landscaping the island area between the drives in front of the women's dormitory. The College will landscape in other areas around this building. This will have to be done in stages because of the cost.

The Senior Class deserves our sincere praise for this splendid contribution to our beautiful campus.

Their work in helping to landscape our campus will be a fitting memorial to each member of the class and a challenge to everyone who appreciates a beautiful campus.

Three New Instructors to Join Faculty for Next College Year

President A. C. Baugher has announced the addition of three new members to the faculty for the 1957-58 school term. Two of these men have already received their Ph.D. degrees and the other is presently working toward his. These men will join the staff in the Departments of Chemistry, Religion, History and Sociology.

Science Building To Be Next Object In Development Plan

The addition of a west wing to the Gibble Science building in the near future initiates the second phase of the Ten-year Development Program.

When completed the first floor of the new wing will include a lecture room for 200 students, one classroom seating 70 students, another classroom for 40, and also a visual-education room and several offices.

On the second floor will be the biology department and a departmental library.

"With the addition of a new wing to the present science building, the floor space for chemistry, biology and physics will be double what we have at present," reported Dr. A. C. Baugher, president.

The Gibble Science building, erected in 1927, was constructed with provisions for expansion. Continuing the Colonial type architecture, the proposed addition to the science building will be a brick structure with an imposing entrance facing Alpha drive.

The administration is presently soliciting additional funds which will be needed to complete the work on this building. It is hoped plans can be submitted to contractors for bids so that construction can begin early this spring.

Dr. James M. Berkebile will become a full-time Professor of Chemistry next September. He will come here from Kansas where he is now serving as the Dean of McPherson College, a position he has held since 1950.

Dr. Berkebile received his B.A. degree from Manchester College in 1934 and then earned his master's degree at Ohio State University in 1935. While teaching high school in Ohio for several years, he moved up to principal and then to acting superintendent by 1940. From 1940 to 1943 he was employed as an industrial chemist in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Taught Chemistry

He taught chemistry at McPherson College 1943 until 1948 when he returned to Ohio State to get his Ph.D. in chemistry in 1951. In addition to his administrative duties, he has taught classes in chemistry, mathematics and education.

He also has served as pastor of the Monitor Church of the Brethren in Kansas since 1954.

Armon Snowden of the Class of 1951 will return to his Alma Mater as an instructor in Bible and Religion next fall. He is presently completing his work for the Ph.D. degree at Duke University in the field of Religion, having completed the requirements for a Bachelor of Divinity degree at Crozier Theological Seminary.

Dr. Carlton O. Wittlinger, professor of History and Registrar of Messiah College, Grantham, Pa., will spend his sabbatical leave here to assist in the Departments of History and Sociology.

Study of Career Opportunities For Students

(In cooperation with Dean Roy McAuley, the ETOWNIAN presents the following information on some of the scholarship and career opportunities available through the college placement program. More details on these and other opportunities may be had by contacting Dr. McAuley.)

Educational Opportunities

Tufts University is offering graduate work in psychology, education, physics, economics, philosophy, biology, chemistry, romance languages, history, English, and many other fields. Scholarships and assistantships are available.

Graduate assistantships and fellowships in many of the same and other fields are also being offered by the University of Maine for the coming school year.

The Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration is offering a two-year course of study leading to a degree of Master of Business Administration. No qualified man will be prevented from attending the program because of financial limitations. Applications must be filed by May 1.

Graduate work in business and public administration is also offered at Cornell University.

The Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, has announced that graduate assistantships are available for work in applied art, child development, food and nutrition, textiles and clothing, and home economics education.

Job or Career Opportunities

The Civil Service Commission has announced examinations for the following positions: Guided Missile Control Repairer, Radar Equipment Installer and Repairer, Guided Missile Mechanical Systems Repairer, and Electronic Trainee for Guided Missile and Radar Equipment Repairer.

Young women to teach weekday religious education in Virginia are being sought by the Virginia Council of Churches.

A career as an executive with the Allied Stores Corporation has been announced for graduates of the Class of '57. Executive training is offered in the fields of merchandising, sales promotion, control, personnel and operations.

The Vacation Employment Service for teachers and students has published a directory of vacation job opportunities in summer camps. The book is available in the dean's office.

Opportunities for teaching positions in Lorain, Ohio and San Diego, California have been announced. Starting salaries in San Diego are $4,300. Salaries in Lorain begin at $4,000.

The U. S. Navy's Overseas Employment Office has issued a list of job openings, mostly technical, in the Pacific area, including Japan, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Racketmen to Open Against Washington

The sound of a tennis racket hitting a tennis ball will soon begin to puncture the air from east of the boys' dorm as the E-town "racket squad" tries to pick the top six men to represent the Blue Jays this season.

The tennis squad faces a tough 12-match schedule with only three lettermen returning. John Smith, Kent Repleglo and Don Price are the only three to survive graduation. They hope to receive assistance from some freshmen prospects and those who were not fortunate enough to make last year's outfit.

Coach Don Smith's netmen travel to Washington U., a new addition to the schedule, for the season's opener on April 6. Juniors come to E-town on the ninth for the first Blue Jay appearance at home when the locals will try to avenge their two defeats by the Indians last year.

The next day the teachers from Millersville, beaten twice by the Birds a year ago, will invade the home courts. Dickinson, who was victorious twice last season, plays host to the locals on April 26.

Profs Down Senate; Men Defeat Jaygals In Charity Games

IN AN EVENING of basketball fun and entertainment last Tuesday night the men's dorm defeated the men's varsity 44-39, and the faculty overcame the student senate by a 51-47 count. The games were played for the benefit of Campus Chest and attracted an estimated 250 fans.

In the opener, "Wailing" Wohnsiedler's boys, playing by women's rules, were forced to overcome a 16-2 deficit in the first quarter. They began closing the gap about midway through the second stanza, but did not take the lead until Carl Denlinger hit on a jump shot to put them one point up at 35-34 with 3:55 left to play.

Jack Reed and Ken Bowers were the big guns for the dorm with 20 and 11 points respectively. Kitty Swigart with 15 and Rachel Keller with 11 set the pace for Coach Risser's team.

In the finale the faculty, bolstered by the addition of the "clowns," came from behind to defeat the student senate team. The faculty stars were led by Dean Greene who hit for 9 points and Carl "Easy" Heilman who poured through 4 counters. One of the clowns, Pat Rafter, led all of the faculty scorers with 16 points which tied him with Bob Blessing of the senate for the top point production of the contest.

Entertainment was provided by the Pep Band and the Gas House Combo, plus the three daffy clown cheerleaders Pat Rafter, Bob Wert and George Gerlach.

South Hall Takes MIMBA Crown Two-way Tie for Bowling Honors

WINTER INTRA-MURALS came to a close recently as the South Hall Warriors clinched the MIMBA title and the women's bowling league ended in a two-team tie for first place.

The Warriors finished undefeated as Gene Bucher's 14 points paced them to a 46-28 win over the Hill Top Hawks. "Shorty" Keller's 14 markers helped the Private Pistons conquer the Ridge Road Royals 40-26 and finish in second place. The night saw Center Hall and Bill Hoar's 21 points rout the Placida Lakers 55-27 enabling the Celts to tie the North Hall Nats for third place.

The previous week saw the Pistons defeat the Hawks 35-22 as Keller hit for 16 and the Warriors overwhelm the Royals 63-24 with Ken Bowers' 17 leading the way. In a closely contested match, Rafter's 25 proved the difference as the Nats edged the Lakers 47-42 and Phil Seese's 11 led the Celts to a 41-29 triumph over the Hawks.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

It's too bad we didn't have some rip snortin' home tilt lined up for the final game of the season which happened to be the final appearance in a Blue Jay basketball uniform for Sal Paone, Tony Arcuri and Bob Wert.

The team just wasn't up for the season ender at Albright, and what's more, the Lions payed better ball than usual, if not over their heads. The crowd in the Reading fieldhouse didn't make the bowing out ceremony a pleasant affair either.

All three dribblers had a good portion of grand moments the last several years in the not-too-spacious Alumni Gym as well as on other floors such as the Hershey Arena. However, two other deserving lads, Bob Goudie and Fred Noel, had a less fortunate fate as both were unable to finish the season. It just doesn't seem right, but things like that happen to the best of us.

Little known to most everyone was the fact that Ace Baugher is a certified basketball official and spent much of the recent season picking up a little cash by officiating games in the Harrisburg area.

The chunky senior of No. 1 South Hall is a member of the Harrisburg Chapter of the PIAA basketball officials. He refereed varsity, junior varsity and junior high games usually on Tuesday and Friday nights—41 in all.

Ace needs only recommendations to be qualified for working soccer games next season, and he also is planning to take tests that will qualify him in baseball.

Two E-towners along with a host of ex-Blue Jays recently played in the Red Lion Invitation basketball tournament held at Red Lion High School on March 6, 7 and 8.

Bob Blessing and Fred Noel were on the same team with such past Jays as Dick Stine, Hal Wilson, George McCue and Dodie Crumpling. The team won one out of three and finished fourth among eight teams. Blessing and Noel both averaged about 10 ppg. in the three contests.

With only three lettermen back for another fling, the tennis team should be wide open to any one with a flare for rackets. Right now it looks like John Smith is in line to be first man. He won five of his singles matches last season and teamed with the graduated Ralph Moyer as the best doubles combination. Kent Repleglo won four singles matches a year ago, and he teamed with Don Price in doubles.

Two freshmen of Donegal fame in Jack Beaston and Gene Groff will probably be valuable additions to the squad should they be eligible to play. We also have heard that Sal Paone, fresh from the basketball court as player and junior varsity coach, is also seeking a starting berth. Along with any other unknown newcomers, Coach Smith should have a gang of netmen that will hold its own.

SCORING LEADERS
Rafter, Nats -----	87	21.8
Berrick, Hawks -----	59	14.8
Keller, Pistons -----	83	13.8

On March 1 the MIMBA all-stars nosed out the Warriors 54-53 as a preliminary to the varsity contest with Lycoming. Rafter and Bob Blessing shared scoring honors with 23 points apiece.

The eight-team bowling league of the WAA completed its schedule last week with Jean Maybe's team 2 and Shirley Prange's team 7 deadlocked for first place with four and two records. Five other teams were tied for third place with 3-3 records.

Miss Maybe teamed with Rachel Keller, Joanne Brant, Mary Lou Shepp and Connie Hyden while Captain Prange was supported by Joan Rigler, Marty Reese, Harriet Radcliff and Marion Gilchrist.

Battlin' Bluejay

by Daniel Peterman

Bluejays are known to be rather rowdy, raucous birds, and the one at Elizabethtown College looks up to no one on this score.

Many schools have mascots with such nomenclature as Tigers, Lions, Indians and Eagles, but for all their trumped up ferociousness never seem to match the audacity of this Bluejay.

All through the basketball season so recently ended the noisy bird with the blue and white plumage has been inciting near-mayhem every time he gets the chance. His battle for recognition in basketball circles has included fights with rival players, fans, coaches and even referees.

For some odd reason, his work, which is manifested through the Elizabethtown players, always seems to be blamed on someone, or something else, and this makes him fight and argue all the more. It is about time that the Bluejay starts getting some recognition, basketball-wise, or his actions may really get out of hand, figuratively speaking.

Rachel Keller Finishes College Career in Basketball, Hockey

by Lorell Price

TO RACHEL KELLER, sports are a challenge, and three successful seasons in a Jaygal uniform have demonstrated that she is more than equal to the task.

Since her transfer from Ursinus College, the Lebanon lass has sparked two successful hockey teams and recently won her third basketball letter. A center half-back on the hockey team, Rachel's performance was remarkable considering she had little experience in the sport before coming to E-town.

She was a bulwark in Coach Risser's defensive scheme which helped produce an 8-1 record this year. She got a personal thrill in the Jaygals' unblemished performance at the Wilson College tournament last fall.

It is in basketball, where she had considerable high school experience, the sandy-haired lass really sparkled. She has been a high-scoring forward for two years, notching a game average of 15.5 last year in helping the Bluebirds to a 7-4 record.

She started out even stronger this year until Coach Risser ran into defensive difficulties during the Lebanon Valley game. In the interest of the team, Rachel switched to guard and now can be seen playing either position depending on where her abilities are most needed. Rachel considers the current team an exceptionally fine one and was pleased by its fine showing in the narrow loss to the highly-touted East Stroudsburg team.

Besides varsity competition Rachel has participated in intramural bowling and badminton. Her hobbies include camp counseling singing and dramatics; and she is an active member of the Varsity "E" Club, F.T.A. and the Committee of Women's Affairs. Her personal attractiveness and charming personality have earned her a place in the May Court for the past two years.

Except for practice teaching, Rachel will have completed her studies by the end of this year, thus E-town fans will have to bid adieu to the versatile maiden. After graduation she plans to teach English, if possible coach hockey and basketball and eventually become a qualified basketball referee.

Rachel loves competition, but philosophically says, "Win or lose, the next game will soon be here presenting a new challenge, and the old must be forgotten."

In the 16-game season, the junior varsity finished with 1013 points for an average of 63.3 while the opposition scored 1027 good for a 64.2 norm. Kent Repleglo paced the pack offensively with 195 tallies and a 13-point average while Ed Geiger got the individual high of 28 in the season opener with Dickinson.

Rachel Keller

JV's End Season at 7 Wins, 9 Losses

The junior varsity five lost a 67-51 decision to Albright in the final game of the season recently and thereby failed to finish at the .500 mark with seven wins and nine losses.

They had previously brought the slate to seven and eight with wins over P.M.C. and Millersville after losing for the second time to Stevens Trade.

Trailing 32-31 at half-time in the last game the dribblers of Coach Sal Paone lagged in the second half while the Lions got hot, and that was the ball game. Kent Repleglo pumped through 16 for the Jay.

Repleglo	15	195	13
Dent	11	128	11.6
Geiger	16	180	11.3
Miller	15	162	10.8

Prior to that the locals came from behind to swamp Millersville 71-55 and lost the lead only in the last three minutes in a 77-74 defeat at the hands of Stevens Trade. Dent scored 22 at Millersville and 18 against the Traders as high man in both games. Repleglo paced the Blue and Gray with 14 in a 51-50 thriller at Dickinson, back on Feb. 18.

The Blue Jays finished on top of the Southern Division of the ECAC league with a 12-3 record, the last loss to Albright coming after the selections had been made. But we were still overpassed in favor of Drexel and F. & M., who played a game which Drexel won.

Although our record was not as good as the 12-0 record of Drexel, I think there should have been a play-off between the Dragons and us, rather than F. & M. But as usual the judges seemingly overlooked us in favor of two schools which play schedules, especially Drexel, that are inferior to ours. It is my opinion that this present set-up will be just as much of a hand-picked farce as it always has been until percentages are the only basis for picking a champion. This includes a game between sectional leaders to pick the tournament representative. Here's hoping someone wises up!

For the last three years our basketball team has had winning records of 14-9, 18-6 and 15-7. This makes Coach Smith's record since coming to E-town, 47-22. Given a wealth of talent to coach when he came; he has driven them to set quite a few school records in these three seasons. The floor record has been broken and raised five different times and now stands at 120 points. Last year's 18-6 record is also a big goal for future teams to shoot at.

Coach Herr reports that there will be no baseball game on May Day this year as originally scheduled. It seems that the administration feels it will conflict with the dedication of the new girls' dorm. I feel that this will take a lot away from the festivities of this occasion for the parents and old grads who will be on campus that day.

I want to take this time to pick an all-star team of players who have played at E-town in the four years I have been here. This team played together at times last year. The choice was difficult but I feel that these Blue Jays could beat any other collection.

All-Star Team

Jim Chase	'58	F
Tony Arcuri	'57	F
Dick Stine	'56	C
Sal Paone	'57	G
Jim Sarbaugh	'58	G

Honorable Mention — Harvey Jacobs and Bob Wert.

A new school record must have been set the day after John Hollinger wrestled his last match in the G-burg tourney. It seems that John gained 11 pounds in 24 hours!

Jaygal Cagers Maul Albright; End Season at 8 Wins, 2 Losses

COACH JULIA RISSEUR'S Jaygal basketballers terminated their season at eight wins and two losses Wednesday evening when they trounced Albright 58-33 at Reading.

The Bluebirds finished strong with three straight wins, taking Lebanon Valley and Gettysburg also after losing a thriller to East Stroudsburg, 69-65.

Kitty Swigart and Kay Barron did the bulk of the scoring in the season finale with 21 and 29 points respectively as Rachel Keller added 15. Mary Bovaird's 13 points led the junior varsity to a 35-24 win over the junior lionesses in the night-cap.

The Gals picked up their seventh win on March 9 when they gained revenge on Lebanon Valley with a 54-44 triumph on the home floor. The feminine Dutchmen had previously upset the locals 51-50 at Annville. Miss Barron was high in this one with 24 followed by Kitty Swigart's 22.

Four days earlier the Gals drubbed Gettysburg for the second time this year—this time 57-19 in a home fray when Kay Barron dumped in 24 counters.

On March 2 East Stroudsburg handed the birds their last licking of the season when they outclassed the locals 69-65 at E-town despite a 35-point effort by Miss Barron.

Before that the Blue and Gray trimmed Millersville and Bridgewater after losing a close one to Lebanon Valley. The scores in those were 57-41, 52-34 and 51-50, in that order.

Ken Bowers Congratulates Phil Seese.

The champ has already received a medal and will be presented with a trophy for his achievement when the engraving is completed. Incidentally, he wisely refused to reveal his formula as he plans to use the same one next year.

Lorell Price was a close second with a 14-3 record. His downfalls came in the road tilts with Susquehanna, West Chester and Millersville.

Honorable mentions go out to Gene Bucher and Ace Baugher who had 12-4 and 12-5 records respectively. Both hit two games on the nose. Lois Tintle also won honors when she hit two consecutive contests.

The Sports staff, which was ineligible for any awards, fared rather well with Carl Denlinger ranking first with a commendable 18-4 mark and three bull's eyes. Don Price and Ken Bowers each finished with identical 16-6 records.

In the last set of games none of the writers had exact forecasts, but several others were successful. Lois Tintle and Betsy Lohr foresaw the 10-point Lycoming victory while Miss Tintle again and Nancy Bosselman were exact with 15-point wins over P.M.C. Ace Baugher, who hit the Juniata home game on the head, duplicated the feat with a perfect 12-point prediction over the Indians in the Huntingdon tilt.

Phil Moser and Phil Seese each missed the P.M.C. struggle by one.

Coach Herr's Baseballers Open Season With G-burg at Home; 9 Veterans Return

COACH IRA HERR'S baseball squad is beginning its last two weeks of practice before the first game of the season. The Blue Jays open at home Thursday, April 4, against Gettysburg and come right back to face Washington College two days later on the local diamond.

Gettysburg will attempt to get the season going this year without the rain which drowned out last year's contest. We also ran into a surplus of humidity at Washington College and therefore this will be their first appearance as an E-town opponent.

Coach Herr will soon be making the first cut from the 35 men who reported to the first practice. Among this group of hopefuls were nine men from last year's team which had a 10-7 record. Unable to report for the first few weeks is veteran first-base man, Bob Goudie, who has undergone a leg operation.

Bob Wert, shortstop, and Lowell Price, outfield, are the only two seniors among the returning. Bob batted .318, was second in RBI's with 15, and was the only player to hit two homers in the last campaign. Lowell batted .272 and was rated as the best defensive outfielder, having gone through 17 games without a miscue.

Returnees from the Junior class include Lancaster County's best hitter, Jim Sarbaugh, a third baseman who led the team in hitting, .422; hits, 27; runs, 27 (tied with Wert); RBI's, 18; and doubles, 7; while striking out only two times. He has won the county batting title the past two seasons. Don Witman (.242) returns behind the plate and Al Barrick, outfield carries a .400 batting average into the G-burg game.

Bruce Wohnsdorfer and Sheldon Dent are the two veteran workhorses of the mound staff who sported 3-4 and 3-2 records respectively a year ago. Bruce, a southpaw, pitched the most games, 9, struck out the most, 75, and walked the most, 32 batters in 63 1/3 innings. Sheldon, only a sophomore who throws from the third-base side, came on strong at the end of the schedule. Together these men should be the backbone of the Blue Jay mound corps.

Jack Reed, infield, and Gene Wise, outfield, are two sophomores who figure strongly in Coach Herr's plans. Jack began the season by hitting hard but tailed off to a .238 batting average, while Gene came on strong from the "wrong" side of the plate to bat a lusty .346.

Rounding out the Jays' veterans is Stan Miller, an outfielder, who returns from the service with hopes of regaining a starting berth.

SPRING TRAINING . . . Coach Herr observes as Don Witman and Bruce Wohnsdorfer limber up in one of the early practice sessions.

Matmen Finish Season at 4-6

Coach Robert Byerly's matmen completed the wrestling season at four wins and six losses recently when they bounded Lincoln 21-12 at Oxford on Feb. 26.

The victory followed losses to Gettysburg and Ursinus and two previous defeats that constituted a four-game losing streak which prevented E-town from its first 500 season.

Three decisions, a fall, a draw and a forfeit accounted for the locals' 21 points in the season finale. John Anwyll contributed the fall as John Hollinger won his eighth straight bout of the season on a 5-1 decision.

A week earlier, the Blue Jay muscle men played host to Get-tyburg and lost their sixth of the season by a decisive 29-3 count. Hollinger mustered the Jays' only points with a 5-3 decision in the 137-lb. class.

On Feb. 16 the Byerlymen lost a close one when Ursinus nosed them out 18-15 on the strength of two decisions, a fall and a draw, and a forfeit. John Anwyll got the Jays a five-point lead with a pin, and, after a forfeit, Hollinger and Bill Kendig tallied five more with a decision and draw respectively. The rest of the way it was all Ursinus except for Terry Bush's fall in the heavyweight division.

Hollinger's win came over Dick Padula who hadn't lost a college bout up till then and was enjoying a 60-bout winning streak throughout his high school and college career.

Captain John Hollinger led the grapplers for the third straight year as he contributed 30 points to the Blue Jay scoring column. His record was 7-1-1 with two of the eight wins coming via falls. His lone loss was against Millersville in the season opener.

John Anwyll, 123-pounder, was second at 25 points and a 5-4-1 record. He had four falls. Larry Seiders was third with 16 points and a 4-6 mark.

Jay Cagers End Season with 15 Wins, 7 Losses; Lose to Albright, M-ville; Lace Lycoming, PMC

AFTER THE BRAWL IS OVER . . . Larry Seiders and John Hollinger discuss the wrestling tourney shortly after their return from Gettysburg.

John Hollinger and Larry Seiders Vie In G-burg Tourney

John Hollinger and Larry Seiders recently represented Elizabethtown College in the Middle Atlantic Conference wrestling championships held at Gettysburg College.

The meets held on March 1 and 2 saw both Blue Jay grapplers score wins before eventually bowing in the tournament-like set-up.

Hollinger pinned his first opponent, a Lycoming matman, on Friday night, then lost to Don Reynold of Wilkes on a 5-1 decision on Saturday afternoon. He claimed afterwards, "Reynolds is the best man I've wrestled all year."

Later in the afternoon he pinned a Lafayette grappler and then decisioned Dick Reed of Bucknell 3-0, on Saturday evening for a third place medal in the 137-pound weight class.

The Jay captain didn't get to wrestle Dick Padula of Ursinus who lost the only intercollegiate bout of his life to the local star. The Ursinus ace went on to take first place in the 137-pound class and was chosen most valuable wrestler of the tournament for the second straight year.

All in all, Captain John fared well as he collected eight team points for Elizabethtown.

Seiders (157) was less fortunate in that he didn't get to wrestle on Saturday. He decisioned his first opponent, a Drexel representative, on Friday evening but then lost to Gerry Scanlon of Temple 8-3 who lost first thing Saturday, thus disqualifying Seiders from any more bouts. Scanlon had been seeded first in the 157 class.

E-town's nine team points were good for tenth place among the 15 colleges that were represented at the affair. This is quite commendable considering the fact that Elizabethtown had fewer men entered than any other institution.

Record is Second Only To Last Year's 18-6 Mark

Elizabethtown College closed out its second best basketball season in history at 15-7 last Saturday with little fanfare as they dropped an 82-74 decision to Albright at Reading in the season finale.

The local quintet sandwiched victories over P.M.C. and Lycoming between that defeat and their second loss to Millersville. Prior to that they recorded a record-breaking triumph over Susquehanna after handily trimming Dickinson and Juniata.

Lose to Lions

Albright took advantage of the under-manned Jaybirds with a flurry of sharp shooting late in the second half. The game was a closely contested scrap the whole way, but the Jays ran out of steam and the Lions didn't.

Five Blue Jays went the distance except for Jim Sarbaugh's brief fling on the bench after he was bruised on the hip seconds before intermission. Tony Arcuri was high with 19 followed by Sal Paone's 17, Jim Chase's 16, Sarbaugh's 15 and Bob Wert's 10.

Pounce on P.M.C.

The local five captured their fifteenth and last win of the season on March 6 when they outscored P.M.C. 91-76 in the campus gym.

The Cadets hung on stubbornly throughout the first half and part of the second, but then Arcuri got hot and the E-towners pulled away to ice it. Wert and Arcuri paced the Smithmen with 22 apiece. Sarbaugh added 19.

Lace Lycoming

Less than a week earlier the Smithmen whipped Lycoming 80-70 on the home floor. A run of eight straight points midway through the first half gave the winners a 10-point lead and they led the rest of the way.

Paone combined nine fielders and eight fouls for a game high total of 26. Wert, Arcuri and Chase backed him up with 16, 14 and 13, in that order.

Bow to Teachers

On Tuesday evening of the same week, the locals lost their chance at a NAIA tournament bid when they bowed to M.S.T.C. by one point in a wild and woolly affair in Brooks Hall, Millersville. The 83-82 battle saw plenty of action including rhubarbs and a miniature riot.

A poor start hampered the Jays early as they found themselves on the short end of an 11-0 score at the very outset of the contest. They came back slowly, though, cutting the margin to six by intermission.

Midway through the final canio the Birds started moving, closed the gap, and grabbed a two-point lead. The Marauders stormed back quickly from there and, between several highly disputed plays, mustered a three-point surplus with seconds remaining. Sarbaugh then sank a fielder, but time ran out and the Jays narrowly missed the playoffs for the second time in two years.

Wert, who was hitting on sets in the first half, netted 20 for the Jays as Arcuri and Paone collected 18 and 16 respectively.

Swamp Susquehanna

Prior to that the cagers of Coach Smith smashed several records when they revengefully romped over Susquehanna 120-49 in the Alumni Gym.

Arcuri was high with 30 as Paone scored 23 and Wert 21, and while his mates were running up the score, Captain Jim Sarbaugh held Susquehanna ace, Frank Romano to his season's low of five points.

Former All-American To Address Athletes

Harry O. Dayhoff, former All-American football player, will speak at the annual Varsity "E" banquet on May 14.

Now director of parks in Harrisburg, Mr. Dayhoff is also a leading football official who has refereed several Army-Navy games.

He will be introduced by K. Ezra Bucher, toastmaster for the occasion scheduled for the college dining hall at 7 p. m.

Invitations have been sent to all members of men's and women's varsity athletic teams. The college yearly acknowledges athletic achievement by awarding the "E" or an appropriate certificate.

Prof. Nevin W. Fisher Featured in Recital

Gettysburg College was the scene for a piano recital given by Prof. Nevin W. Fisher last evening.

He was assisted by a mixed quartet from this college, who sang some of his hymn compositions.

Professor Fisher played selections by Romantic composers Schubert, Chopin, Liszt and Brahms, as well as some of his own compositions.

The recital was sponsored by Mr. Henry Ackley and Dr. Fred Schaeffer, both members of the Gettysburg College faculty. Mr. Ackley has sung a number of times as guest soloist at Elizabethtown College.

Registration Set For Fall Classes

Pre-registration for the first semester of the 1957-58 school year will take place from May 6 to May 17. Students are urged to make early appointments with their advisers and to fill out the cards in ink.

The pre-registration period affords an opportunity for students to plan their courses prior to the start of the new semester. The schedule for the fall semester will be posted by April 29.

Since changes do occur in the curriculum during the summer, it will be necessary for students to make a final check on their schedules at the fall registration.

The registrar's office is presently in the process of preparing rating sheets for members of the junior class. These sheets indicate work already completed by juniors and work still to be completed before graduation. The rating sheets will be ready by the time of pre-registration.

Final Exams Set

Final examinations have been scheduled for the last week of May. Tests will be administered Monday through Friday, May 27 to 31.

New Student Officials Will Be Feted Tonight

Senators, editors and members of the Committees on Men's and Women's Affairs will be guests of the college at a dessert meeting called for 7:45 p. m. tonight in the college dining hall.

The meeting will provide orientation for the newly-elected student groups in such matters as college organization, plans for the coming years, and projects to be undertaken.

Faculty participating in the conference will include Pres. A. C. Baugher; Dean Roy McAuley; Wilbur Weaver, business manager; K. Ezra Bucher, treasurer; Eby C. Espenshade, director of admissions; Emma R. Engle, registrar; Robert Byerly, director of religious activities; D. Paul Greene, dean of Men, and Vera R. Hackman, dean of women and director of student activities.

Audrey Sprenkle to Reign as Queen of May; Full Program May 11 To Include Dedication of Residence, Tea, Tours and Operetta

OUR MAY COURT . . . Members of Elizabethtown's May Court pose for one of their first group pictures. From the left, they are (front row): Sylvia Santee, '60; Esther Hershman, '58; Frances Hoover, '59; Martha Reese, '60; (rear): Rachel Keller, '58; Barbara Theel, '57; Pauline Wolfe, '57, maid of honor; Audrey Sprenkle, '57, May Queen; Wanda Sprow, '57, and Phyllis Moser, '59.

'Fortune Teller' May Day Operetta

by Carl Denlinger

The departments of music and drama will present Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller," at 8 p. m., May 10, 11-as one of the features of May Day.

College students will be admitted to the performances upon the presentation of their activities booklets.

This two-act musical comedy concerns the loss of King Gustav's raffle ticket and the action takes place on a terrace of Count Berezowski's chateau, in Livonia, a small European kingdom. Irma is discovered by Fresco, the ballet master, to have the ticket and confusion then develops. The Count, whose job it is to get the ticket, finds that the only way to get it is to marry her, and her attempt to escape this plight brings about many humorous events.

Ziegler in Lead

The cast, chosen from a series of all-college tryouts, is headed by Lois Ziegler in the part of Irma, Warren Bates as Captain Ladislaus, Ken Miller in the role of Sandor, and Patricia Shelley portraying Musette.

In major supporting roles are cast Pete Thompson as Fresco, Bill Stoneback as Count Berezowski, Ted Yohe playing Boris, and Ruthanne Butterbaugh becomes Mme. Pompon.

College Choir Featured

Playing minor roles are Robert Knappenberger, first agent of the secret police; Kenneth Difffenbach, second agent; James Schell, third agent; Asher Halbeil, Lieutenant Timar; Roger Forry, Lieutenant Almir; Romaine Dusman, Wanda; Elaine Holsinger, Vera; and Emma Hoffman, Vaninka. The college choir of 40 voices will play the various roles of the chorus whose movements on stage will be an outstanding feature.

Prof. Nevin W. Fisher is the music director and Mrs. Mildred Enterline, assisted by Ed Ankeny, is the drama director. Mrs. Helen Sheely, college instructor in art, and George Gerlach are designing the set which will be painted by the class in the teaching of public school art. Larry Turbett is working with Ankeny on the choreography. The class in Dramatic Production will do the stage work.

Queen's Tea to Follow Dedication Service

The May Queen and her court will meet dedication service guests and trustees at the Queen's Tea scheduled for the residence hall lounge immediately following the service in the church May Day.

Friends and families of the members of the court will also attend.

Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. A. C. Baugher and Mrs. Roy McAuley.

Residence Hall for Women To Be Dedicated May Day

Dr. William Edel to Deliver Address;
Pres. A. C. Baugher to Preside at Service

by Betty Jane Holman

A service of dedication for the new Residence Hall for Women will be held at 3:00 p. m. on May Day, May 11, in the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren.

President A. C. Baugher will preside over the service in which several prominent ministers and college officials will take part.

Letters of invitation have been sent to Eastern and Southern Pennsylvania Churches of the Brethren.

The Rev. S. Clyde Weaver, Lancaster, will give the invocation.

Presentation of the key to the residence hall will be made by Paul M. Grubb, chairman of the building committee. J. W. Kettner, chairman of the board of trustees will accept the building.

The audience will participate in an Act of Dedication, led by President Baugher. The Rev. F. S. Carper, Palmyra, will offer a prayer.

Greetings will be conveyed by the chairman of the development committee, H. E. Raffensberger; Nevin H. Zuck, moderator for the Eastern District of Penna.; and Joseph M. Long, moderator for the Southern District of Penna.

The president of Dickinson College, Dr. William E. Edel, will give the address, entitled "The Church and Christian Education."

The Rev. J. L. Miller, York, will give the benediction.

The College Choir, under the direction of Professor Nevin Fisher, will also participate.

Those persons responsible for the dormitory, members of the building committee, are as follows: Paul M. Grubb, chairman; K. Ezra Bucher, secretary, and H. E. Raffensberger, all of Elizabethtown; S. Clyde Weaver, Lancaster; Jacob L. Miller, York, and Eli H. Stoltzfus, Phoenixville.

The architect was J. Alfred Hamme, R.A., York. The contractor was the Savastio Corporation, Hershey. William J. Finley was Government Regional Engineer.

Tours will be conducted through the dormitory following the dedication program.

Juniors Fete Seniors At Hershey May 18

As one of the several activities planned for the remaining weeks of school, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet will be held May 18 at the Hershey Golf Course Club.

Scheduled to begin at 6:30, the graduating seniors will be traditionally feted by the Junior Class for dinner.

Approximately 250 people are expected at the much anticipated event. A prominent speaker will present an after-dinner address.

Campus Electric Lines Changed for More Power

New power lines are being installed on campus at a cost of approximately $13,000 to supply heavier lines to carry higher electric power. Expanding college facilities make this installation imperative.

When the new single meter service goes into effect the line in front of the science building will be removed to make way for the new wing. In addition, the new women's residence line will be changed over from temporary service. The whole operation meets the requirements of the Pennsylvania Utilities Commission.

The eleventh May Queen Audrey Sprenkle and her court will be re-living a scene from a century ago at the crowning festivities on May 11. This annual affair, featuring a pink and white color scheme this year, will be presented at 1:30 p. m. in the dell on the west campus.

Preceding the traditional coronation ceremony a southern plantation garden party will be depicted, complete with an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Noah Klauss, and a troupe of tumblers: Kay Barron, Virginia Horton, Larry Seiders and Jay Greider.

Then a fanfare of trumpets announcing the arrival of the Queen and her court will temporarily interrupt the party for the crowning. Miss Martha Bucher, a member of the board of trustees, will crown the queen. She will be escorted by K. Ezra Bucher, director of the development program. Sandra Hart will be crown-bearer.

Class presidents Frederick Zimmerman, Colvin Carter, John Hollinger and Robert Goudie will present the traditional gifts to the queen—the footstool, scepter, globe and garland.

Queen's Waltz

Further accenting the southern setting, the queen and her court will be entertained by a stately waltz, "Roses from the South." This will be performed by these ladies and gentlemen of the plantation: Jeanne Risser, Carolyn Schneider, Mary Langdon, Ruth Ann Yeager, Russell Lefever, Curtis Reiber, Terry Bush, Lee Miller and Carl Spease.

Winding the Maypole

The age-old custom of winding the Maypole will be carried out by a group of 12 freshmen. Joyce Haller, Mary Lou Shepp, Connie Hyden, Adele Taschner, Carroll Hall, Edith Gebhart, Marilyn Mellinger, Dorothy Hyde, Barbara Yohe, Betty Jane Holman and Ruth Zeigler will wind the white pole with pink streamers.

Following the recessional by the queen and her court to the steps of the new residence hall where pictures will be taken, this group and all guests will proceed to the Church of the Brethren for the dedication of the new women's residence hall.

THIS ISSUE

This issue of the Etownian consists of only four pages due to the necessity of publishing the paper so soon after the Easter vacation.

The May edition will again consist of eight pages.

This annual spring pageant is under the direction of a combined faculty-student committee. Students planning the garden party details are Verna Weaver, Mary Jean Espenshade, Jane MacNeal and Jean Anne Rogers, under the direction of Miss Julia Risser. Coordinating the entire ceremony are Kathryn Swigart, Lenora Shenk, Audrey Kilhefner, Philip Seese and Ronald Varner, under the direction of Miss Vera Hackman.

Also on the program of the full afternoon and evening of activities are a fellowship supper to be held in the dining hall and out of doors between 5 and 7 p. m. and the performance of the operetta "Fortune Teller" in the alumni gymnasium at 8 p. m.

The crowning ceremony will take place in a setting of pink and white dogwood blossoms. The May Day festivities each year coincide with the blossoming of the dogwoods.

Our Young Teachers

In a message President Eisenhower delivered recently in observance of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the National Educational Association, he stated, "Our schools are more important than our Nike batteries, more necessary than our radar warning nets, more powerful even than the energy of the atom."

While the President was speaking of the school construction program in particular, nevertheless his statement reminds us that it is upon the individual classroom teachers that America's educational system is dependent.

In the light of this we view in retrospect the remarks made by several prospective teachers of the Class of '57 in the March Etowanian. Among the reasons given for choosing the teaching profession were: a genuine interest in teaching as a career . . . remembrance of former teachers who made school life a pleasant experience . . . a concern for the growth and development of tomorrow's citizenry . . . and a love of children.

If our young teachers will never forget their reasons for entering their profession, then the feelings of financial insecurity, demands and frustrations will be counter-balanced by more important unmaterialistic rewards.

April Showers

This is the time of year that is traditionally noted for weather as unpredictable as "Arnold's" lady friends pictured at the bottom of this page.

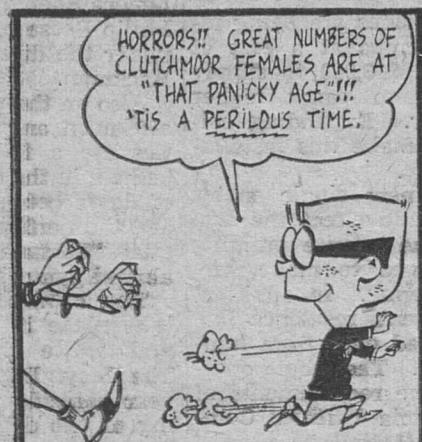

Whenever April rains tend to drop us into depressive moods, we ought to remember that it does not do any harm to smile and wish someone a "good-morning" even if the sun isn't shining. By the same token, whistling or singing a song like "It's a Good Day" on a rainy day can do wonders towards lifting a person's spirits.

May Day

We look forward with interest to May Day and all its color and glamour. The festivities this year will start with the crowning of the Queen and be followed by the dedication service for the new women's dormitory, a fellowship supper and the presentation of the operetta, "The Fortune Teller" climaxing the activities of the day.

We, too, will miss the cry of "play ball" in the afternoon, but we will try to heed the advice of an older baseball personality and "Wait till next year!"

ARNOLD

Off The Beaten Track

by Jim Yeingst

Ya' know, this is the kind of column where a guy can let his thoughts and observations of campus life really run free, that is if he has any thoughts and observations of campus life here.

For example we're amazed at the extraordinary happenings that pop up amidst the routine of meals and classes.

It might be something like that decrepit old hat that was discovered hanging from the top of the gym scoreboard during the solemnity of a chapel program. We still can't figure out how it got there or how long it has been dangling there.

Or maybe it's a slip of the tongue that can spice up life around here. Dr. Harry Beck astute professor of American History, came up with a dandy one recently.

In talking about American efforts to mediate the Russo-Japanese War he pointed out that after peace had been achieved both hands shook sides."

We took no small amount of pride in the terrific response of the student body when an appeal was made for blood for Mrs. Charles Apgar, professor of Biology, who was severely injured in an auto accident late last month. Reports from the Student Activities Office indicate that the number of donors who volunteered to give blood was "overwhelming."

Our congratulations to Hazel Yoder, who was elected captain of the girls' basketball team. Hazel, a steady and consistent personality, did a fine job, we understand.

Incidentally a vote of thanks is due Bob Goudie, senior class president, for his efforts in handling the various arrangements that are involved in ordering announcements, caps and gowns, and the other items that go with graduation.

King Leaving

If you've heard the rumor that Dr. King is leaving the campus next year, you can believe it. It's true. We'll miss him.

The alumni office had a tremendous job in mailing out the college catalogues for next year. We understand 3,350 of them were packed, addressed and sent all over the country.

Reunions Going Soft?

There's a report around campus that Dr. Reuning has gone soft and is now giving objective type tests in American Government. We never thought we'd see the day.

Our sympathies go out to Wanda Cardella (that's her middle name) Sprow and her staff on the CONESTOGAN. This is the most hectic time of the year for them because that need for last-minute copy and other material is slowly driving them to tranquilizer pills.

Members of the yearbook staff get nothing out of their efforts but fun, experience and a bad case of nerves.

ONE MAN'S OPINIONJr. Variety Show and One-act Plays Reveal Hidden Campus Talent Here

by Jack Way

The varied performers participating in the Junior Class production "Fabulous Flickers" indicate to us that students of this college have ability and talent heretofore unrecognized.

The week following "Fabulous Flickers" Mrs. Enterline's Dramatic Productions class presented two nights of one-act plays that displayed the acting ability of our students.

The most impressive performance in the plays was Chekov's "The Boor." We feel that the perfection of the accent of the performers was the one factor giving this play somewhat of an edge as far as performance goes.

We didn't get to see the second night of one-act plays, but feel that they were successful if nearly as good as the first night's performance.

At this point we would like to mention the variety of the acts in the "Fabulous Flickers." There were so many unique acts and so many different performers that we feel the necessity to compliment the hard work of the director and his crew who put in long hours to perfect the show. The dancing was outstanding through the evening and no two dances were alike.

The MC work of Gerry Wolfe was an outstanding feature of the show and the settings and background material under the supervision of George Gerlach added polish to the show.

It seems impossible to commend all those people who were tantamount to the actors and musicians in the two week-ends of entertainment at Elizabethtown College. There was one facet outstanding in the performances; not too often did the same face appear. By this we see that there is more talent than we had suspected on our campus. The two different types of shows gave more students a chance to show their talents and excell in the field of their choice.

Mrs. Enterline was faculty advisor for the junior class production and also director and adviser for the one-act plays. We commend her on her versatility and aptness in handling the productions.

A word of gratitude to the publicity crew for the "Fabulous Flickers" who worked diligently to let the public know about the production. Jim Pannebaker headed this committee.

This may seem rudimentary to many (these compliments), but we recall that the week of heaviest rehearsal was the week of mid-semester tests, and those people who worked the hardest studied just as those who were not affiliated with the show.

We feel that not every college of this size can produce two week-ends of entertainment with as much success. So, again we say, orchids to both groups for two memorable week-ends.

News and Nonsense
from
Other Campuses

The bunch at Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at Oregon State College recently celebrated something they referred to as "We Hate Women" week. Members and pledges wore their "mungiest" clothes, boarded up doors and windows of the house, and circled their lawn with barbed wire, according to a report from the camp paper DAILY BAROMETER.

Those who were able grew beards, and all refrained from speaking to women in a desperate attempt to prove that "every man is an island."

The stated reason behind the move: "The men are weary of continually trying to maintain their best appearance. They want a vacation."

Marriage and college are a common combination these days, but check these doings as reported by the Washington State College DAILY EVERGREEN. It seems one student, Mrs. Donald E. Kissinger, took motherhood AND final examination week in stride.

She was taken to the hospital to prepare for the arrival of son Robert and while there took the last examination on her week's schedule. Her husband was kind enough to register her for the second semester.

Three "library types" were defined and deplored in a recent DAILY CALIFORNIAN editorial.

There is the chatterbox who must discuss the latest campus political issue or dating technique of a certain fraternity man as soon as she gets settled in the reading room.

There are the lovers whose actions almost force everyone else to stop and speculate on what will happen next.

And there is the groaner, who moans and sighs with every line he reads.

We think there are a few more types here at Elizabethtown. For example, the dictionary dropper, the chair scraper, the table mover and the highly audible whisperer.

Rudder Committee Plans New Edition

The Rudder committee, headed by Maynard Gunstra, is planning the new edition to be presented to the freshman class in September.

Also included on the committee are Peggy Mills, Bruce Tinglof, Elizabeth Lefever and Bette Jane Holman.

The committee plans to have copy ready for the printer before the end of this semester.

Talent Show Cast

The Junior Class will entertain the entire cast of "Fabulous Flickers" at a party on Saturday, May 4 from 4 to 10 p. m. in Long's Park, Lancaster.

Afternoon activities will include baseball, badminton, tennis and other outdoor sports. After supper there will be reminiscences, a scavenger hunt, and other activities climaxed by group singing.

Planning the affair are James Pannebaker, chairman; Audrey Kilhefner, John Hollinger, Peggy Mills, Bruce Tinglof, Elizabeth LeFever, Jay Greider and Gerald Wolff.

Guest of honor will be Mrs. Mildred Enterline, faculty adviser to the cast. Other guests will be Prof. Clarence Enterline and Dean Paul Green and family. Prof. Greene is class adviser.

Landscaping Project Of Class of '57 Begun

by Jonathan Smith

Two scarlet oaks and 50 Japanese box holly are already growing in the island in front of the new women's residence, as a memorial to the Class of 1957. Planted several weeks ago, they are the forerunners of eight Rock contoneasters and 400 Baltic ivy plants to be set out at a cost of $500. A marker will complete the planting.

All seeding around the new women's residence will be completed this spring, according to K. E. Bucher, director of the development program. All the walks in the rear of the building will also be macadamized. In addition, the first of five scheduled plantings has been completed.

Campus Chest Drive
Has Reached $242

The Campus Chest has thus far raised $242 in a drive to support a Hungarian refugee student at Elizabethtown next year.

Another drive is tentatively scheduled by the Campus Chest committee for the purpose of obtaining the goal of $300. After the goal is reached plans can be made for the choice of a student.

Contributions have been received through collections in a special assembly, at basketball games, and in a box provided in the college store.

Ford Foundation Seeks to Promote College Teaching

An intensive, nationwide effort to combat the mounting shortage of teachers in the nation's colleges was inaugurated early this month with an announcement by the Ford Foundation, according to information received by A. C. Baugher, president.

An appropriation of $25 million has been made available by the Ford Foundation for a large-scale extension and development of the National Woodrow Fellowship Program. The foundation's action will support a broad program to attract able college students into the academic profession and will provide graduate fellowships to potential college teachers at the rate of 1,000 a year for the next five years.

Individual awards, which will be applied to tuition and living expenses for the first year of graduate study, are expected to average $2,200, Dr. Baugher was informed.

Students interested in applying for fellowships may do so by contacting Dean Roy McAuley.

Will Arrive Soon

The 1956-57 Conestogan is expected to be ready for delivery by the week of final examinations. Editor Wanda Sprow reports the theme of the yearbook is "The College as the Sculptor of the Individual."

To carry out the theme photographs of works of several famous sculptors have been obtained from the Metropolitan Museum of Art and will be placed on the divider pages. Creations by Rodin, Myron and others will be reproduced.

There will be 575 copies printed of the new Conestogan. The Associated Collegiate Press which judges and gives ratings to yearbooks does so by placing them in categories according to the enrollment of the colleges.

This year's edition will be entered into competition with other schools in the 500-1000 student category. The 1955-56 yearbook, edited by Dorothy Stotz, received an All-American rating in the 100-500 student group.

Miss Sprow's staff includes: Peggy Hostetter, assistant editor; Kenneth Bowers, sports editor, assisted by Carl Denlinger and Jeanne Risser; Layton Fireng and Albert Rogers, photography; Joan Rigler and Shirley Heller, make-up; Pauline Wolfe, Verna Weaver and Audrey Sprenkle, index staff; Yvonne Brubaker, Gloria Keller, Dorothy Spotts and Jim Yeingst, literary staff; Glenn Bixler, business manager; Joyce Schaffner, Barbara Theel and Dorothy Mudrinich, typists.

Prof. Clarence Enterline is serving as advisor to the yearbook staff.

Fourteen members of the Political Science Club participated in the three-day meeting of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government held in Harrisburg prior to the Easter vacation.

In the election for the speakership, Curtis Reiber, chairman of the local delegation and candidate of central region colleges, lost by seven votes to James Dunworth of Drexel.

Two Elizabethtown students were successful in having their bills brought out of committee meetings and passed by the general assembly of 600 students representing 55 Pennsylvania colleges.

With the Classes

Dr. O. F. Stambaugh, professor of chemistry, accompanied Nancy Swanson and John Ranck to the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Student Chemists at the University of Delaware on Saturday.

This is the first year that students from Elizabethtown attended the affair. Last year Dr. Stambaugh helped to judge the research papers which are presented by chemistry students from the various colleges between the Delaware River and Juniata.

Baseball Nine Trips F.M. 4-3; Even Season Mark at 2 and 2

A NINTH-INNING 4-3 VICTORY over F.M. last Wednesday evened the record of the Blue Jay baseball nine at 2 wins and 2 losses. The win followed losses to Temple and Washington and a victory over Lebanon Valley.

Al Barrick, who had three successive singles, scored an unearned run from second base with one out to climax the comeback victory over F.M., who was ahead 3-0 at one time.

Sheldon Dent went the distance to win his second game against one defeat, allowing six hits while striking out five and walking three.

The Blue Jays slashed out nine one-base hits and coupled them with four Diplomat errors to notch this squeaker in the first game played in real baseball weather. Bob Wert and Barrick led the attack with three hits apiece.

The Blue Jay baseballers will be home on Friday of this week for a tilt with Lebanon Valley and then again on Monday when Albright will be on hand to furnish the opposition.

Coach Don Smith's netmen are also slated for Wednesday when they will play the U. of Scranton on the latter's courts. On Monday and Tuesday of next week they'll be host to Albright and Dickinson respectively.

the Jays mauled the Dutchmen 15-9 back on April 11. Sheldon Dent notched his first win and Jim Sarbaugh and Barrick homered in the tilt at Annville.

Washington Wins

In the season's lid-lifter, five E-town errors allowed four unearned runs enabling Washington to cop a 7-3 victory on the local diamond. The Jays collected 11 safeties but left 13 men stranded on the base paths.

Spring Intra-Murals Get Underway

Spring intra-murals are in full bloom right now with Polly Wolfe, Mary Bovaird, Joan Rigler and Lorell Price directing two tournaments and two softball leagues.

Nearly completed is a badminton tournament for mixed couples organized by Miss Wolfe. Surviving the third round were Adele Taschner and Sheldon Dent, Prof. and Mrs. Heilmann, Kay Barron and Don Price, Miss Risser and Dean Greene, and Audrey Kilhefner and John Hollinger. The fourth round is scheduled to be completed by May 4.

Mary Bovaird is in charge of a two-team softball league for the women. Jimmie Lou Cox and Corrine Fauntleroy captain the teams which meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings. Miss Cox's team was victorious in the first outing.

The women are also engaged in a tennis tournament under the direction of Joan Rigler. The tourney began last week.

A seven-team softball league for the men is slated to begin action this week. Teams will be divided according to dorm, commuting and downtown students. Lorell Price is in charge of the league.

No specific playing dates have been designated for these games so all players should consult the bulletin boards for that information.

Charlie Groff, Don Price and Ben Belicic captured singles victories to even the count at 3-3 in the home contest with the Marauders, but only Belicic and Sal Paone were victorious in doubles.

One day earlier, the Blue Jays captured their first win of the year when they trimmed Juniata 6-3 on the local courts. Kent Replegole, Paone, Price and Belicic all mustered singles wins as John Smith and Groff, and Replegole and Price scored in doubles.

Before that Groff, Replegole and Paone plus the Replegole-Price doubles combo slammed out victories, but in a losing cause as Washington College took the season opener, 5-4.

Examinations Set For Fast Grading

In order to give professors time to grade and hand in senior and two-year student examinations early, these students will complete their tests during the first part of examination week, May 27-31.

This juggling of the schedule means that most freshmen will have their finals late in the week, and that it will not be unusual for a student to have three examinations in one day.

Tests for multiple schedule courses such as English composition or Bible have been placed as close together as possible, to rule out the necessity of professors having to make up several different examinations for one course.

Coffee hours will be held from 9:30 to 10:30 each morning under the maple trees east of Alpha hall. In case of rain they will be moved to the recreation room under Memorial hall.

In the way of information to new and commuting students after your last examination has been completed school is officially over for the year, no matter what day of the week you are finished. Also, on days when you have no exam scheduled it is not necessary to be on campus. Chapel services for Friday, May 31, have been waived.

Thank You

(The following note was received from Mrs. Charles Apgar, who was seriously injured in an auto accident some weeks ago. Her recovery is now assured.)

"As I recover and reflect on the wonderful response of my friends in these months of anguish, I deeply appreciate all of your attentions, from the replenishment of my blood to your individual thoughts and prayers. The success of my recovery has not been my own doing."

Student Senate Seeks Freshman Week Moderation

Freshman Week may not be as trying to members of next year's class if a proposal adopted by the present Student Senate is accepted by the new student government.

The proposal calls for the abandonment of the Sophomore Rules Committee in favor of a Senate-supervised Sophomore Orientation Committee and the changing of the name of the week from "initiation" to "orientation."

In a statement attacking the current initiation program, the Senate pointed out that Freshman Week should be used as a time of orientation and adjustment to college life.

"It not only creates problems, antagonism and loss of respect for personalities, but as a carry over effect it is detrimental to the entire college life and the students' attitudes to it," the Senate said in a prepared statement.

The new Senate is expected to take action on the Freshman Week program for September in the near future.

The most likely consequence will be a partial acceptance of the present Senate's proposal, a spokesman said.

100 Students Set For Summer School

Nearly 100 students have already enrolled for summer courses offered at Elizabethtown College for the coming season. Two sessions from June 10 through July 12 and July 15 through August 16 will offer a variety of courses including basic sciences especially adapted for the chiropractic profession and certification of teachers.

Registration will be held on the first day of each session from 8 to 9 a.m. Regular professors will be teaching their usual courses.

Three additional instructors, Miss Ethel B. Wenger, special consultant of the Cumberland County School System and president of the Elizabethtown College Auxiliary; Dr. Lester Myer, special education director of the State Department and Dr. Jack Kough, director of the Program Development, Science Research Associates will conduct a two-week workshop in special education from June 12 through June 25.

Dean Roy McAuley said there is a definite increase in interest in summer sessions and that approximately one-half of this year's enrollment is made up of students presently in college.

Six Students Named Dept. Prize Winners

Six students have been named to receive awards for outstanding work in the various academic departments of the college.

Winners and their prizes are: Charles F. Kekich, Weaver Biology Prize; Theodore C. Yohe, Royer Bible Prize; William Stoneback, Weaver-Ziegler Christian Leadership Prize; Nancy Swanson, Butterbaugh Chemistry Prize; Robert Blessing, Kettering Accounting Prize, and Carl Denlinger, Raffensperger Journalism Prize.

The awards will be presented at commencement.

Sophs Plan Fun Night

A night of fun has been planned by the sophomore class for next Friday. Scheduled to begin at 7:30, it will include square dancing, a hayride and a doggie roast.

60 Men, 40 Women Granted Degrees; Exercises in Dell

by Carl Denlinger

The 55th annual commencement will take place in the dell in the northwest part of the campus at 10 a.m., June 3. One hundred students will be graduated in this first outdoor commencement since 1949 when Dr. Howard Moody Morgan addressed 102 graduates at the 47th commencement exercises.

Pres. A. C. Baugher will confer honorary degrees upon Judge Harold R. Medina, Mr. John F. Steinman and Rev. John Robinson. Judge Medina, who will address the graduates on the subject "The Whole Man," is the judge of the U. S. District Court who presided over the trial of 11 top U. S. Communists in 1949. He will receive the honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

Mr. John F. Steinman, co-publisher of the Lancaster newspaper, will receive the Doctor of Laws degree and the Rev. John Robinson, pastor of the Ephrata Church of the Brethren, will receive the Doctor of Divinity degree.

Gertrude Royer Meyer will play the processional and recessional and the college choir, under the direction of Prof. Nevin W. Fisher, will sing the selections. Rev. Carl W. Ziegler of Lebanon will give the invocation and Rev. John (Continued on Page 6)

Alumni Day, June 1, Offers Baseball, Banquet, Symposium for Old Grads

by Dan Peterman

Eleven classes will celebrate reunions at the 52nd annual alumni day here at the college on Saturday, June 1.

Beginning with an alumni council session at 9 a.m. and ending with the alumni-senior banquet at 6 p.m., several hundred past graduates are expected to be here to enjoy the full day of activities.

Special reunions of the classes of '02 and '07 will meet at the home of Dr. Schlosser, class of '17 and '32 at President Baugher's home, and class of '47 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Reinhold, 411 Snyder avenue.

The '26, '27, '28 classes will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, 75 College avenue and '51, '52 and '53 classes will meet in the Alpha Hall living room. These sessions will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

Other morning and early afternoon activities will include an alumni council luncheon at 12 noon in the college dining room and a baseball game between Elizabethtown and the University of Scranton at 1:30.

The banquet, to be held in the new dining hall, is expected to attract about 350 guests. Toastmaster for the affair will be Louise Baugher Black, '46, president of the Alumni Association. The invocation will be offered by the Reverend Daniel A. Scott, '32, pastor of the Bethany Baptist Church, Chester, Pa.

After introduction of the class of 1957 by Robert L. Goudie, president, greetings are to be given by A. C. Baugher, president of the college, J. W. Kettering, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Ethel M. B. Wenger, president of the Women's Auxiliary.

First-Class Ranking Received by Etownian

The ETOWNIAN was one of ten college newspapers in its field to receive a first-class rating for first semester, according to an announcement by the Associate Collegiate Press, which judged the paper.

The paper's total point score was 1,650, 50 short of the quota for All-American recognition. All editorial and make-up factors were ranked high by the ACP.

Baugher to Moderate Brethren Conference

Pres. A. C. Baugher will attend and preside over the annual General Conference of the Church of the Brethren to be held June 16 to 23 at Richmond, Virginia.

Elected as moderator in June, 1956, President Baugher, in this capacity, serves as the titular head of the Church of the Brethren. He will preside over all business sessions of both the Standing Committee and the plenary sessions.

The General Conference will be attended by delegates from 49 districts in the United States and the mission fields in Africa, India, South America and Puerto Rico, and by delegates from more than 1,000 congregations.

Regarding An Honor System

Members of the Student Senate have proposed that an honor system be initiated here at Elizabethtown College in the near future.

Is there a need for such a system?

According to one national survey, there is. The survey found that 40 per cent. or more students at a large number of colleges cheat on examinations and do it without an apology, or sense of wrong-doing.

While the percentage may vary here, there can be no doubt that some cribbing on examinations does exist on this campus. It ranges in degree from hurried, surreptitious glances on another person's paper to outright use of crib sheets during the examination.

Students who resort to these methods generally look upon exams and the earning of grades as a game between themselves and the professor. If the class is marked on a curve it's the old story of the devil taking the hindmost.

And so, we heartily support the introduction of an honor system at Elizabethtown.

However, we hasten to point out that mere legislation on the part of the Student Senate and the Administration will not create an honest, respected system.

Honor in examinations, in the final analysis, rests squarely with the individual student. Any honor system must of necessity begin with the personal integrity of those who are expected to comply with the system.

An honor system can be successful here, but the degree of its success depends upon the individual student and the decision he makes in the deep and quiet turnings of his own considered judgment.

If we can't trust ourselves, whom can we trust?

Diligence Recognized

In recognition of their superior academic ability several members of the senior class have been notified that they will be graduated with honors at the coming commencement exercises. To these students go our heartiest congratulations.

Few can realize the great effort that is required for even the most gifted student to maintain the scholastic average needed for cum laude recognition. Their diligence is to be admired, their ability respected, and their example followed.

Thanks and Farewell

The editor wishes to thank those who assisted in any way in the publication of the ETOWNIAN during the year. In particular, credit is due the members of the staff, who are listed in the masthead below; the staff of the Elizabethtown CHRONICLE for their patience and assistance; and Miss Vera Hackman, adviser, who unselfishly gave her time and ability as a journalist.

It was our desire to give Elizabethtown College a paper of which it could be proud this year. We hope that we have accomplished our objective.

Next year we are sure that the new editor and his staff will carry the ball in a manner that will bring credit to the school. Our best wishes go out to them.

Off The Beaten Track

by Bob Balthaser

Since this will be the last time we stroll away from the beaten track together until next fall, suppose we do a little reminiscing. These old stomping grounds aren't going to seem the same come September because so many people won't be back.

For the sake of the departing graduates here is an article with both humor and wisdom. These excerpts are from a column entitled "Reading in Writing" written by Jerry Kobrin several years ago for the Reading, Pa., Eagle.

College graduates are about to matriculate in the school of experience, where the class colors are black and blue and the class yell is "Ouch!" . . . A college education never hurts anyone who is willing to learn something afterwards. . . . A man with a degree and ten cents can get a cup of coffee in any diner. . . . The graduation ceremony is called commencement, because that's when life's little headaches commence.

"If no person dropped out of school before the eighth grade, who would hire the college graduates? . . . This is the time of year when the young man, who worked so hard to graduate, wonders what the hurry was. . . . A B.A. is a degree which means that the holder has mastered the first two letters of the alphabet. . . . Some girls go to college to get an M.A.; others go to get an M.A.N."

Even Jerry Garland's best friends didn't tell him, but when he walked into his room in South Hall the other Sunday night he discovered for himself that he had had visitors while he was gone. There were newspapers taped to the ceiling and junk of all shapes and sizes piled waist high in his room.

The campus girls held a block party in front of their dormitory several Fridays ago. It all started after somebody barricaded both ends of their driveway with cement blocks the night before. The following day at lunch-time the gals organized and used an old-fashioned bucket brigade type line to cart all the blocks back to their proper places. We don't suppose they got union rates for their work; nothing but raw fingers and laughs.

A Final Salute to Those Who Served The Student Body During the Year

With the sands of the 1956-'57 school year running low, it's time to recognize the efforts of those who have played a prominent role in campus activities since last September. The people mentioned below have, from the editor's point of view, served the student body consistently and well.

To these people we offer a parting pat on the back:

Dean Roy McAuley, who in his first year on campus established himself as a man fully capable of performing the duties of his office in an open, friendly and efficient manner.

Miss Emma R. Engle, registrar, who smoothed out some of the administrative snags that go hand in hand with a record enrollment.

Eby C. Espenshade, who, as director of admissions and alumni secretary, carried a double load, and performed creditably in both capacities.

Miss Vera Hackman, dean of women and director of student activities, whose activities served everyone on campus at some time during the year.

D. Paul Greene, dean of men, who did all that was asked of him, and more, in playing mother hen to the male student body.

K. Ezra Bucher, development secretary, whose work in spearheading the campus expansion program resulted in the new dorm for women.

Mrs. Alice Heilman, librarian, who was always ready to help anyone any time.

Wanda Sprow, editor of the CONESTOGAN, who had her hands full from the time school started.

Robert Balthaser, Carl Denlinger and Kenneth Bowers, kingpins of the ETOWNIAN staff, whose efforts made the paper's first year as an eight-page publication a success.

Donald Starr and Glenn Bixler, business managers of the ETOWNIAN and CONESTOGAN respectively, who went out and sold for the sake of their publications.

Jay Lutz, Senate president, who had his problems as the year progressed.

James Pannebaker, publicity chairman for the junior class production, FABULOUS FLICKERS, who organized a topnotch campaign.

Pauline Wolfe, Senate secretary, who never said "no" when needed for a job.

If space allowed, we could mention the members of our athletic teams, whose exploits were covered during the year in this paper. We could point out the work of the college choir, the student election committee, those who worked in the Campus Chest Drive, and those who took part in the various college stage productions. All played a part in writing the story of this school year.

DEGREES, CERTIFICATES IN SIGHT

Class of '57 at Graduation Portals

Their academic training almost behind them, most of the members of the Class of '57 are ready to begin the more practical job of earning a living on the basis of what they've learned during their college life. Others are planning to further their education through graduate school programs.

With the help of Verna Weaver, Shirley Prange, Wanda Sprow and Pauline Wolfe, the ETOWNIAN conducted a survey to find out where graduates would be going and what they'd be doing after receiving their degrees.

The members of the class with their degrees and post-graduation plans or major fields follow:

Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts Degree

Mary Lou Armstrong, teaching; John Raymond Brubaker, graduate school at Princeton University; Charles W. Corley, social studies; Inna Daniloff, teaching; Carl Richard Denlinger, teaching at Upper Leacock High School.

Miss Emma Engle, registrar, announced the names of the top five in the class of '57.

Record Enrollment, Catalog Changes Set for Next Year

The enrollment for 1957-58 is expected to reach a record high of 600 with the probable addition of 225 new students. At present complete matriculation fees have been received from 150 prospective students, according to Eby Espenshade, Director of Admissions. There are still a number of openings for day students and men boarding students, however, he stated.

Several academic changes have been made and are listed for the first time in the 1957-58 college catalog. The single fee that covers all a resident student's expenses for a year has been raised from $1060 to $1145 ($1196 for students in the New Women's Residence Hall). The expenses for day students will be raised from $550 to $600.

In reference to these changes Dean Roy McAuley stated, "The cost of attending Elizabethtown College is still below the average of most other privately owned educational institutions in Pennsylvania, even with the increase in cost."

Pre-registration Fee
A pre-registration matriculation fee of $25 is required of all students planning to return to college next fall. The fee is applicable to the first semester's account and is payable before July 1. A late registration fee of $10 will be charged any student who fails to register at the specified time.

Withdrawal charges have undergone a change also. If a student withdraws after one week no charge will be made. Later withdrawals will be charged increasingly dependent upon the period of attendance. A notice of voluntary withdrawal must be given in writing to the Dean of the College.

These new courses have been added to the curriculum for next year: Recent History of the United States, Dramatic Production and a course in Play Direction.

Students other than education majors will be able to substitute some other history course in the place of History of the United States and Pennsylvania, formerly required of all students. The course remains a state requirement for prospective teachers.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing

Gimmie Lu Cox, Lancaster General Hospital; Louise A. Tarbutton, Wilmington Hospital; and Barbara Loban Witman, Harrisburg General Hospital.

Certificate in Secretarial Science

Carole Joann Bossinger, Mary F. Bovaird, Lois Jean Countryman, Barbara Jean Darlington, Della Mae Detwiler and Lois V. Hershberger.

Certificate in Medical Secretarial Science

H. Marguerite Dum, Marianne E. Eicholtz, Frances E. Hoover, Jane E. McCullough, Sylvia D. Shaffer and Barbara C. Smith.

Certificate in Medical Technology

Margaret Mills.

News and Nonsense from Other Campuses

With final examinations starting us in the face here, we thought this bit of information from the Ohio University POST would be of interest:

A survey conducted by the paper found that students generally got more sleep during the week of finals than during the normal school year. And "A" students seemed to have slept more than anyone.

One honor scholar recommended "taking cat naps during the afternoon to revive oneself from the tension of exams."

Other suggestions: Study the subject broadly and don't bother with details.

Have two free days before exams to review (ha!!!).

However, one coed came up with the most logical answer to the problem. Her solution: Take snap courses.

Jose Weizenblot, a Honduran student at the University of Connecticut, came up with some earthly observations on American campus life.

He reported in the DAILY CAMPUS that "fraternity parties are great, university students are often apathetic concerning government and politics, and girls worry too much about getting fat."

Why do some students "succeed" scholastically in college while others fail? Lehigh University's BROWN AND WHITE asked that question and came up with a variety of answers.

Factors mentioned were: Good high school training, conducive study atmosphere, "a good beginning," too much time spent on hobbies, "luck," lack of genuine interest, and dull instructors.

* * *

There's been a lot of talk and snide remarks passed about the over-emphasis of athletics at certain colleges and universities. And this report from the Iowa State College DAILY seems to bear out the contentions of those who argue that the time has come to draw the line.

The DAILY's story pointed out that a new football coach had been hired at the school at a salary of $14,000. The University of Iowa coach gets $17,500.

According to the paper, the only state employees receiving more than the university coach are the presidents of the two above-mentioned schools.

(We wonder about the state of faculty morale there).

"We cannot see the justice," says the University of Kansas DAILY KANSAN, in allowing married students to compete with unmarried students in "Marriage and the Family."

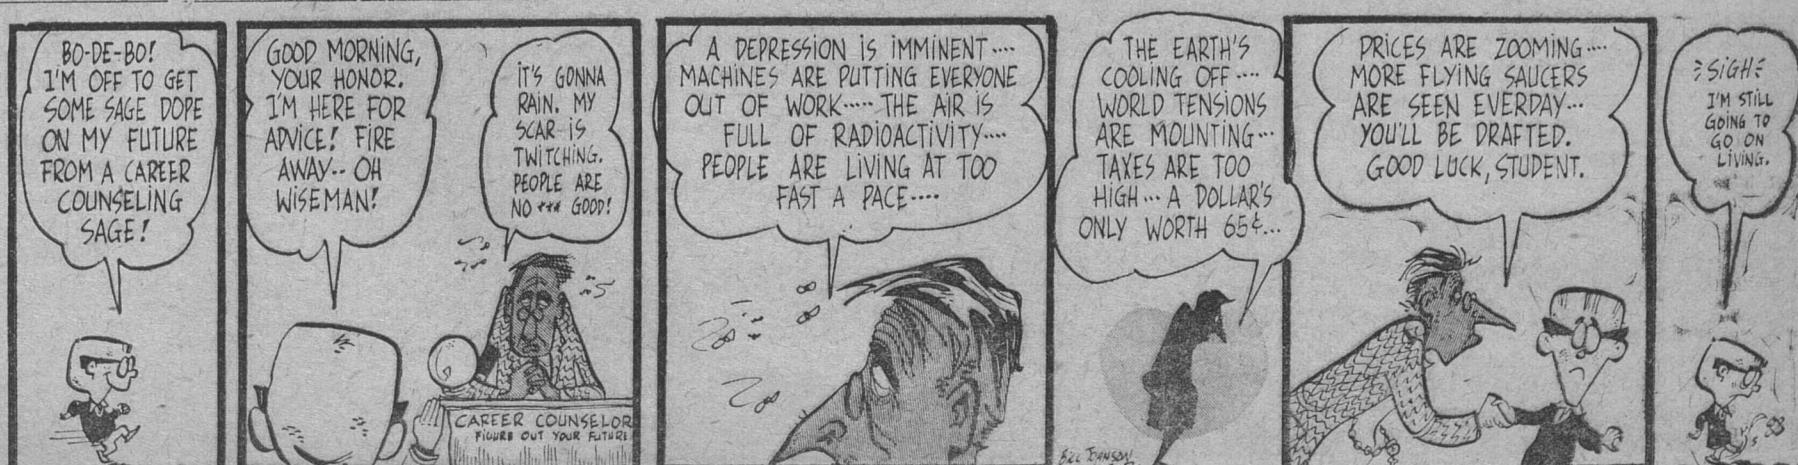

"Perhaps an arrangement could be made where the unsingles would not be asked to come to class until the second half of the course is being taught."

Chalk up another triumph for married life.

Pres. Baugher Named To Education Committee

Pres. A. C. Baugher was appointed as the official representative from The Association of American Colleges to The American Association for the Advancement of Science to serve on the Committee for The Preparation of Science and Mathematics Teachers.

MAY DAY, 1957: A TIME OF DEDICATION

MAY DAY TRADITION . . . The campus May Pole is wound by members of the freshman class during ceremonies in the dell, May 11. Taking part in the custom were: Joyce Haller, Mary Lou Shepp, Connie Hyden, Adele Taschner, Carroll Hall, Edith Gebhart, Marilyn Mellinger, Dorothy Hyde, Barbara Yohe, Bette Jane Holman, Barbara Zimmerman and Ruth Zeigler. The pole was wound with pink and white streamers.

THE QUEEN IS CROWNED . . . Miss Martha Bucher, a member of the board of trustees, adjusts the crown on the head of Queen Audrey Sprenkle to climax the court ceremony. Class presidents Robert Goudie, '57, John Hollinger, '58, Colvin Carter, '59 and Frederick Zimmerman, '60, presented the traditional gifts to the queen—the garland, globe, scepter and footstool. The crown-bearer is Sandra Hart.

DEDICATED . . . The new women's residence hall was formally dedicated May Day during ceremonies at the Church of the Brethren, Elizabethtown. The Act of Dedication was led by Pres. A. C. Baugher. Dr. William Edel, president of Dickinson College, delivered the main address. The dormitory was erected as a result of the College Development Program at a cost of $721,000. It houses 130 women and is the site of the all-campus dining hall. It is shown here in its final stages of completion.

EDICATION, PAGEANTRY, TRADITION

QUEEN, MAID AND COURT . . . Audrey Sprenkle, campus queen of May, stands surrounded by her court on the steps of the new women's residence, which was dedicated as part of the May Day program. Members of the court are (l. to r.): Sylvia Santee, '60; Frances Hoover, '59; Esther Hershman, '58; Barbara Theel, '57; Maid of Honor Pauline Wolfe, '57; Miss Sprenkle, '57; Wanda Sprow, '57; Rachel Keller, '58; Martha Reese, '60; and Phyllis Moser, '59.

AS THE QUEEN REIGNS . . . Members of the student body perform in a pageant set against a background of a southern plantation garden party. Taking part were: Kay Barron, Virginia Horton, Larry Seiders and Jay Greider, tumblers, and Jeanne Risser, Carolyn Schneider, Mary Langdon, Ruth Ann Yeager, Russell Lefever, Curtis Reiber, Terry Bush, Lee Miller and Carl Spease, ladies and gentlemen of the plantation.

MUSICAL BACKDROP . . . The Elizabethtown College orchestra, directed by Noah Klauss, provided the musical settings for the ceremony of the crowning and throughout the program. One of the high points of the day's affair was the performance of the stately waltz, "Roses from the South," in which the plantation personnel danced.

American Popular Music on Skids
As Rock and Roll Hits New Low

by John E. Way, Jr.

(Editor's Note—The following is a personalized view of the history of American popular music as seen by ETOWNIAN staffer, John E. Way, Jr.)

Who remembers the key chains that hung below the knee and pegged trousers that needed zippers at the ankles? How about the double-roll jacket that was tailored and hung almost to the knees with the wide hat decorated with a prodigious feather? Who remembers the zoot suiters when they had reached the pinnacle of existence when certain of their clan had the audacity to print a new "Dictionary of Bop Language?"

Bop Language: "Cool man." "Drag it." "Play the Role." "Well all reet." "Hubba Hubba." "Ou Bop Shabam."

It wasn't Daddy-O or Houndog. It wasn't discordant guitars. It wasn't swivel-hipped ecstasy, but it was the forerunner to the present Rock 'n' Roll. The zoot suit has died and the black leather jacket has been born.

The one question that plagues us is: Will the clothing make the musician?

Those bovine individuals who sit on the siding and watch the social freight train pass them, may declare its irrelevance to the national or international scene. Yet, we feel the impact every day when an adolescent screams herself into semiconsciousness at the sound of a voice that cannot truthfully boast of any timber or quality that will exist for more than a few short years. Caruso is not reincarnated into every new Rock 'n' Roll singer.

Furthermore, there is no real composition in modern music. New songs are on the assembly line and the sooner the public gets them, the sooner the crooner becomes a millionaire.

If the prostitution of art in order to acquire fabulous riches is the graph for today's musicians, we had better look closer to find who the real artists are.

To find the reason for Rock 'n' Roll we must go back 40 years or more and try to comprehend the ascension of American music in the 20th century.

Started in Storeyville

It started during World War I in Storeyville, New Orleans, where the birth of Dixieland jazz came into a slow existence from the folksongs of the southern Negro.

This was music with feeling; with a story of the frustration of the times. The men who played did so from their hearts, from within themselves, where the hidden reaction to the nuances of life came through the bell of a horn. It was their own expression of hate and love.

One of the big names to come out of Storeyville at this time was Joe (King) Oliver who featured a trumpet player with a sandpaper voice named Louis Armstrong.

After 40 years of playing his type of jazz Louis Armstrong is called the ambassador of jazz throughout the world. He has as great a following in Europe as he does in America.

Sacchmo' (a contraction of Satchel Mouth which has stuck with Armstrong permanently) didn't come from nowhere to the top over night. He struggled for more than half his life believing his type of music would stay forever. For him it did, but not for the young comers who were stretching their musically adolescent arms toward stardom. The young men of the time, such as Kruppa, Goodman and Miller, picked up the mood of jazz and carried it still further into the well-known swing that flourished during the 30's.

Something New

While these musicians were striving to outdo each other with ribald renditions of old standards there was one man who decided to compose and create an entirely new mode and style; he was Edward Ellington, known to millions as the "Duke."

In the early 40's swing was the word and the big bands had the spotlight most of the time, but the trend moved to solo performers and singers found they could make records on their own and earn more money.

This was the death of the short-lived era of swing. Today there are more singers than record space on coin machines, and there is an ever increasing number of young comers all the time.

Be Bop followed but died when the public finally became fed up.

Presently there are many fine and accomplished musicians, but today the American public does not call for fine and accomplished musicians, they call, rather, for the lowest state that American music has ever reached and that is the newest trend known as Rock 'n' Roll which is nothing more than the sound created by a wailing, screaming moron, backed by a loud drummer and a poor excuse for a hill-billy guitarist.

And Now Rock Bottom

If there is a lower depth to which music in America can sink it isn't surmisable to this column. When an individual has to stand at the threshold of immortality in order to drive five Cadillacs and umpteen foreign cars it seems that money is the sole aim of artistry, and if this is true the standard of American music can never climb back to the epitome set by Duke Ellington during the 30's, or Hoagy Carmichael in the early 40's.

It is inevitable that the decadent processes of the times will eventually kill Rock 'n' Roll, but until this slow process takes place there will be gang wars and un-harnessed immorality among the teenagers of the day. This is definitely the second generation zoot suiters. If this is true, what will be the second generation of Rock 'n' Rollers?

At the present time one vocalist is selling seven-inch statues of himself. Can we place the blame on the teenagers? I doubt that we can. The blame can only be placed on the mercenary song writers, recording companies and musicians (if they may be called musicians) who are draining the small change from the teenagers in return for a frenzied music that is so basic it becomes stupid.

Today if a record sells a million the recording company gives the artist a gold record. The teenagers buy these records. But who bought four million records of one song recorded by the late Tommy Dorsey. It was certainly more than teenagers who liked his sentimental music. If one thinks long enough on the subject the comparison is absurd.

Dr. Louise Kelly

Dr. Louise Kelly Named To Head English Dept.

Dr. Louise Kline Kelly, who taught here from 1951 through '53, will return in September as head of the Department of English, according to an announcement by Pres. A. C. Baugher.

A graduate of Skidmore College, N. Y., Dr. Kelly was granted her doctorate by Pennsylvania State University in 1951. She is a native of Wilkes Barre.

She returns to replace Dr. James R. King, who leaves to accept a position with Rutgers University.

GRADUATION NEAR

A. Robinson will give the benediction. Dean Roy McAuley will present the candidates for certificates and degrees.

Most in Liberal Arts

The 100 candidates for degrees are divided into 60 men and 40 women, 11 of the women being married. Liberal Arts students head the list with 27 candidates; closely followed by 23 in elementary education and 20 in business administration.

The others are divided as follows: secondary education, 10; science majors, nine; business education, four; medical technology, four, and science in nursing, three. Six will receive certificates in the two-year secretarial science course and a like number in the two-year medical secretarial science course, with one receiving a certificate in the two-year medical technology course.

Baccalaureate Service

The baccalaureate services will be held in the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren at 3 p.m., Sunday, June 2. Rev. John A. Robinson will preach the sermon "Life's Quest for Adventure" following "The Lord's Prayer" sung by the college choir under the direction of Prof. Nevin W. Fisher.

The Rev. Nevin H. Zuck, pastor of the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren, will give the invocation and the benediction.

Pres. and Mrs. A. C. Baugher will entertain the seniors and their parents at a tea following the service in the lounge of the Women's Residence hall.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESKAs the Year Draws to a Close

The 57th academic year is about to come to its close. It has been a significant year in the history of Elizabethtown College. The most significant event was the completion of the new women's residence hall in January. The modernity of this building, its splendid kitchen, dining room, lounge, infirmary, and the student rooms, throughout the entire building are a worthy memorial to the many friends of Elizabethtown College in general, and to the members of the Church of the Brethren in Eastern and Southern Pennsylvania, who have made the building possible.

Another area of importance for the year 1956-1957 has been the increased student enrollment. The year began in September with 550 regular students. This has been the largest in the history of the college. The growth in the student body has made a larger faculty necessary. The total number on the teaching staff, including both full and part time, was 48.

New and more adequate office space has been provided for the Dean and the Registrar. The alumni of earlier years will be able to locate these offices when I describe them as being in rooms A and B.

The offices vacated by the Dean and the Registrar are now housing the Development offices.

The Year Ahead

The plans for the year beginning next September are for a student enrollment of from 600 to 625. Several additional faculty members have already been appointed. Armon Snowden has been added to teach courses in Religion and Philosophy. Mr. Snowden is currently writing his dissertation for the Ph.D. at Duke University. Professor Byerly continues to head the department.

Dr. James M. Berkebile has been appointed to the Department of Chemistry. He will teach Organic and General Chemistry. Dr. Stambaugh continues as head of the department and will teach the courses in Analytical and Physical Chemistry. Professor Hertzog continues his services in directing the laboratory work in General Chemistry.

Dr. James King, Dr. Harry Beck, H. Ronald Rouse and John Spurling will not be back next year. Dr. King has accepted a position at Rutgers University; Professor Rouse is joining the staff at Tufts College and Dr. Beck has been appointed to the Department of History at the University of Pittsburgh. Professor Spurling will continue his graduate study for the doctorate.

Dr. Louise K. Kelly, Ph.D. from the Pennsylvania State University has been appointed to head the Department of English. Dr. Kelly taught at Elizabethtown College several years ago. More about Dr. Kelly appears elsewhere in this issue.

Several other appointments in Mathematics, Business (Marketing), Education, and Sociology are pending.

Mr. Earl H. Kurtz will join the Administration Staff as treasurer. Mr. Kurtz has been business manager of the Brethren Publishing House in Elgin, Illinois, for the past 17 years. He comes to Elizabethtown with a rich background in business. Prior to his going to Elgin, Mr. Kurtz taught in the Wilmington High School in Delaware. Mr. Kurtz holds the Bachelor of Science degree from Elizabethtown and the Masters in Business Education from New York University. Mrs. Kurtz is the former Esther Myers.

SLANTS On Sports

by KEN BOWERS

Believe it or not, Elizabethtown College recently fielded a women's tennis team (unofficially of course), and the Blue Jay lassies were victorious.

The women, who had field hockey added to their list of opportunities a few years ago, may be well on their way to establishing another sport here and more power to them. Not much had been said recently, but this writer as well as anyone else who enjoys watching the feminine section of the student body running the courts in tennis togs, will vouch for the fact that there's enough talent to field a team that would hold its own.

What's more, Dickinson, Albright and several other nearby colleges are planning to carry the sport next year. Those institutions shouldn't outdo us, and they'll probably be looking for teams to play in the bargain.

On questioning Miss Risser, who incidentally, would make a pretty decent coach, we learned that there is much interest among the women and that some outings will be scheduled with the aforementioned colleges next year if possible—but all on an unofficial basis.

In this light, this writer favors the move for an administration-backed women's tennis team that would engage actively in inter-collegiate competition. Cost would be small and that all-important talent is present on campus.

For the record, the unofficial Jaygal racketeers, in the previously mentioned one-game schedule, handily defeated Albright

Spring Intra-Murals Run According to Schedule; Tennis, Archery Added to Softball, Badminton

Softball, badminton, tennis and archery are currently providing opportunity for students to engage in spring intra-mural competition.

Softball for the men has been organized into an eight-team league with three teams of commuting students and five on-campus teams.

The commuting teams are the Red Sox, the Veterans, and the Royals captained by John Fisher, Larry Drumgold and Ed Schopf, respectively. Don Kunkel captains the Fairview 2nd floor team while Mick Martorana is head of the 3rd floor team.

Bob Balthaser and Dick Dennis are co-captains of the combined Memorial-West Hall team while Don Price and Kent Reploge head the North and South Hall teams in that order.

Currently the Red Sox, the Veterans, and North Hall are deadlocked for first place with 2-0 records.

Women's softball has been organized on a smaller scale under the leadership of Mary Bovaird. Two teams headed by Corrine Fauntleroy and Gimmie Lou Cox have split a pair of games thus far.

This year for the first time, intra-mural tennis and archery are available for the women. Eleven girls entered—the tennis tournament with seven still in the running. Joan Rigler, Kitty Swigart and Deloris Bolze remain undefeated.

Any lass who wishes may come out each Monday and vie for the highest score in target shooting with the bow and arrow. A contest has just been organized and pertinent information is posted on the campus bulletin boards.

The mixed badminton tournament organized by Polly Wolf was entered by 24 couples. The undefeated duet of Kay Barron and Don Price have captured section A and await a couple from section B for a final playoff. Still in the running are Mr. and Mrs. Heilman, Joyce Schaffner and Glenn Bixler, Fran Hoover and Al Barrick, Adele Taschner and Sheldon Dent, and Coach Risser and Dean Greene.

Blue Jay Ballmen Lace Lycoming For 8th Win in Last 9 Outings

THE BLUE JAYS staved off a ninth-inning uprising by Lycoming last week to notch their third victory in a row and their eighth in their last nine games, bringing their record to 9-3. The victory followed wins over Dickinson and Drexel, and an extra-inning defeat by Albright.

Little Gene Bucher pitched a 3-hit shutout for 8 2/3 innings before tiring and yielding three runs. Shelden Dent came on to put out the fire and give the locals a 4-3 decision. Reed, Wert, Wise and Sarbaugh each contributed a pair of singles to the 10-hit attack. Bucher, pitching his first game of the season, showed a good curve ball which fooled eight batters into striking out.

Before the home crowd we defeated Dickinson for the second time as Lefty Wohnsiedler pitched nearly perfect ball in shutting out the Red Devils on three hits. The Blue Jays could garner only four hits themselves, but one was a three-bagger by "Sluggo" Wise with the bases loaded for three of the five runs.

Dump Drexel

A bases-loaded single by Bob Wert in the second inning with two out scored three runs, enough to win the game, as the Blue Jays went on to drub Drexel Tech 9-2, in Philadelphia. Shelden Dent was helped to his fourth victory by ten Jay singles and four enemy errors; getting two singles himself and driving in two runs. Jim Sarbaugh connected safely three times and Wert twice for the brunt of the hitting.

Albright had to go 13 innings before they could squeak across a run to beat Wohnsiedler, 4-3, in a hard-fought battle. A homer by Jack Reed gave Bruce a one-run lead, but the visitors tied it in the bottom of the third. Another round-tripper by Gene Wise, this one with a man on base, in the sixth allowed the Jays to forge ahead; only to see the Lions come back with two walks and two hits to tie in the seventh. It stayed knotted until three walks, a single and a sacrifice won the game in the top of the thirteenth. The Herrmen had their chance in the tenth when Sarbaugh doubled and Wise walked with one out, but couldn't score. This loss broke a five-game winning streak.

Lambast LVC

The Blue and Gray swamped Lebanon Valley at home 11-5, as Dent gave up only 4 hits and was backed by 14 base blows. Sarbaugh, with two singles and a double for five RBI's, and Reed, with a homer and a single led the lumber barrage on three Dutchmen hurlers.

The charges of Coach Herr became unofficial Lancaster County champions when they defeated the MRTC marauders 7-1 on the losers diamond. Earlier we had defeated F. & M. 4-3. "Leftsider" gave up only five hits, one a homer for the only run, and struck out eight as he went the distance for his second victory. Bruce hit a double into the trees and Reed homered in the winning cause.

Win in West Va.

In their longest trip of the season, the Jaymen headed south to West Virginia (and a steak dinner) and defeated Shepherd 7-4, behind the pitching of Glenn Crum. The locals were out-hit 12-7, but the runs are more important. Lowell Price doubled once and singled twice to set the hitting pace followed by Sarbaugh with a single and a double. Zimmerman and Dent had to come in to put down an eighth-inning scare and save Crum his first decision of the season.

Two runs in the seventh inning enabled Lefty to defeat Dickinson 8-7 in their first meeting in Carlisle. Price and Wise had three hits apiece and Jack Reed stole two bases, including home, to run the Red Devils into the ground.

Jay Nine Loses to Susquehanna in Ninth

TWO SINGLES AND AN ERROR in the ninth inning cost Shelly Dent and the Blue Jays a game at Selinsgrove Thursday, when Susquehanna pushed across one run to break a 5-5 deadlock for a 6-5 win.

Dent had come on in relief of Glenn Crum who started the contest for the Jays and allowed four runs in the seven innings he worked.

The locals scored three in the first on four singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly. They added one each in the fourth and fifth frame.

Stan Miller posted four hits for the losing Jays, and Jack Reed added three. Dent's record is now 4-1.

Playoff Hopes Dimmed Following Recent Loss

Rumors of possible NCAA playoffs for the Blue Jay baseball nine were squelched Thursday with the loss to Susquehanna.

Lancaster newspapers and various other sources had indicated the possibility of E-town being in line for some post-season competition.

Even with the good record, chances were small as we would have been bucking Penn State, Layfayette, and various other colleges with big names as well as good teams for the honor of representing this section of Pennsylvania.

Jay Racketmen Nose Out Lycoming 5-4; Season Log Now at 4 Wins, 5 Losses

A 6-2, 6-1 doubles victory by Ben Belicic and Sal Paone enabled the local netmen to squeeze by Lycoming 5-4 in Wednesday's home meet and close in on the .500 mark at four wins and five losses. Excluding Saturday's match with Millersville, two contests remain.

TIME OUT

with

Carl Denlinger

This edition will be the final TIME OUT for this writer and it seems a fitting time to glance back through the 1956-57 Blue Jay sports scrapbook and see how they fared. Of course the baseball season is not yet completed, but with only 3 losses as we go to press, it seems a cinch that Coach Herr will bring home a winning record.

The tennis team has lost a few close ones and seems doomed to a sub .500 season. Coach Smith's netmen, Coach Byerly's matmen and Coach Herr's cross country team records which collectively totaled 7 wins and 14 losses to date. But if you couple them with the winning record of Coach Green's soccer team, the highly touted basketball team and the baseball squad which add up to 30 wins 13 losses and 1 tie, and you can see that the men have an above average winning record of 37 wins, 27 losses and 1 tie.

The women of Coach Julia Risser did even better as they lost only one hockey game and two basketball games while winning 7 and 8 respectively for a 15-3 accumulative record. Adding these to the men's records we see the Blue Jays proudly displaying an excellent record for the year with 52 wins, 30 losses, and one tie. This is a very commendable showing and one which we as students, and the athletes themselves should be proud of being a supporter or a contributor.

Those who saw the Millersville baseball game over at the teachers' diamond saw the Blue Jays in a peak performance. The defense was flawless and the bats were producing timely hits. The 6-1 win helped ease the feeling left by the two defeats on the hardwood. A baseball oddity occurred when speedy Jack Reed hit a scorching ground ball which took one bounce on the infield and then rolled between the outfielders for a homer.

Coach Don Smith is using the "ladder" system for the tennis team to fight for positions on the team. This brought about a few changes as Charley Groff moved into the number one spot and our engineering student from Korea, Lan Tai, jumped into the

Besides the doubles win, John Smith, Larry Tai, Belicic and Paone capped singles decisions for Jays in the Lycoming fray.

A week earlier the Smithmen won one and lost two in home meets with Albright and Dickinson and a road match with Gettysburg. They beat the Bullets of G-burg 5-4 with Smith, Charlie Groff and Kent Replogle coming through in singles. The Belicic-Paone doubles combo and the Groff-Smith duo clinched the win with victories.

On May 7, Dickinson came to E-town and outclassed the locals 9-0. The Blue Jays never got started losing every set but one in the rout.

The previous day saw Albright invade the local courts for another decisive win as they thumped the Jays 8-1. Don Price mustered the only Jay win in a three-set duel that went 1-6, 6-2 and 7-5.

In the longest trip of the season, the Jay couriers won by the largest margin thus far when they trounced Scranton University 7-2. Groff, Smith, Replogle, Price and Pete Thompson racked up five of the points while the Groff-Smith and Replogle-Price duets added two more points.

The Blue Jays forfeited the last doubles match as traveling was more important.

Back on April 26, the Jays lost 8-1 at Dickinson. Replogle and Price salvaged a doubles victory for the lone E-town score.

sixth position. Don Price and Kent Replogle have been very effective as doubles partners and have a winning percentage thus far.
